HEAVY DAMAGE BY FLOOD

HOUSE STRUCK; BARN BURNS; IN STORM

Union Township Barn Destroyed Wednesday Night

Loss Of $1,500 Or More At Property Of Prof. R. G. Leslie During Storm.

HORSE PERISHES AS STRUCTURE BURNS

Chimney Is Knocked Off Of Home On Park Avenue By Lightning

New Castle and vicinity was visited last night by one of the most severe electrical storms of the present year and at least two places were struck, fire resulting in one instance, which destroyed the barn of Prof. Roy G. Leslie, principal of the Highland school, the barn being located in the rear of 505 Moore avenue, just outside the city in Union township. The loss was in excess of $1,500.

The barn was filled with hay and other farm products and supplies, which were destroyed. A horse owned by Mr. Leslie was also burned to death, it being impossible to get the animal out before the flames had advanced to the stage where it was impossible to get into the barn, as the fire spread so rapidly after the building was struck. It was but a smouldering mass of ruins in a few minutes.

The building was struck about 7:35 p. m., during the heaviest part of the storm and was burned

SMITH BADLY HURT IN FALL

Second Floor Porch Gives Way And Man Falls Through.

While making a delivery of tea and coffee Tuesday in the Mahoning avenue district, Charles Smith of South Mill street, one of the well known residents of the city and a brother of the late Calvin Smith, met with an accident, in which his left shoulder and arm were broken and other possible serious injuries sustained.

He was making a delivery to a second floor apartment, when the floor of the second floor porch gave away under his weight and he was precipiated to the first floor porch and then to the ground.

It happened that no one was at home at that place at the time and he laid there unable to rise for some time, before some person discovered his plight and he was removed to his home.

His condition is reported as being slightly improved today. It will be some time before he will be able to resume his work.

Arthur Mometer

If many more folks buy an automobile, and "no parking" sign stands increase, a fellow will have to take over a roof and sign the thing up on a lease. For the streets are congested with flivvers of sorts, and the alleys are barred by the law, and parking near plugs that the firemen use is considered a horrid faux pas. Where to park is a question that bothers us all, a question that gives us no rest, and soon we'll be forced to get portable cars, and park long side of our desk. Every day sees new cars and less places to park, and we hardly know just what to do, and soon we'll be hanging our flivvers on trees, the weather is wet, seventy-two.

Delay Flight Of Giant Plane On New York To Paris Trip This Morning

(International News Service)
ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Captain Rene Fonck's New York to Paris airplane flight, scheduled to start today, was postponed indefinitely at 7 o'clock this morning because of a leak in the giant Sikorsky plane's main gasoline tank. The flight may be attempted tomorrow morning if weather conditions improve and repairs to the plane are completed by that time.

Rivet Snaps

After workmen had frantically searched for the leak, it was discovered that one of the twenty thousand rivets in the gas tank had snapped and dropped out. From the small hole thus made, gasoline was gushing at the rate of more than ten gallons an hour.

The postponement disappointed several hundred spectators who had gathered to view the take-off of the huge Sikorsky biplane on the longest non-stop flight ever attempted by an airplane.

Sesqui Loses Court Decision

Dauphin County Court Says Sunday Sesqui Unlawful If Admittance Charged.

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—In a writ of quo warranto issued today against the Sesqui-Centennial association the Dauphin county court holds that it is illegal to keep the exhibition open on Sunday if admission is charged. Attorneys for the association immediately filed notice of their intention to appeal the decision. Request for the issuance of the quo warranto was made by Attorney General George W. Woodruff at the instance of organizations interested in Sunday observance.

After citing the facts in the case, the opinion reviewed other court decisions bearing on Sunday observance and the blue laws of 1794.

In conclusion the opinion said:

"It is hereby adjudged, ordered and decreed that the sesqui-centennial association be ousted from any right, privilege or authority to open, hold or conduct the exhibition operated by the said respondent association on the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, and that the respondent pay the cost of the proceeding."

Although the brief filed by the state against the sesqui was based primarily on the various attractions of the Gladway, the opinion of the court does not differentiate between it and the exhibition proper.

Witnesses Are Called To Tell Of Richeal Case

Sons Of Deceased, Farmers And County Officials Are Summoned To Appear.

TRAGEDY IS CLIMAX OF PARKING CRAZE

Farmers Want To Know Where They Stand As To Private Home Entrances.

While the body of Joseph Richeal lies at his home on the East Brook Station road, preparations were being made today for an inquest to determine the cause of his death, and a hearing on murder charges against Clifford Johnson, Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Minnie Clements.

County Detective George S. Kennedy today subpoenaed witnesses to appear at the office of Alderman Walter Hamilton on Friday evening at 7:30, where the inquest and hearing will be held. Witnesses called include the two sons of Mr. Richeal, several farmers in the community, who were first to arrive at the scene of the tragedy; Sheriff H. M. Reynolds and Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds, who made the arrests, and others.

Hold Three in Jail

District Attorney J. Elder Bryan and probably other private counsel for the Richeal family will represent the commonwealth and Former Judge S. P. Emery and Attorney Clyde Gibson, the defendants. Meanwhile Johnson, Blackford and Mrs. Clements are being held in jail without bail.

Farmers in the neighborhood of the tragedy are very much interested in the outcome of the case, as it brings up the question of what rights, if any, strangers have to park their automobiles in private lanes and driveways, and what steps are necessary to maintain free ingress and egress to farm houses.

The particular section in which the tragedy occurred has been in the limelight several times within the past year or two, in cases growing out of differences between farmers and automobilists. The com-

Cloudbursts Bring Floods To Kansas Towns

TEN MID-WESTERN STATES ARE REPORTED IN FLOODED AREA

Deluges Result In Worst Flood Condition Since Civil War Day Says Report—Twenty Deaths Are Recorded—Hundreds Of Families Are Driven From Homes—Thousands Of Acres Are Under Water.

International News Service

Under overcast skies, which carried the menace of further deluges, the most serious flood since civil war days was sweeping over 10 Midwestern States today, carrying death, privation and suffering with the mad onrush of seething waters, fed by rain-swollen streams and rivers.

Thousands Of Acres Under Water

Thousands of acres of land were under from one to twenty feet of water today and estimates of the property damage already entailed run to $15,000,000.

Hundreds of families have been driven from their homes and many others, marooned on upper floors of their dwellings by the high waters, face starvation.

Dams and levees throughout the district have crumbled before the torrent flooding the lowlands which they protected.

Auto Traffic Halted

Automobile traffic through the areas has been halted for days and trains have been rerouted.

Pumping stations and water works have been forced out of operation when power lines succumbed to the flood and the danger of pestilence through water contamination loomed as additional menace today.

In some sections, no mail deliveries have been made for more than a week, and in many districts, the only means of transportation is by boat.

Illinois, $5,000,000; Kansas, $5,000,000; Missouri, $1,500,000; Nebraska, 750,000; Iowa $500,000; Wisconsin, $500,000; Michigan $500,000.

Indicate Twenty Flood Deaths

Incomplete reports, from the flood areas, indicate a total of 20 deaths in the 10 states, directly attributable to the high water. These were divided as follows: Illinois, 5; Kansas, 5; Missouri, 3; Iowa and Nebraska, 2 each, and Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan 1 each. Additional deaths, and scores of lesser casualties will become known, it is believed, as communication is restored.

Meantime, emergency measures were being resorted to in an effort to alleviate conditions. Volunteers corps were stationed along dams and levees to prevent further collapses and relief workers were patrolling the districts in boats, seeking out flood victims.

Blackbirds Meet In Convention In Park Ave. Trees

Thousands Of Birds Discuss Southern Trip And High Cost Of Living.

Citizens Estimate Attendance This Year At Something Less Than Million.

Annual convention of the National Blackbird Association is being held in the maple trees along East Park avenue. Something less than one million blackbirds are in attendance. Delegates are there from all sections of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the gulf.

Sessions are held morning and evening, the daytime being used in solving the high cost of living. Along about five o'clock in the evening the thousands of blackbirds all with well laden stomachs, begin to assemble in the trees. The limbs fairly bend under their weight,, and the air is resonant with their voices.

Even Attorneys Perplexed

There is some difference of opinion among attorneys who live on the street as to the real objects of the convention. Attorney H. A. Wilkison, who took a correspondence course in blackbird several years ago, maintains that more domesticated home life is one of the prime objects of the meeting.

According to Wilkison, the birds are deploring the spirit of the times, which causes the young and rising generation of blackbirds to forsake their nests at too early an age. Thus they fall a prey to roving cats. One of the blackbirds was heard to proclaim that there is no such thing as home life anymore. Parents are deserted when their offspring are mere fledglings, with scarce any tail feathers.

Takes Issue

Attorney Harvey E. Martin takes issue with Wilkison as to the object of the convention. From what he has overheard, there seem to be two factions, one advocating "bobbed tails" and the other adhering to the time honored custom of long tails. It is claimed that long tails give better facilities for flying. The "bobbed tail" adherents say they don't care a rap for flying, so long as they change the style.

According to Attorney A. Martin Graham, the convention is howling for more and better parking facilities. The roosts are too congested,

CAR UPSETS; FIVE INJURED

Accident Occurs At Curve On Harbor Road Hill Wednesday Night.

Five members of the Burton family, 504 West Pearl street, Butler, Pa., two brothers and three sisters, were more or less severely injured last night about eight o'clock, when their car, a large sedan, skidded on the slippery pavement at Stevenson's Corners on the Youngstown-New Castle road and upset.

Another car immediately behind the Burton machine, crashed into it owing to the fact that it could not be stopped before reaching the Burton car.

It was damaged but not sufficiently to prevent it going on its way after it was determined that no person had been killed in the Burton machine.

Two members of the Burton family, Miss Jean and Miss Olla, are in the Shenango Valley hospital, while Elmer Burton, driver of the car, another brother and another sister, were taken home after their injuries were dressed at the office of Dr. William L. Steen on North Jefferson street.

Passing motorists brought the injured persons to this city, one taking the Misses Jean and Olla to the Shenango Valley hospital where they were reported today as recovering, although suffering considerably from the shock and numerous lacerations and bruises of the face, head and body. They will be able to return home in a short time.

Elmer Burton, the driver, his brother and third sister, were brought in another car to the doctor's office. Elmer had one ear nearly torn from his head, while the brother was apparently suffering from internal injuries in the chest. The third sister had a badly sprained ankle.

These three persons were removed to their home in Butler in the Offutt Company ambulance after their injuries had been attended to. It is probable that the brother may be compelled to enter a hospital in that city.

Hall-Mills Murder Trials May Come During October

Prosecutor Plans To Push Charges Against Four Accused Of Murders.

HENRY STEVENS IS LATEST ARRESTED

Mrs. Hall Says She Welcomes Trial As Chance To Prove Innocence.

(International News Service)

By GEORGE H. MANNING
Washington Correspondent of The News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—The New York City dwellers "pay the price" in city taxes for the joy of living in the glare of the bright lights of Broadway.

Tax Double Most Cities

New York folks have to pay high for their harbor, subways, parks, politics and other "big city" advantages, with the result that it costs twice as much to be a citizen of New York City as it does to be a citizen of New Castle and other cities of its class.

Broadway bright light habitues may declare it is worth it; but the figures gathered by Uncle Sam show a rapidly increasing cost of government, a rising tax rate and a per capita debt double that of most cities.

General costs of living are not compared by the Commerce Department in this statistical summary, but only the costs of city government, put on a comparable basis

Louis Mazer Hears Indictment Charge

(International News Service)
CANTON, O., Sept. 16.—Louis Mazer was arraigned in the court of Judge A. W. Agler, and served with a copy of the indictment charging him with first degree murder in connection with the shooting to death of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher on July 16, of this year. After an elapse of 24 hours both Mazer and Ben Rudner will be taken into open court and arraigned and given a chance to enter their pleas to the charge of first degree murder.

Mazer this morning told Judge Agler that he was "broke" and asked the court to appoint counsel for him.

SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY

New Castle And Mars To Open Football Season Here.

Saturday afternoon, September 18, at 2:30 o'clock, Daylight Savings Time sees the event toward which most of the people of New Castle have been looking since last fall, the opening of football season.

New Castle High School plays Mars high school in the first game of the 1926 season and the Benjamin Franklin Stadium should be crowded to capacity.

The team this year is an unknown quantity as yet, Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has said little but has done much, and just what he has accomplished will be seen in part Saturday afternoon.

The section of the stadium opposite the 50 yard line is being reserved for the season ticket holders as usual, and the balance of the stadium is open for each game. In addition, the bleachers will be up on the west side of the field.

At two thirty the kick-off will take place, and with the kickoff, the beginning of New Castle's big sport, football. Let's crowd the stadium and bleachers for the first game.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grey and daughter Blodwin will return Sunday from a visit in England and Wales.

DRIVERS MUST MAKE STOP

Police Arrest 15 For Failure To Observe Stop Signs.

Traffic violators to the number of fifteen or more were tagged by the motorcycle officers on Wednesday at the Moravia street end of the Gardner avenue viaduct, for non-observance of the main thoroughfare stop regulations.

It is announced that all such violations will be dealt with regularly from now on, owing to the fact that motorists have not made the most of the opportunity afforded them in recent weeks to observe the regulations without constant police supervision.

So many motorists, according to Chief of Police Henry Dysart appear to think that if they merely hesitate or slow up that they have fulfilled the full requirement of the regulation, which requires a motorist to stop at main thoroughfares when crossing or entering them from an intersecting street, that there have been numerous accidents reported at the Moravia street end of the viaduct.

The chief states that the stop signs means exactly what they say, the motorists must come to a full stop before entering into or crossing a main thoroughfare.

Young Girl Is Shot To Death

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 16.—Dolly Hicks, seven year-old daughter of Luther Hicks of Campbell Creek, near here, was instantly killed at her home today by her small brother, Sonny, when the boy fired a gun point blank at her.

The two had been pretending they were Indians, when the tragedy occurred. It was not learned where Sonny found the gun.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Heckathorne of the Harlansburg Road entertained a few relatives on Tuesday evening in honor of the birthday of their year old son, Billy Ray. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and games and later a lunch was served. The baby was the recipient of many useful presents.

Many of us go thru life with our fingers crossed.

Town Talk

Motorists who had the misfortune of finding themselves driving when the rain hit New Castle and vicinity Wednesday night soon wished they were safe indoors. The streets in the downtown section and even well up in the residential parts of the city were flooded from curb to curb and travel over them required no little aquatic skill. Added the hazards was that of the blinding sheets of rain and the un-nerving flashes of lightning.

The sudden storm had its effect on the lighting system and for a number of odd-minute periods the lights of the city were out of commission.

Many persons were somewhat affected by the terrific storm last night, when lightning was flashing every few seconds for a period, it would appear from reports today. In the vicinity of Park avenue, where a home was struck neighbors for a distance in several directions report feeling the effects. W. G. Ayers reports that several persons standing in the doorway of the Scottish Rite cathedral two blocks distant, recoiled severel feet when the bolt struck.

Traffic signal lights on North street got into a tangle during the storm last night. They continued to burn but the signals didn't change. Red remained red on one street and green stayed green the other way. It made a lot of inconvenience to autoists and traffic was congested for some time as motorists waited for the lights to change.

Henry Eise, well known North Hill man, has entered the lists as a contender for local tomato growing championship honors. Eise lives at 425 Norwood avenue and has a garden patch in the rear of his home which he and his wife cultivate. With what degree of success was attested today when he brought to the News office two large specimens which together weigh an even three pounds.

Eise attributes his success in raising tomatoes to his practice of planting very late in the season after the frosts have all gone. His method has its scoffers but its soundness is demonstrated in the handsome tomatoes which he exhibited at the News office today.

There is one job we are certain we were never intended for, that of being a structural steel worker. From our window we can see the structural steel workers standing on the top of iron beams, high in mid-air at the old Masonic temple, and it looks like very much of a hazardous job to us. The workmen however don't seem to mind it any more than if they were standing on the ground.

Boys and other persons of the city appear to be taking special delight in damaging and tearing up the new no parking signs that have been placed about the city recently, according to Chief of Police Henry Dysart and action is to be taken by the police to put a stop to this practice by capturing some of the persons responsible and making them pay to the full extent of the law.

It's rumored that there is to be a change of name with regard to Neshannock avenue, at least a change has been suggested as appropriate for the reason that that one street now has more police officers residing on it than any other one street in the city. It has been suggested that the street be known as the Avenue De Police.

Five members of the city force are now residing there and it is rumored that this number is to be still further increased. The officers now residing on that street are Pete Hillers, William James, Robert Dukes, Clarence Samuels and U. G. Harper.

When a fellow has never hit the bottom it is natural to doubt his ability to bounce.

down completely by eight o'clock. There was no fire protection available and nothing could be done to save the building.

Park Avenue Home Struck

At 7:40 p. m., lightning struck the chimney of the home of B. R. Smith and Mrs. M. M. Reed, 124 Park avenue, knocking down the entire chimney above the roof and causing considerable loss. There was no resulting fire.

Lightning apparently affected many of the telephone and electric wires during the storm and in many instances, phones and lights were put out of commission at least temporarily.

Street car services, especially on the North Hill district was put out of commission by the storm and it was some time before anything like the regular service had been resumed.

A number of the cars were put out of commission by getting water in the motors and appartus of the cars.

BLACKBIRDS MEET IN IN CONVENTION IN PARK AVE. TREE TOPS

there is not enough room in the Park avenue maples. Some seem to think that if they would move the convention over to Boyles avenue, or better still, Wallace avenue, that conditions would be greatly improved.

Even Bill Has Ideas

Attorney William J. Caldwell, who studied blackbirdology at Oberlin College, is of the opinion that the birds are discussing the millinery situation. Some of the blackbirds are wearing red bonnets, others white, while the old line blackbirds are still adorned in the proverbial black. The red tops and white tops say they don't see any use in going around in mourning.

B. F. Moorhead, who studied blackbirds in their original swamps out in Scott township, maintains that the birds are not concerned in home life and styles so much as they are the proper kind of food. So far as he can understand, there is a distinct movement on foot at the convention for sake bugs, worms and seeds, and subsist solely on package goods.

Rev. Dr. C. B. Wingerd insists he hasn't been in town long enough to diagnose the situation.

In the opinion of E. B. Hawkins the blackbirds convene in Park avenue because they are less liable to be molested there than anywhere else. People who are afraid of the limbs breaking and the blackbirds falling down on them, simply walk in the middle of the street. This, however, is not altogether without danger, as in some places the tree tops interlock.

Charles Is Puzzled

Charles Metzler says he never saw so many blackbirds in all his life, and he has traveled from New Castle to Wampum, Harlansburg, Volant and other distant points. He don't attempt to interpret what they are talking about, but simply calls it chatter.

While Scott Paisley is inclined to think that the birds are yelling for Castoria, he says he isn't at home much in the evenings and can't say for certain.

Before the blackbirds began using the maples as an assembly ground, scores of robins roosted in the boughs. Every evening there is a squabble between the blackbirds and the robins. The robins get out on the telephone wires and call the blackbirds all kind of names.

Residents along the street are hoping that the convention soon ends, as the incessant chatter, to say nothing of other disadvantages is very annoying.

According to numerous North Hill residents the convention last year was held in the Blaine street section. Blaine street residents are perfectly willing to allow Park avenue to be the "convention city."

against Ralph Gorsline, New Brunswick church vestryman, who admitted before the grand jury that he heard the shots that killed Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Gorsline denied for four years being near the Phillips farm the night of the murders. He gave as his reason his desire to protect the reputation of Miss Catherine Rastall, who was with him.

The April grand jury is being held over by Supreme Court Justice Parker until Tuesday for the purpose of considering indictments of two persons for perjury. Who the other person is was not learned.

Henry Stevens Arrested.

Henry Stevens was driven to Somerville by Sheriff John A. G. Grant, who arrested him in his home at Lavallette. Arriving in Somerville, the party went to the state police headquarters.

After being fingerprinted and photographed, Stevens walked with the officials to the county jail four blocks away. He was placed in a cell far from those occupied by Willie Stevens and Carpender.

It appeared doubtful today that Mrs. Hall will be rearrested and placed in jail with her kinsmen. Senator Simpson, it was intimated, will apply for a sweeping increase of Mrs. Hall's present bail of $15,000.

The next move will be the arraignment of Mrs. Hall and her kinsmen before Supreme Court Justice Parker on the indictments.

A conference between the Stevens brothers, Carpender and their counsel, headed by Timothy N. Pfeiffer and State Senator Clarence E. Case, was held this morning in the county jail. Plans for the legal battle were discussed. What action was taken was not revealed.

Mrs. Hall received word of her indictment with the amazing, icy calm that has been characteristic of her during the four years that have elapsed since the errant pastor and his "affinity", Mrs. Mills, were shot to death at the Phillips farm, New Brunswick, while keeping tryst in the gloom of night.

"The only statement we have to make at this time is that we welcome the opportunity to prove our innocence in court," said Pfeiffer, her counsel.

plaint of farmers has been that so-called "petting parties" are held along the public highway and in private lanes and drives.

Numerous Clashes

It is claimed that private drives are often found blocked so that residents cannot reach their homes. Violent word battles and sometimes physical encounters are the result.

Constable Graham of Hickory township, who lives on the Harlansburg road, says that he has been called to this section more than to any other one in the township. The Moffatt school grounds, he says, is a favorite stopping place for the "petters", and on several occasions evidences have been found that the schoolhouse had been entered.

The tragedy which ended in the death of Joseph Richeal, it is pointed out, is the climax to a long series of annoyances to which farmers have been subjected. They look upon his death as something that is likely to befall any of them when they offer objections to having their drives blocked by parked machines.

They recognize the rights of any travelers to pass along the public highway, or even to park along the public highway, so long as there are no infractions of the law, but they believe that private property rights should be respected, and are planning drastic action to enforce their contentions.

"It is not only the "petting parties that annoy us," said one farmer today, "but we are the victims of thieves who come out to steal our corn and fruit. Even potatoes have been dug from the ground. Our crops are trampled, fences are thrown down and cattle are let out. It is hard to catch these marauders, because they jump in their machines and get away before we can reach them."

by averaging the cost for each resident.

The general running expenses of New York City in 1925 averaged $50.27 for every man, woman and child. This is $2.55 more than the 1924 for each resident, and this figure does not include outlays for operating the many public service enterprises, interest on debt, or permanent improvements.

Compared to New Castle

Contrasted with this high governmental cost is the corresponding cost in New Castle, where the city government cost averaged but $23.07 per capita in 1925. New York City's debt averages $212.76 per capita, while the debt of the city of New Castle is only $49.77 per capita. Property taxes in New York last year averaged $53.23 for each resident, while in New Castle property taxes averaged $21.17 per capita.

The per capita cost of city government does not increase in direct proportion to the increase in population of a city, the government statistics show, as many of the larger cities of the country have lower costs for each resident than some of the smaller cities. Buffalo, N. Y., is another city with a high operating cost, for the per capita average there was $51.05 last year, while in Philadelphia, Pa., the running expenses averaged but $39.09 per capita.

LEGION WILL NOMINATE NEW OFFICERS FRIDAY

Because of a new rule established by the State Convention of the American Legion, Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, will nominate officers at the meeting called for Friday night, September 17, according to Commander W. Walter Braham.

The rule is that the post officers must be elected in September and installed in October. Up to this time the local post has nominated in November and elected in December.

All members are urged to be present Friday evening in the Legion Home for the nominations.

Is Disappointed

As Fonck approached the plane, beaming happily at the thought of speedily being on his way to Paris, five or six workmen were slashing away at the silver gray fabric which stream-lined the plane on the near side of the right hand motor.

Fonck sensed immediately what had occurred, and for an instant he was dumbfounded. Then he shrugged his shoulders expressively, and went inside the cabin.

For a moment it was feared that under the terrific weight of 2,290 gallons of gasoline, weighing more than 13,000 pounds, a seam might have been burst in the tanks. Igor Sikorsky, designer and builder of the plane, was gratified to learn that no structural weakness had occasioned the leak, and that it was attributable entirely to the cracking of a rivet.

The difficulty of repairing the tank was manifest and Capt. Fonck, as he noticed the heavy mist which gathered around the field, reluctantly called the flight off for the day.

CRAIG CASE IS AGAIN DELAYED

Another postponement of the case against Samuel Craig charged with the death of David Jameson, Jr., was made today, the new date for the trial being set for Monday, September 20. At this time, District Attorney J. Elder Bryan expects to be able to press the charges brought.

Self-control is a great asset. It enables you to refrain from following your natural impulses.

Butler Testifies In Daugherty Trial

Butler Tells Of Transfer Of Homes By Daugherty And Smith

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Morton D. Miller, a butler, was the first witness called today at the conspiracy trial in Federal court of Harry M. Daugherty and Colonel Thomas W. Miller.

Daugherty, formerly attorney general of the United States, and Miller, formerly alien property custodian, are alleged by the government to have failed to give their best moral and mental efforts in approving a $7,000,000 claim of the German-controlled American Metlas Company—assets seized during the war as alien property.

Miller testified that he had been at one time employed by Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, and that later when Daugherty and his close friend, Jesse Smith, went to live in McLean's house in Washington, he was employed by them.

Find Woman's Body Hanging In Park

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The body of a well dressed middle-aged woman was found hanging from a tree in Lincoln park early today. She had apparently committed suicide. All marks and labels that might aid in establishing the woman's identity had been removed from the clothing.

It may be a habit cultivated at home that makes Americans think it all right to violate Mexico's constitution.

Negro Lodged In Jail, Posses Believed To Have Surrounded Companion

(International News Service)

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 16.—With one negro in jail here today and another surrounded by a posse of farmers and authorities in a cornfield in Cecil county, about 16 miles from here, police believe they have the two masked men who killed Walter "Bud" Harden, of Chester, Pa., and attacked two girl companions, Florence Scott, 14, and Anna Klemsky, 17, last Friday near Chester.

Wilson Biddle, 27, held in jail, was captured when detectives followed an automobile containing Biddle and Walter Webb, the other suspect, and the latter's wife. As the detectives in another car stopped the fugitive machine, Webb jumped out and fled into the cornfield nearby, where he is now surrounded and is expected to be captured shortly.

Webb's wife was also taken into custody and brought here.

GREATNESS

"SELF-MADE" is "self-reliant" grown up. Confidence is the father of achievement, while independence and initiative are achievements's hand-maidens. Never was a self-made man made by reliance on others, by outside influence or good luck.

It was making the most of his own resources that took Lincoln from rail splitting to the White House; "pull" did not raise Carnegie from stoke-boy in an iron furnace to builder of the greatest steel industry in the world; Thomas Edison did not become the greatest inventor of all time by patiently waiting for the inventions of others; Henry Ford is not the nation's wealthiest manufacturer because he waited for others to experiment with the low-priced automobile, and Columbus did not tarry in the courts of Europe until others set sail for the lands beyond that western horizon.

Every man is the creator of his own destiny. He is provided with certain physical talents at birth, environment may add or detract from those talents during the period of adolescence, but once out in the world it is "every man for himself". Self-reliance is the ever-available and omnipotent weapon of life while reliance on others is life's shackles.

HOOVER VISITS THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE

THERE is a vast amount of human interest in the story of Herbert Hoover's recent visit to the scenes of his boyhood in the vicinity of Portland, Ore. It was frankly a sentimental notion that took the Secretary of Commerce back to the town where he had lived as a youth.

He wanted to meet his friends of the long ago, fish in the familiar streams and above all to take a peep at the old swimming hole. So for the time being he cancelled official engagements and excused himself from the newspaper correspondents in order that he might roam at will and recall those pleasant memories of the days when he went around with the other barefoot lads of the Far Western country.

He met the woman teacher who first introduced him to the mysteries of the alphabet, he located the Quaker meeting house which he had attended with a stern uncle, and he even remembered the spot where he had suffered heroically with his first toothache.

This historic pilgrimage and these homely incidents will strike a sympathetic chord in the minds of thousands because they appeal to the emotions which are common to all. The people wanted to welcome him as a distinguished son, but he avoided such demonstrations. He wished to wander along and try to relive the olden days. We wonder how he succeeded. Nothing is said about his impressions. But if he is anything like the majority of men and women he must have had more than one pang of disappointment, suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer. No doubt he was pleased with the evidences of progress on every side, but it is doubtful if that was what he was after.

Most of us who return to the old scenes receive something like a shock. No days are quite like the days of our boyhood; they live in memory and they are usually idealized. The stern reality plays havoc with our dreams. The reason is not hard to find. What we see through the eyes of childhood and what we view through the eyes of maturity are entirely different pictures. And so comes a certain disillusionment.

Yet countless numbers will go on doing what Secretary Hoover has been doing, in the hope of getting a glimpse of the magic with which they have surrounded their early environment.

A CURIOUS COINCIDENCE

THE EXPERIENCE of American cities in the last few years has been ample to prove that nothing in the world has more explanations for its being than what is commonly known as a crime wave. Whenever a particularly complete assortment of crime breaks loose, in a week someone begins the "wave" talk and a lot of new reasons for law-breaking are unveiled; jazz, high wages, automobiles, weakening of parental hold on children, moonshine, reaction to the war and so on.

One major cause has never been discussed. Why it should presage crime waves no one knows, yet it is a fact backed by statistics that wherever it occurs an interesting selection of high-class felony is bound to follow within 24 hours. It is a public anouncement by some official in New York, Chicago or some other large city that its police department is the finest in the world. Which may or may not be true. At any rate, within a few hours after the bouquet is tossed the well-known underworld starts rampaging and the "best department in the world" begins to create a new record for excitement.

The coincidence of the two has recurred too frequently to be dismissed as merely accidental. Some expert gentleman should look into the thing and explain the relation betwen an official's pride in his department and a bandit's sudden resolve to go back to his dirty work.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:07. Sun rises tomorrow 5:44.

If the average New Castle bride and groom had to furnish their bungalow with the wedding presents, it would be a devil of a looking place.

It costs a dollar to take an automobile into the Sesqui-Centennial grounds in Philadelphia and you would be surprised the number of cars that dollar keeps out.

Saw a girl on the street yesterday wearing silk stockings of a different shade—flesh color on one leg and light green on the other. And we suppose our readers will want to know how the dickens we came to be looking that direction.

A widow with three small children was sent to jail for thirty days in West Virginia for possessing liquor. The judge said that "No mother even if she had a family could violate the liquor laws and be immune from punishment." On the other hand, no doubt most people would think the judge was doing about right if he left the widow go back to her babies after the first offense. There are some mighty queer things going on in liquor law prosecutions.

The young sport still says: "Fill 'er up again" in the same old tone of voice, but he means the tank.

It was in a New Castle home where a little company was being entertained. "What do you think of the prohibition?" asked one man of another. Just then the wife of No. 2 broke in, franctically, "John!" she yelled. "Remember there are ladies present!"

New Castle must be sort of a marrying center. You have perhaps noticed that not half the marriage licenses granted in this county are taken out by Lawrence county couples. Some days in the list not one local resident is named.

Not one-fourth of the voters of New Castle have registered yet and two of the registration days have gone by and there is only one more chance to register before the coming fall election which is very important. Are we led to believe that most people are satisfied with their voting at the primaries and do not want to make any change? Of course that is the right thing to do, but it is very unusual here since the primary system has been in vogue.

It is said that cider is being sold for twenty dollars a barrel this fall. When we look away back and think of the time when we sold a barrel of cider for two or three dollars we are almost sorry that we had any part in such a transaction. Cider is not worth twenty dollars a barrel until, a long time after it is made to many people.

We are told that there is no beef shortage in this country. However there is still too much beefing.

In speaking of a pretty girl, we used to say she had a "tinge of color" in her cheeks. What would you say now? Answer me that.

A lot of people would like to see Jack Dempsey get a good clouting at Philadelphia next week. Of course this is the calls who think people should get out after they have had a good thing long enough. It might be a long time before another champion as good as Jack comes along. We are not worrying about him or his opponent one bit and the decision will suit us no matter how it goes. Could anything be fairer than that?

People who persistently go out on the highways and byways looking for trouble will meet it sure if they keep at it long enough. Trouble as a rule comes a running without much going after it.

Gov. Pinchot says he is a Republican. He ought to be made prove it by letting some one go into the booth with him on election day and see how he votes.

The style of making shirts tighter and shorter will not be welcomed by fat ladies. Fat ladies have a lot to bear and it's clothes as a rule.

The worst kind of nut in the world is the one who has been an evil cur for many years and then suddenly thinks he has turned good. That kind of babies are hard to get along with.

An Ohio lady wants a divorce from her husband because he is always peeping in the window to see if she is talking about him. He evidently thinks she is not speaking kindly of him. We would suggest dropping something from an upper window as a cure.

I guess all of us ought to sit down and ponder a while over the words of the ancient Euripides who said: "If thou wilt not restrain thy tongue, it will bring evil unto thee."

The reformer in politics is always one who has been disappointed in either being elected to an office or being appointed to one. You do not know one who is not all of that and as a rule they are not good for the community in which they live or for the country.

One trouble with the average New Castle home is that Friend Husband's fool notion that the meals ought to be ready the moment he gets home.

THE LITTLE DOG

A little dog barked at the big, round moon
That smiled in the evening sky,
And the neighbors smote him with rocks and shoon—
But still he continued his ragful tune
And he barked till his throat was dry.

But soon 'neath a hill that obstructed the west,
The moon sank out of sight;
And it smiled as it slowly dropped under the crest,
But the little dog said, as he lay down to rest,
"Well! I scared it away all right!"

A Detroit milkman lost money he had collected from his company's customers on the races. But the company didn't go and sue the horses which failed to win for him; oh no! They went and had the poor milkman arrested.

"I am glad to say," remarked the employer, "that my office force gets more work done when I am away than when I am around to watch them."

Heard on a street car, being a conversation between two women:
"My dear, I wouldn't know him from Adam."
"Oh, yes you would. He wears more."

"That's a good idea," said Page; "I must do that, too. I've got to introduce Caine in a few minutes, and I want to be able to say that I have read something he has written."

STILL USEFUL

We have wasted a lot of sympathy on the manufacturer of hairpins since the bob came in. Here we supposed all demand for them had ceased and the poor manufacturers were wearily climbing over the hills to the poorhouse, but an eastern paper has discovered 16 ways they still use this valuable little article. Here they are:

Cleaning a comb.
Buttoning her shoes.
Opening letters.
Buttoning gloves.
Punching holes.
Cleaning finger nails.
As a book mark.
Substitute for a hatpin.
Lifting lid of powder box.
Picking a locked door.
As a safety pin.
As a toothpick.
As a key ring.
As a lamp trimmer.
For repelling assault.
Husbands use it as a pipe cleaner.

Senator Jim Reed of Missouri promises to retire from the senate in two years when his term is ended. A good deal may happen in two years time, perhaps a withdrawal of his retirement promise—worse luck.

Speaking of petting parties there are some people who wouldn't be missed except for their meanness, when they are petted in the face with a spade.

France and Germany through their envoys to Geneva have pledged "eternal peace" between the two countries. It sounds well, but eternity is a long time and peace is very elusive.

There are millions of Americans who can't dance, but only a small portion of them realize it.

It is said that Switzerland is already beginning to feel the importance of Mussolini's warning to the Italians to do their traveling in Italy and spend their money at home. The number in Switzerland so far has been a decrease over the past season and the number in Rome has correspondingly increased. Now if the Americans would stay at home they would have a great deal more knowledge of their own country and they wouldn't hear so much yapping by the French.

Henry Ford is the only billionaire in the United States according to the Treasury department, but there are 11,000 millionaires. The Treasury department didn't give out how many paupers there are so those who read the statement will think that everyone here is rich.

The revival of Irish linen can be made in this country as a very high grade of flax is being grown in Oregon. This country is the home of the Irish potato; it was recently discovered in Ireland that the fine Irish cured bacon they serve came from the United States and what is more logical than having Irish linen made here too.

It certainly must be hard to stop cussing in Italy when there is so much to cuss at.

A sympathetic editorial writer bewails the fact that Jack Dempsey, whether he beats Tunney or not, will get 14,000 times what Milton got for writing "Paradise Lost."

On the other hand, Milton probably would rather write "Paradise Lost" for $70 than beat Tunney for $1,000,00. Abraham Lincoln would rather have written his Gettysburg speech for nothing than beat Tunney and Dempsey both. Some things to some men are more important even than cash.

To the statement of President Coolidge's friends, "prosperity is the only issue for 1928," the Democrats will reply, " you are wrong, making whisky the only national beverage, with crime on the side, is an issue."

It will be an interesting fight in 1928.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur Jerome Drossaerts, who has been appointed first archbishop of the newly created archdiocese of San Antonio, is well known to Roman Catholics throughout the southwest by reason of his eight years of service as bishop of San Antonio. Bishop Drossaerts has just entered upon his 65th year. He is a native of Holland and received his ecclesiastical training at the Haaren Theological seminary in that country. In 1890 several years after his ordination to the priesthood, he came to America and was assigned to a pastorate in Texas. In 1918 he was consecrated bishop of San Antonio. The new archdiocese of San Antonio of which he is to be the head will embrace the whole of Oklahoma and all of Texas, with the exception of the diocese of El Paso.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

DANGER FROM TOO GOOD FOODS

A doctor has recently declared that the health of modern civilized people is threatened by the perfection of their food.

Since man's advent upon the planet for thousands of years he has been compelled to hustle in order to get something to eat. In fact, that has been his chief occupation, as it is still with the case of the horse and the ox.

Most of his foods were of an imperfect nature. Fruits and grains contained a good deal of waste matter and meats were eaten sparingly.

Consequently his digestive apparatus was adapted to a great deal of fodder, or waste matter.

And now comes the modern era with all sorts of refined foods. The bran is sifted from the flour and other foods are canned with the waste eliminated. The consequence is that man is afflicted with food in a too concentrated form.

One of the types of food of a most condensed kind is that of sugar, or candy. Those who eat too many sweets are subject to all kinds of complaints.

The tendency to use condensed foods becomes stronger and stronger, and one becomes more and more disinclined to leafy vegetables and other forms of food containing much fodder. The result is the impairment of health.

It has even fancifully been proposed to prepare all foods in the form of a pill, and one might take a pill and a drink of water in lieu of eating a meal.

Theoretically this would be ideal. Practically it will not work. The system needs not only the requisite amount of carbohydrates, proteins and fats, together with water, but it also needs those foods which produce vitamines. It needs also what we call "roughness" in feeding cattle; that is, the intestines must be supplied with a certain amount of bulk. The concentrated foods do not supply this. Hence man is afflicted with constipation and many other ills.

Altogether it looks as if the increase in the perfection of foods is not a blessing.

One reason why a horse usually has good health is that he has to walk around generally in order to get anything to eat. A man sits still and his food is brought to him, with disastrous consequences.

SELF-PUNISHMENT

There is no law which says you shall be kind.
'Tis not a legal crime to keep your own.
Man has the right to all things to be blind
Except what serve and profit him alone.

To worship money is no state offense.
One may or may not choose to be polite.
Be coarse, be scornful, in the legal sense
You have not stepped beyond your civic right.

Not very fine the line which stautes draw.
We all are free our lives to shape and plan;
The courtesies are not required by law.
One is not forced to be a gentleman.

But he who lives for self and petty gain,
Whose bargains stamp him merciless and cold,
Outside the walls of prison may remain
To find his spirit shackled, treblefold.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GENERAL MOTORS SAYS IT PAYS

It has been hammered into the minds of the Americans that advertising pays. There are yet however, many merchants manufacturing wholesaling and retailing goods, wares and merchandise, who do not realize the great results that may be obtained by reason of the intelligent use of printer's ink.

There are none so stupid or courageous as to suggest even that the General Motors Corporation has been anything other than a tremendous success. The general public know pretty well the brands of automobiles manufactured and sold by this corporation. The highly paid advertising experts, who prepare the advertisements of the various motor cars, made by the General Motors Corporation, have acquainted the citizens of the nation with these brands. Their advertisements have been published in every newspaper and magazine worth mentioning.

General Motors undertook to put a self-icing refrigerator on the market—not in any way connected with the motor car business. The idea of a self-icing refrigerator had to be sold to the American people and the General Motors Corporation has sold it. Just how well advertising of the "Frigidaire" has sold the self-icing refrigerator can best be told in the present plans of the Delco Light Company of Dayton, Ohio, a subsidiary corporation making the "Frigidaire." The corporation makes no bones about it. It gives out to the public, through the newspapers, the following statement:

"Newspaper advertising, according to officials, has made necessary a $100,000,000 expansion program, started this week by the Delco Light Company, Dayton, Ohio. Immediate plans call for the construction of a $20,000,000 factory addition—one mile long at Moraine City near Dayton. The new factory will be used entirely for the construction of electric refrigerators."

The Delco Company makes other things, but the electric ice-box is the principle article of manufacture now. General Motors took over the Delco Company because its products were useful, but the sales of the electric ice-box have exceeded by far the sales of the other products.

A year ago the Dayton plant employed 3500 people. Today it employs 7,000 people—more than are employed in the National Cash Register Plant—and by the end of the year, it is expected there will be 12,000 employees.

General Motors and the Delco Company give the glory of this achievement to those who deserve it. They say "The newspapers of America have sold the electric ice-box."

Yes, advertising pays.

Six Truckloads Of Lincoln Papers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Six truckloads of private papers, documents and letters written by Abraham Lincoln now held for safe-keeping in the library of congress may be revealed to the public at a date much earlier than 1939—the date set in Robert T. Lincoln's, his son's agreement with library officials.

In 1919 Robert Lincoln formulated an agreement that the historic papers be kept in the library locked up for 20 years. The papers were the same that Nicolay and Hay perused in preparing their biography of Lincoln. Robert believed that if the papers were made public now irresponsible writers would turn their information to commercial purposes. Twenty years from now he believed the documents will have lost much of their commercial value.

Upon Robert Lincoln's death however the papers along with other Lincolniana were willed to his wife It is now within her to decide whether they will be revealed sooner.

The famous Healy portrait of Lincoln which now hangs in the Lincoln home here undoubtedly will be offered to the White House in accordance with his son's oft-expressed desire. It was considered by Robert to be the best likeness of the emancipator.

The gold watch of Lincoln a prized possession of his son during his life time may also be given to the government.

Co-Operation Here Will Prove Benefit To City's Future

Mayor William Dunlap proposes to issue an invitation to the various civic organizations to appoint committees, to later marge as an executive committee to confer with city traffic heads as to the best plans for expedition of traffic movements here, and other improvements, he said today.

He made known these plans today while engaged in conversation with Councilman Louis Genkinger.

Mayor Dunlap also paid a compliment to the Chamber of Commerce and especially its new commissioner, Mr. Chilton, when he said:

"During the past few weeks there has been a spirit of co-operation between the chamber and city officials.

"Mr. Chilton has conferred with officials of the city on various subjects and we are certainly glad to have conferred with him."

Councilman Genkinger remarked that "The time has come when the people of New Castle are seeing the light by pulling together."

Both he, the mayor and other councilmen who arrived during the conversation expressed the hope that by concerted effort the Chamber of Commerce could succeed in bringing new industries here.

In plain words, the officials of the city went on record as being in favor of everything the chamber does toward bettering New Castle industrially.

One of the new plants recently launched here, though not yet ready to operate has orders for almost 5,000 bumpers and with a city council supporting the Chamber of Commerce persons who wish to locate in New Castle can rest assured of a hearty welcome, good sites and favorable treatment.

Mercer Man In Hospital As Result Of Early Morning Crash Near Town.

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 16.—Philip Alexander, aged 19, a resident of the Mercer vicinity, is in the Mercer hospital today, with a broken leg and other injuries the result of an early morning accident at the Bessemer crossing on the Franklin road, two miles from Mercer.

His car crashed into a Bessemer freight train that was crossing the road, apparently he being unable to see the train due to the storm.

He was found by other motorists and taken to the Mercer hospital, where it is stated today that he will recover.

Dance Halls To Open Soon

Permits Being Taken Out For Operation This Fall.

Soon the dance halls of the city will be in full blast for the fall and winter season and the youth of the city will be tripping the step light and fantastic. Already quite a number of the halls have taken out their permits, indicating that the indoor dancing season is about to begin.

Mrs. Minnie McKibben, city police woman, who since her appointment to the police force of the city a number of years ago, has had direct supervision of the dance halls, will again act in a supervisory manner and see that the state and local regulations are enforced as in past years.

Mrs. McKibben states that the law which prevents persons under sixteen years of age from attending public dances will be strictly enforced, also that obnoxious type of dances and undesirable persons will be eliminated as in the past.

Dance halls of the city have had a reputation of being conducted in a creditable manner in recent years and it is proposed that this reputation shall be continued during the coming season.

(Special To The News)

VOLANT, Pa., Sept. 16.—The Young Peoples' Council of Lawrence county held their meeting at the Volant Methodist church on Monday evening. Rev. Neale of New Wilmington was the principal speaker. A light lunch was served and games were played. The next meeting will be held at the Rich Hill church, the first of next month.

VOLANT NOTES

There will be no church services at the Methodist church on Sunday morning on account of the pastor, Rev. Edwards who is attending Erie Conference at Oil City, Pa.

A number of local residents attended the Mercer fair on Wednesday.

Three local young men have resumed their classes at Westminster College this week, they are John Rohrbaugh, William Allen and Glenn McCracken.

The community was shocked to hear of the death of Dr. J. P. Kirk, of Erie. He resided here all his life until eight years ago when he moved to Erie. The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the residence with Rev. McKnight of Kingsley church officiating. Those who attended the services were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Allen, and Will Ediburn of Volant.

Mrs. J. E. Hillard who recently moved to Pittsburgh is spending a few days at her old home here.

Election Of Czecho-Slovakia Brings Gloom To Germany.

By S. DUNBAR WEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Following two ballots the League of Nations assembly today elected nine nations to none-permanent seats in the league council.

Eight nations were elected on the first ballot, but it took a second ballot to determine the ninth seat which was eventually won by Czecho-Slovakia with 27 votes. The election of Czecho-Slovakia brought gloom to the German delegation for they fear that it creates a French bloc in the council, consisting of France, Poland, Roumania and Czecho-Slovakia.

For a whiter wash without scrubbing

GROCERS all over town—women, too—are telling about this new way of washing.

They like to recommend this amazing new kind of soap that soaks out dirt and stains—that gets the week's wash spotless without a bit of hard rubbing!

Try it and see! Just soak the whole week's wash in creamy Rinso suds—rinse—and dirt floats off by itself. You don't need to touch a washboard. Even in the hardest water the most soiled spots need only a gentle rub or two between the fingers.

Millions of women do the wash this "no work" way every week, because Rinso gives them a whiter, brighter wash than ever—in half the time!

Softens hardest water

Rinso, the granulated laundry soap, gives thick lasting suds in the hardest water. It's all you need on washday. No bar soaps, chips or water softeners—Rinso itself acts as a softener.

Absolutely safe for hands and clothes; contains no acids, bleaches or harmful chemicals. Clothes actually last longer—they're not scrubbed threadbare on a washboard.

No boiling needed!

Say goodbye to hot, steamy kitchens, for now you don't need to boil the wash unless you like to. Rinso soaking whitens without boiling. Sterilizes, too!

Try Rinso just once—that's all we ask. You'll never go back to washboard scrubbing again! Get it today. For economy and best results, follow easy directions on package.

Fine in washing machines

Rinso is so fine in washers that makers of 28 leading washing machines recommend it. Quick and safe—and gets white clothes whiter, colored clothes brighter.

Lightning Causes Small Oil Fire

(International News Service)

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Flames, which destroyed a seventy-five barrel oil tank here after the tank was fired by lightning, today had burned themselves out, without damage to nearby tanks.

The tank, located on Point hill, was one of a group belonging to J. B. and E. J. Rial, operators. Other tanks near the blazing container were towed from the danger zone with tractors. Loss was not estimated by owners of the trank.

The storm, which lasted only twenty minutes, was so severe that fear was entertained for nearby tanks, and emergency crews were ordered to place themselves in readiness to prevent a greater loss.

A heavy rainstorm followed the electrical storm.

SAYS BREAD NOT FULL 24 OUNCES

Because of the fact that loaves of bread advertised by a certain chain store as weighing 24 ounces, have been found to weigh but 20 ounces and occasionally even slightly less than that, W. A. Brown, sealer of weights and measures, has ordered the district manager of this group of stores to report to the office of consultation concerning the matter.

While there is no state law requiring that a loaf of bread weigh that amount or any other specified number of ounces, yet the fact that the concern is misrepresenting the real facts concerning the weight of the bread sold, is the reason for the action of the sealer of weights and measures and probable further action, if the matter is not adjusted.

The same concern, according to Mr. Brown, is selling a loaf for the same price in Youngstown, O., that does come up to the advertised weight. Ohio has a state law, however, requiring that the bread weigh 24 ounces.

Local Young Men Enter Theatricals

George King and Joe Carson, two well known young men of this city, left Tuesday evening for Buffalo, N. Y., where they joined the theatrical company known as Buds and Blossoms, which showed at the Capitol a few days ago. King is to become the song and dance head liner of the organization and has signed a contract of some duration. The company will go to the Pacific coast and also visit the middle west before returning to this section of the country. King has had some experience on the stage and is expected to make good in a big way.

Prisoners Aid In Reinforcing Levee

(International News Service)

FORT MADISON, Ia., Sept. 16.—Twenty-five prisoners from the state penitentiary here today were pressed into service in an effort to reinforce the levee along the Skunk river, eight miles north of here.

The prisoners, under guard, relieved many of the exhausted farmers of the district who have labored many hours without rest in the fight with the flood waters.

Says Man's Voice Best Over Radio

By SONIA LEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The voice with the smile always wins.

That's why a woman stands little chance of intriguing a Romeo's fancy over the air.

"The first radio lesson for women," today declared Lowel Crosley, Jr., president of the Crosley Radio corporation of Cincinnati, in attendance at the third annual radio show, "is to keep off the air. No one will deny that most every girl beats a symphonic orchestra ten ways west, in the lilting quality of her tones, when you talk to her. On the radio it's most likely that sensitive man will whirl the dial in a hurry, hunting for a gruff masculine voice to beguile the hours.

"Seriously, the trouble is due to the higher frequency of a woman's voice. It fails to carry, and to it, as it passes through the ether, is imparted a harsh, unpleasant quality. My advice to women—pending improvements in receiving and sending apparatus—is to limit their radio activities to fussing at their husbands for making radio widows out of them.

"Incidentally, that's a problem that's not at all humorous. Radio has become a passion with many men. It wasn't at all unusual for a man to clamp on the ear-phones the moment dinner was over—and he might have been in Hindustan for all the company he was. But women now are equally interested in getting distance, equally interested in the mechanical problems presented by radio.

"Radio men over the country say that just as many applause cards and requests for certain numbers, kicks on definite policies, are now being received half and half from both men and women."

Police Hear Of Two Acidents

Two slight accidents were reported to the police Wednesday. G. D. Tate, 846 Franklin avenue, reported that while driving south on N. Jefferson street at North street, a man crossing Jefferson street on foot failed to notice the warning sounded by Mr. Tate and was struck and knocked down by the Tate machine. He was appareutly not hurt.

Joseph Jedzinak of 132 West Long avenue, reported that he was driving south on Moravia street between Center alley and Long avenue when the machine of David D. Davis ran into his machine, damaging it, then ran into the car of H. C. Stillings of 310 South Walnut street.

THE 100-POINT MAN

The National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, gives each salesman a credit of one point for selling a certain amount of their product. The salesman who succeeds in securing a credit of one hundred points every month for a year is eligible in the "Hundred Point Club." He is a 100 point man. It's an honor for which every salesman strives. The men who attain this honor are, of course, men of ability—men full of life, ambition, vim, vigor, vitality and energy. They are men who succeed. The man who succeeds in any line of business must be a "Hundred Point Man." Do you belong to this class? Perhaps you once did. You may HAVE BEEN a "Hundred Point Man." But possibly you have violated the laws of health. Are you conscious of a drain that is constantly sapping your energy and vitality? Are you weak, despondent, lack ambition, unable to concentrate your thoughts on your work? Do you have to DRIVE yourself constantly? If so don't delude yourself that you will wear out this feeling. Your failure to be a "Hundred Point Man" may be due to early folly, or some deep seated chronic ailment.

"Hundred Point man," if you want to be a "Hundred Point" man or woman, get the real Medicine that will build you back and make you what you should be. The name of it is World's Tonic. For sale at Smith's Drug Store on South Mill street, also at Paisley's and Eckerd's and at all good drug stores, it is demonstrated every night at the big free minstrel show, corner of Court and Ray streets at 7:30 p. m.

The new Atlantic Gasoline has made this a great summer for thousands of motorists

"MY CAR never ran better." . . . "The best gasoline I've ever used." . . . "The smoothest motor performance I've ever experienced." . . . "The finest all-round gasoline on the market." . . . "The biggest money-worth in the motor fuel field today."

That's the sort of talk you hear from returning summer motorists. In chatting about their trips, about the roads, about their cars, about motor fuels—almost invariably a good word is passed about the remarkable new Atlantic Gasoline.

If you haven't learned about it, your own motor is ready to speak. Get a filling of the new Atlantic and listen to the story. Put your car through the paces of a packed city street—where you creep, spurt and brake. Feel it skim over the open roads like a flat rock over the surface of a lake. Take it out to that pesky hill against which you've been nursing a grudge—and watch your grudge disappear!

Then you'll understand! Then you'll see what a difference there can be in gasoline. You'll find this Atlantic—a new combination of gasoline elements refined from different crudes—has everything to be desired in a fuel for present-day motors: Power. Easy starting. Uniform combustion (smoothness). Freedom from carbon. The range to adapt itself to every condition of motor speed, load and temperature. And reasonable price besides! Try it today.

PLANS TO TRY 23-MILE SWIM

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—George K. Arthur, the young English actor who has become familiar to American audiences through his portrayal of effeminate young men on the screen, will attempt to win the $25,000 prize offered by William Wrigley, Jr., to the first person swimming the 23-mile channel between the mainland and Catalina island.

Arthur went into training immediately under Coach Swendson of the Hollywood Athletic Club and will be ready for the swim by January 15, when the contest will start.

Arthur, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, some years ago swam from Quickingham to Richmond, on the Thames river. He was junior champion of the southern counties of England before coming to America and holds several British records.

The numerous and devastating forest fires in western United states and Canada during the past few weeks have made wonderful movie "shots."

Jack Conway, directing "The Understanding Heart," based on the story by Peter P. Kyne, has just completed the filming of a fire that devastated a great acreage in the mountain sections of Northern California. The fire wasn't called for in the scenario, but the director couldn't resist the opportunity to incorporate the blaze into his story.

Immediately upon the return of the Pacific Coast battle fleet from its summer cruise up the coast, more than 2,000 bluejackets and marines turned out for fall football practice. The coming season's west coast navy football league will be composed of some twenty-five sailor teams.

The battleship league at San Pedro will be represented by twelve battleship elevens, consisting of the California, Colorado, West Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, New Mexico, Idaho, Mississippi, Nevada, Oklahoma, Arizona and Pennsylvania.

The San Diego naval district's football conference will be composed of teams from the fleet air force, the submarine base, the destroyer division and the Marine barracks.

The sailor elevens will be coached by naval officers who played on the Annapolis varsity last year.

The movie beauty contest is as popular a jest in Hollywood as the mother-in-law gag with the comic artist. The Universal company, however, has ever been the friend of beauty contest winners and the wisdom of this course has been proved by experience.

Mary Philbin and Gertrude Olmstead, now movie stars, got their start by winning a beauty contest in Chicago and being rewarded with a six month's contract with Universal. Both are now working on the Universal lot.

Dorothy Gulliver, won a beauty contest in Salt Lake City a year ago, and is now leading lady in a college series written by Laemmle. Dorothy Kitchen, another contest winner, is playing in Universal comedies.

Autoist Hitting Dog And Fleeing Liable To Penitentiary Term

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—An automobile driver who hits a dog and runs away, in the state of Pennsylvania is liable to a maximum penalty of one year in prison according to L. W. Ahn, superintendent of Western Pennsylvania Humane society.

Ahn quoted a decision of Judge William D. Porter of superior court in which the judge held that any autoist who harms a person or the property of a person on a public highway should stop and render aid. Failing to do so constitutes an offense he held.

"A dog is property in Pennsylvania by law and, therefore" Ahn said "a motorist must stop and render aid even though he was not at fault. He must care for the dog himself or he must secure aid of a policeman to kill the dog or care for it. Breaking the law is punishable by fine of not less than $10 or not more than $200 or more than one year in prison for each offense" Ahn added.

MAN, CHASING HAT, KILLED ON "L" AND TRAFFIC IS HALTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A straw hat caused the death of its owner this morning and resulted in a 40-minute tie-up of northbound traffic on the Second avenue elevated line during the peak of the rush hour.

A sudden gust of wind blew the hat from the head of an unidentified man standing on the platform of the Eighth street station. Attempting to recover it he fell, and rolled between the platform and the first car of the train and was crushed.

The rescue squad worked 20 minutes before the body was extricated by chopping away part of the platform, while train after train lined up behind the first one.

Plan For Economical Operation And Safety Of Air Merchant Marine

More Than Fifty Experts Start Investigation Of Every Phase Of Aircraft.

Follow Two Important Courses In Study Of Safety For Flying Ships.

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The federal government has taken steps to insure safety and economical operation of the nation's air "merchant marine".

More than 50 experts at the bureau of standards were at work today on a thorough investigation of virtually every phase of aircraft operation and construction.

Results of the study will be made available to aircraft manufacturers and recommendations made probably will be incorporated into the aeronautical regulations to be prepared by the department of commerce to govern commercial flying.

Plan to Revise Code.

Steps to revise the national air safety code will be taken at once. In view of the probability of the operation of a large fleet of commercial planes within a few years and rapid development in aeronautics frequent corrections in the code will be necessary, officials said.

Experts announced that the study is taking two courses:

(1) Improvement upon construction to promote safety to passengers.

(2) More economical operation that overhead costs may be cut, depreciation reduced and profits made possible for operating companies.

Because of the virtual certainty that the national air transportation system will carry thousands of passengers annually, first attention is being given the effort to increase the dependability of all types of air craft.

A vast store of aeronautical information prepared during the war will now be converted to peacetime purposes. At the time the bureau is carrying on its studies of military aircraft for the war and navy departments.

Stop-Proof Motors.

Airplane motors will be made as near "stop-proof" as possible. Reliability and economy of operation and long life were regarded as the three essentials in the perfection of motors.

Experts are going into radio science to devise the best methods of communication with aircraft. Radio beacons and other aerial aids to air transportation are being perfected.

In a study of dirigible balloons the bureau has discovered an important method of conserving expensive helium gas. A condenser has been perfected for motor exhausts which retains the water in the gas discharge, more than making up in weight the loss of consumed gasoline. In this way necessity of discharging helium from the balloon is eliminated.

Ticket Scalpers For Big Fight Are Having Hard Time

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—That the ticket scalpers here are having difficulty in procuring seats for the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship fight scheduled for Sept. 23, was indicated here today when a scalper approached Dr. Leonard Fryckburg, head usher of the sesqui-centennial stadium, and offered him $100 for every seat he could purchase within ten rows of the ringside.

The head usher said he referred the man to Tex Rickard's ticket office.

West Virginia's New Capitol Lacking In Acoustic Properties

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 16.—Remedies for poor acoustic properties of some of the rooms of the first unit of the new capitol, built a year ago, were discussed in a conference today of the board of control with Charles S. Hequembourg, representing the architect, and Raymond V. Parsons of Cleveland, an acoustical engineer. The four large corner rooms and the assembly room of the board of education are giving the principal difficulty with acoustics and a trial of the plan suggested by Parsons on the room occupied by J. F. Lakin, president of the board, was under consideration.

Hequembourg declared the trouble was not due to any oversight of the architect, but that the capitol commission, in bringing the cost of building down to funds available, had eliminated specifications for acoustical treatment and made other changes in the plans that contributed to the result.

Agents Selling Booklets Are Ordered To Cease Operations Here

Attention was called to the police department and the New Castle Chamber of Commerce yesterday that a crew of solicitors were attempting to sell a booklet on tuberculosis to the business men of the city.

Chief Henry Dysart and Mayor W. H. Dunlap immediately got on the job and apprehended these people.

They then communicated with the Chamber of Commerce, and the secretary, with Mayor Dunlap and Chief of Police Dysart, had a conference with these people and advised their discontinuing operations here.

It was brought out in this conference that these solicitors bought this little booklet and re-sold it to the business people, making considerable profit which did not go to any tuberculosis society or any other association of this nature, but was direct profit to the solicitors. After this conference these people, of which there were six, immediately ceased operations and left town.

The cooperation of all of the people of New Castle is urgently requested, that such practices may be prevented here, as it means a great loss to the business interests from which absolutely no beneficial returns are received. The New Castle police department, the banks and the Chamber of Commerce are only too glad to cooperate at all times to prevent this loss of money in New Castle.

Doña

a delicious toilet soap for American women

Doña Castile! And what is Castile? The soap the beauty and fashion of Spain—and Europe—have used for six hundred years. An imported luxury, acknowledged everywhere as the toilet soap most nearly perfect for the delicate feminine skin.

But—let us say it boldly because it is true—we have improved this soap for you! In these respects. We have made it into a delightful shape for your hand. No more of these queer, shapeless slices cut off from a long loaf—each cake of Doña Castile is beautifully moulded and daintily wrapped. And here's a new virtue in Castile—Doña will give you a rich lather even in lukewarm water. It will rinse instantly, completely. Doña being "hard-milled" will last you a long time, and will not readily deliquesce. Finally this exquisite pure soap can be had anywhere. Armour, U. S. A.

Reveal Youth Had Premonition That He Would Be Shot

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—A theory that Russell Koontz, 21, motion picture operator here, who was beaten and shot by an unidentified masked assailant here late Monday night, anticipated the shooting was advanced by members of his family here today.

The day before the shooting the youth told his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Koontz, she said, that he "expected to be shot," and jokingly willed his automobile to her.

Police were inclined to believe that Koontz, who lies at the point of death in a local hospital, might have received warnings from his mysterious assailant prior to the attack.

Koontz was attacked on a main thoroughfare here, beaten, and dragged into an alley, where two shots were fired into his body, one taking effect over his heart.

Some of these days you will run into a real opportunity which requires a little cash to handle, and, as the saying goes, you will be "out of luck."

If you go to the trouble of investigating the early careers of men who are in prosperous circumstances today, you will find nearly always that they had a Savings Account instantly ready to take advantage of opportunities when they came.

Don't think this is mere preaching. It is an absolute truth, and young men who fail to heed this advice will live to admit the error of their careless spending.

Plan Meetings For Anniversary

Annual City Mission Day In New Castle To Be October 17.

REV. LEICHLITER IS COMING SOON

Officers and directors of the City Mission have completed their plans for the 15th anniversary of the City Rescue Mission which will be held in this city Sunday, October 17, this being the third Sunday in October which date and time the mission has had for the past 15 years. It has always arranged its work so as to keep this date for its anniversary.

Special meetings are now being held at the City Mission 17 South Mercer street by Rev. Bob Ingersoll of Grand Rapids, Mich., preaching every evening.

These services will continue until October 11..

Beginning on October 11 Rev. G. A. Leichliter of Buffalo, N. Y., and Peter Quartel of Dayton, O., will hold a series of meetings. They have been here on several occasions for the mission and are always glad to give their services at this time of the year.

They will be here to start their services on the 11th and these services will continue over the 17th These services will be held in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Walter E. McClure pastor of the church and the church board have very kindly given the officers and directors of the City Mission the privilege of using their church for these special services this year. These services of the mission are held in various churches year by year.

On Sunday October 17 mission superintendents from other cities will be present and will speak in the various churches of the city as usual. A complete program of the 15th anniversary of the City Mission, its services and a report of this year's work will be published later.

Three Applications For Divorce Filed

Different Charges Are Made In Each Application To Court

Mrs. Viola Collins has filed an application for divorce from her husband, Chester P. Collins, on the grounds of desertion. They were married in November, 1923, and lived together until June, 1925.

Cruel and barbarous treatment is alleged in an application for divorce filed by Marguerite James against her husband, Ernest James. They were married in May, 1919, and lived together until September, 1925.

Mary W. McDaniel has filed an application for divorce from Moses McDaniel on the grounds of cruelty.

Protest Against Dempsey-Tunney Bout Appears

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—There is little likelihood that Secretaries Kellogg or Hoover will take any action on the protest of the ministerial association in Philadelphia against the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

The protest was sent to President Coolidge, who, referred it to the cabinet officers as members of the sesqui-centennial commission.

It was pointed out today that Kellogg and Hoover are merely administrators of federal funds in the sesqui-centennial and had no authority over the amusements staged at the exhibition.

Stolen Car Figures In Auto Accident

Carl A. Vanazia of R. D. No. 4, reported to the police yesterday morning that his Oakland touring car, 1917 model, Pennsylvania license 689-861 had been stolen from the Shenango tin plant between twelve o'clock midnight and 7 a. m.

Later in the day, it was reported to the police that a machine bearing the same license number had run into a Harmony line car at the Cascade street crossing. It was being driven from the direction of Croton avenue at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred. Three wheels were broken off and the car wrecked. The owner was notified.

BREAK WINDOWS IN SCHOOLHOUSE

Complaint was made again Wednesday concerning the fact that boys playing in the vicinity of the Lincoln and Garfield school have been responsible for the breaking of some more windows in those buildings. As many as seventy-five windows have been broken in the past three or four years and the school board is desirous of putting a stop to this expensive nuisance. Those found responsible for the breaking of windows in the school building in the future will be required to make restitution.

STUDEBAKER'S New Custom Sedans

Mechanically up-to-the-minute
—artistically ahead-of-the-times
—economically the cars of the hour

IT is great to be a pioneer and still retain your youth—to sponsor new style at no sacrifice of traditional standards—to set the pace in appearance and maintain it by performance.

This is what Studebaker has done in these new Custom Sedans which are sweeping the country. Somebody put their description in a phrase, "Studebaker plus"—the final achievement of performance plus the newest mode in motordom.

Engineering authorities have long acknowledged Studebaker's mechanical supremacy in its field. And now with added refinements the mighty Studebaker L-head motor is widening its margin of leadership.

Studebaker's Victory Over Vibration

Studebaker's early adoption of the L-head engine forecast the present-day trend. Now 70% of American manufacturers use this efficient, quiet type of engine. And, more significantly, the largest builders of other types have come to this principle for all the new cars introduced in recent years.

Studebaker spends $600,000 annually in fully machining every surface of its big crankshafts—a feature found only in the costliest cars.

To insure a smooth, vibrationless flow of power, Studebaker spends over $600,000 annually building balance into its big crankshafts—fully machining and dynamically balancing each and every one.

Only seven other American cars have a power rating greater than the Big Six and these all cost from $1500 to $8000 more. The Standard Six is the most powerful car of its size and weight, according to the ratings of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Studebaker's Transcontinental Triumph

Recently the Studebaker Big Six Sheriff—a certified stock car—dashed from New York to San Francisco in 86 hours and 20 minutes, through the worst storm in 60 years.

It cut 16 hours and 25 minutes off the best previous automobile record and beat the best time of the crack Limiteds by over 6 hours!

It added another victory to the long list already held by Studebaker—Barcelona to Madrid, the Trans-Australian Run and many others.

Studebaker's Inherent Durability

Owners of 817 Studebakers report having driven their cars from 100,000 to 300,000 miles and still going strong. Thousands of Studebakers in the fleet-service of big industrial concerns are proving their remarkable low-cost and tremendous endurance.

Factory sales of Studebaker repair parts average yearly only $10 per car in operation—evidence of the fine materials used.

Studebaker's Advanced Engineering Practice

For the past two years, Studebaker has been balancing wheels and casings to insure smoothest riding. Moreover, the semi-elliptic springs fostered by Studebaker are now used by 92% of American car manufacturers. Studebaker cars have a long springbase, and spring leaves of the finest chrome vanadium steel. Replacements of springs on Studebaker cars are less than 1% per year of cars in service.

There are many other betterments in Studebaker design—an oil filter and air purifier effectually seal the engine against foreign matter. A waterproof ignition system insures faithful operation in rain-storms. Even the spark plugs wear rubber caps. And a force feed lubrication system gives perfect lubrication under all conditions.

Over $100 Worth of Extra Equipment At No Extra Cost

To its in-built qualities of performance, Studebaker has added the charm of custom treatment and the luxury of custom equipment. Low-swung, full-vision steel bodies in lustrous and durable duotone lacquers; interiors richly finished and appointed, with broadcloth or Chase mohair upholstery, broadlace trim and Butler finish hardware; and extra equipment worth more than $100.

Four-wheel brakes, disc wheels, nickle-plated bumpers, front and rear—and a patented ventilating windshield which insures perfect ventilation at all times but prevents direct drafts or a drop of rain from entering the car.

Studebaker's Greatest One-Profit Achievement

These Custom Sedans are the crowning triumph of Studebaker's One-Profit facilities—possible only because Studebaker builds them complete in its own mammoth plants.

No wonder demand today is far outstripping supply for these attractive cars. See them for yourself—make your own comparison—then decide whether you should any longer deny yourself custom luxury, when you can enjoy it without custom cost.

NEW USES FOR BRONCHOSCOPE

(International News Service)

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 16.—New uses have been found for the bronchoscope, Dr. Charles B. Hollis of Philadelphia told members of the Homeopathic Medical Society of Pennsylvania, in session here today.

The bronchoscope, developed and used in Pennsylvania, has been successful in removing foreign bodies from the throat and lungs. It has a tremendous field as a therapeutic and diagnostic instrument, recent experiments have shown, Dr. Hollis said. He cited many cases where the bronchoscope was used successfully and demonstrated the new methods.

Eats Fruit and Meat, Nothing Bothers Him

"I could not eat anything without getting bloated up with gas and feeling feverish in my stomach. Since taking Adlerika, I eat what I want—fruit or meat or anything". —R. J. Carruthers.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Doctors Praise Adlerika

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York: 'Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria".

Dr. A. C. Curl: 'I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results".

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika".

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system".

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose".

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In New Castle at Love & Megown's.

Better Business Body Holds Meeting

Business Organization Discusses Work With Local Credit Bureau Men

A very worthwhile meeting of the board of directors of the New Castle Better Business Bureau and the New Castle Credit Bureau was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday morning, September 15 which was presided over by President C. W. Grafton. The members of the two bodies present were C. W. Grafton, John Abel, DeLace Cole W. E. Waddington, W. E. Gordon, John Higgins, Ira Ramsey and C. P. Reynolds.

It was reported by President Grafton that metal signs for the members of the Better Business Bureau had been ordered and delivery was expected in a short time.

The physical set up and operation of the credit bureau was thoroughly discussed and the president appointed as a committee to study this matter, W. E. Waddington, chairman; Ira Ramsey, John Higgins, John Abel and B. F. Butler. This committee will hold a meeting for the purpose of considering some of these matters at the Elks club at noon Thursday September 16.

A committee to compile credit lists was appointed. This will consit of the credit managers of practically all of the larger stores of New Castle.

A report was received that very gratifying responses were being received from the invitations sent out to the business people of New Castle to attend the credit meeting to be held at he Fountain Inn at 6:30 p. m., Monday, September 20 at which time James D. Hays, manager of the Harrisburg Credit Exchange will deliver an address on this important subject. A very large attendance is expected and all of those interested in the matter of credit are cordially invited and urged to attend.

Don't worry about tomorrow. You'll do better. Or you'll do worse. It all depends upon what you do today.

Wonderful for Piles

Suffered for Years; Says There's Only One Remedy

John O'Leary, 297 North Division Street, Buffalo, for 14 years Supervisor of the Second ward, wants to pass the good word along.

"Take it from me", says Mr. O'Leary, "When you suffer torment with piles for many years as I did, and tried all kinds of remedies without any success, you'll be glad to say a good word for the only remedy that is any good".

Peterson's Ointment rid me of piles so quickly that I was astonished. I felt somewhat peeved, however, to think that I had suffered so many years before knowing what a wonderful remedy Peterson's Ointment is. Let me thank you from the bottom of my heart".—John O'Leary.

Any live druggist will tell you about Peterson's Ointment—a big box for 35 cents. Use it for old sores, ulcers, itching eczema, rashes, burns, bruises, chafing and all skin diseases—there is nothing better.

Moon Moving Away; Earth Turns Slower

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 16.—The moon is getting away from us and the days are growing longer, according to "Starlight", a new book by Prof. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory. However, nobody is going to notice the difference right away.

"The tides raised by the moon on the earth," writes Prof. Shapley, "are very slowly decreasing the earth's rotational speed, and thus lengthening the day—but less than a thousandth of a second a century. At the same time the moon is receding from the earth, its mean distance increasing, however, only about seven feet in a century."

Consistory Choir Gives Concert As Celebration Windup

Banquet By Church Ladies Follows Up Dedication Celebration At Lutheran Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—As a fitting wind-up to the dedication celebrations enjoyed by the Trinity Lutherans with their guests, the church was well filled in spite of the heavy rains last evening, and everyone enjoyed the splendid music furnished by the Consistory choir of New Castle.

Many special numbers were included in the program arranged by P. W. Blocher, and people who had weathered the storm felt that they had been amply repaid.

Following the concert, those who had helped in some way to make the celebration a success, were guests of the church women at a banquet served in the basement dining room. Speeches were called for and every person had a good time.

Carr-Eisen Wedding Event Of Wednesday

Young People Leave For Wedding Trip To Quebec And New York Following Breakfast In Their Honor

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—The wedding of Miss Edith Carr and Harry Eisen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Eisen of Ellwood City, took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Carr of New Brighton, Wednesday morning at 11:30, with Rev. Smith, pastor of the First M. E. church of New Brighton, performing the ceremony.

The wedding gown worn by the bride was a lovely creation of pompadour blue georgette. The couple was attended by Miss Lora Musick of New Brighton and Walter Harris of Ellwood City was best man.

Guests at the wedding breakfast at 12 o'clock included Rev. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Eisen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White of Ellwood City, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stone and two daughters of New Brighton, and two brothers of the bride, Spencer and William Carr.

The young couple are well known in Ellwood City as well as in the Beaver valley. Following her completion of high school, Mrs. Eisen was engaged by the Rodgers Producing company and helped in the production of many home talent plays. She has been with the Studebaker garage for two years, following the work with the producing company.

Mr. Eisen is a graduate of the Ellwood high school and owned the drugstore on the corner of Fifth street and Lawrence avenue for a number of years. Today he owns a drugstore on the Northside.

Following the breakfast party at the Carr home, the young couple disentangled their car from the number of machines crowded around them and in spite of the blaring words "Just Married" and others, as well as tin cans and other noise makers attached to the car, they started on their two weeks' wedding journey, which includes a trip to Quebec and return by way of New York. They will make their home with Mrs. Carr for the time being, and plan to move to Ellwood City later.

Jars For Preserves Arrive At Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—A barrel of jars have arrived at the First Presbytarian church and J. L. Connard will be there to give them out to the church women who will fill them for the Presbyterian hospital at Pittsburgh.

Preserves, canned fruit, Jellies and any other form of fruit or vegetables which can be kept throughout the winter months will be put into these jars, which will be returned to the church and later sent to the hospital.

Dreary Weather Dampens Spirits Of Pedestrians

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Streets were flooded in many parts of Ellwood City last evening after the storm. People forced to cross Spring avenue that they could attend the concert given at the Trinity Lutheran church by the Consistory choir, did so by going thru automobiles which happened to be parked in the swirling pools of water.

Lakes, not found in the map of the city, were discovered with surprise by pedestrians, who were hurrying to and from town. Fifth street subway, as usual, was flooded for a time, but owing to new sewer regulations, the condition was relieved somewhat.

Motorists rushed to their machines only to find their motor flooded. The sky was a dark blear overhead and the air about the motorist was a dark blue, so hard did he work to get his machine from out of that water.

The lights played tricks on people about 7 o'clock, when the air was so full of electricity and distant rumblings of thunder. First it would go on, then off again, only to come on in full after about ten minutes of fooling, and they stayed bright for the remainder of the evening.

Motor Club Does Not Approve Of Juvenile "Cops"

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—The Ellwood City Motor Club at its meeting recently went on record as being opposed to the present practice of school children directing traffic at busy intersections in the school vicinities. It is believed by the members that this practice is attended with dangers not only to the motorists, but to the youthful "cops" as well.

Traffic officers should be invested with responsibility as well as authority, whereas the boys important duty cannot be held responsible for errors in judgment, thus imposing upon the motorist the full blame in case of accident.

Corn Boil Enjoyed By Methodist Women

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Not a corn roast as scheduled, but a corn boil, was the feature of the affair which was to have been given by the Friendship Circle class of the First M. E. church at Ewing Park last evening.

The class had just assembled and the fire had been lighted when Jupiter Pluvius played the same joke on them that he played on the Sunday school picnic of that church. There was a downpour.

The young women did not calmly select their tree for protection, no indeed, they hurriedly gathered up the corn, butter, rolls and other good things that go to make a corn roast, climbed into their machines and motored to the church on Fifth street, just as quickly as they could, where an enjoyable time was spent by all.

Men Grade Grounds About Church Building

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Armed with picks, shovels, hoes, rakes and pushing wheelbarrows, members of the First M. E. church might be mistaken for real laboring men as they make great headway with the grading of the church lawn which surrounds the new building, located at Crescent avenue and Fifth street.

The men, all of them volunteers, are most cheerful as they give their services gratis in order that their building, which is rapidly nearing completion, may have the proper outside appearance in the way of a lovely well kept lawn.

4. PERCY GRAINGER, Celebrated Australian Pianist who has popularized the piano concert. Columbia artist. Thursday, February 3rd.
5. THE RUSSIAN SYMPHONIC CHOIR under the incomparable choral director, Basile Kibalchich. In bigger demand from Coast to Coast than any other choir that has ever appeared in America. Friday, March 18th.
6. THE EIGHT POPULAR VICTOR ARTISTS—Composed of the popular Henry Burr and the famous Peerless Quartette. Of the equally popular Billy Murray. Of Frank Banta, pianist. Of Monroe Silver of "Cohen Record" fame. Of Sam Herman, Xylophonist. In April. Date to be announced later.

KATHRYN MEISEL, CONTRALTO

Only $5.00, $6.50 and $8.00 for the entire season of six attractions.

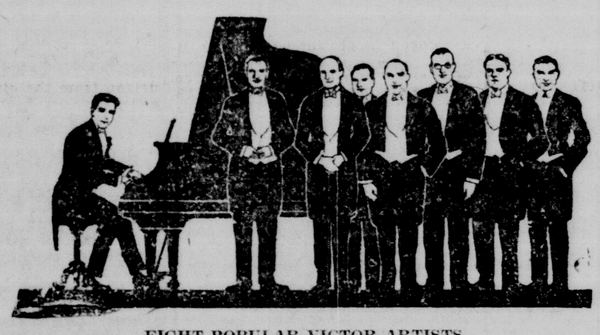
Two Series In One

Numbers 1, 5 and 6 is one series which would sell in any city for $5.00, $6.50 and $8.00.

Numbers 2, 3 and 4 is another series which likewise would sell for the same price.

The Educational Art Society offers all six attractions, a double series for the price of one.

Why is it possible? Because it is a Community Enterprise, paying no profits, salaries, or taxes but actually selling artists to its patrons AT COST. The Educational Art Society is now guaranteed by sixty progressive New Castle citizens who, financially speaking, have everything to lose and nothing to gain.



EIGHT POPULAR VICTOR ARTISTS

Bear In Mind

Though you may have to miss one, two or even three numbers, a Season Ticket costs practically the same as three single admission tickets and gives you a choice seat, not to mention the trouble and confusion it saves both the patron and the society.

Mrs. H. D. Patterson Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Mrs. H. D. Patterson of Second street entertained the members of the Bridge club at her home Tuesday at a 6 o'clock dinner. Autumn flowers were used in decoration.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening. The favor was awarded Mrs. J. J. Dunn, Sr., and Mrs. A. E. Whittaker of Zelienople, a special guest, was presented with a dainty gift from the hostess.

Those playing were Mesdames, Thomas Wilson, J. J. Dunn, W. G. Thorpe, William Bayers, H. D. Patterson, A. E. Whittaker, W. R. Johnston and C. C. Davidson.

Legion Auxiliary Have First Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Members of the Legion Auxiliary enjoyed a tureen dinner meeting in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. This was the first meeting of the auxiliary for the new year, and plans were made for fall work at the business session. The women also decided that they would sell Poppies on Armistice Day as usual.

Letters were read from the Otean Hospital, where the soldiers receive cards and letters from the local auxiliary. A large delegation plans to attend the County Council meeting at Beaver Falls soon.

Colored Trainer Assists Squad

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Ernest Snell, colored trainer formerly connected with the Geneva football squad has moved to Ellwood and has indicated that he will be with the squad several days each week to give the athletes the benefit of his skillful rubbing and his ability to loosen sore muscles etc.

The squad is being put through real grilling these days with "Peck" unmerciful, leading them, on, getting them in condition for the initial game of the season with Evans City, to be played on the home field, September 25.

Bye-Bye Blackbirds

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Blackbirds from this vicinity are gathering in their clans and already many of them have left for the southlands. This to Pennsylvanians usually means that the woolen blankets must be brought out and coal ordered immediately.

When the blackbirds fly south, Mr. weatherman begins to shiver and starts marking up the chart with low temperatures. Bluebirds the last to come in the spring of the year, have already left for their southern homes.

They go much farther south than many of the robins, some of them go as far as North Carolina, although many of them stay in Florida the year around, as do the red, blue and blackbirds.

In February the wild ducks fly south, where they flock to the lakes and are so tame that they will eat out of your hand.

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin", Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

Dr. H. L. Northrop Of Philadelphia Named President For Ensuing Year.

DISCUSS MAINTAINING CLINIC FOR CHILDREN

(International News Service)

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 16.—Dr. H. L. Northop of Philadelphia was elected president, and Dr. Charles B. Hollis, also of Philadelphia, was chosen first vice president of the Homeopathic Medical society at the closing session of the organization's annual meeting here today.

Dr. John D. Kistler of Pittsburgh was named second vice president, and Dr. E. Ronald Snader, Jr., of Philadelphia and Dr. Anna Johnson of Pittsburgh were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

New trustees named to the board of nine members included Dr. R. S. Marshall and Dr. George B. Moreland, both of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Henry I. Knopp of Allentown.

The members of the society discussed clinical medicines and diseases of children preceding the election which closed the session.

Dr. Clarence Bartlett of Philadelphia, Dr. John S. Wurth and Dr. H. S. Nicholson, both of Pittsburgh, Dr. G. Harlan Wells of Philadelphia and Dr. William A. Haman of Reading read papers at the discussions today.

Claim Adam And Eve Spoke French-Foreign News

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Adam and Eve spoke French, the Patois variety used by the peasants of Brittainy, according to the Paris Journal. "When Eve accepted the apple from the snake," says the Journal, "she held it out to her husband saying, 'a-tam', meaning 'a bite'. After Adam had taken his share a morsel stuck in his throat, causing him to cry out: 'Eve', meaning something to drink." This, says the Paris Journal, proves that Adam and Eve did not speak German, as claimed, and it defies the Germans to disprove the story.

VIENNA, Sept. 16.—Vienna is suffering a taxi famine. The police during a recent round-up found that about half the taxi drivers in Vienna were improperly licensed and ordered the drivers to be fined $50 each and to cease driving until properly licensed.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 16.—Uneasiness is felt in Bucharest over a report that Russia plans to transfer the entire Baltic fleet to the Black sea.

MOSCOW, Sept. 16.—All women students in the higher schools of the soviet union must henceforth take the regular courses in military education prescribed for men students, by decree of the central executive committee. Co-eds will be taught the elements of drill, strategy and tactics, be instructed in the use of rifles, machine-guns, artillery and gas-masks, and if they show especial aptitude will be admitted to aviation courses.

Boy Is Trapped In Burning Home

HAD BEEN SENT TO BED AS PENALTY

(International News Service)

WILKINSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Trapped in his bedroom, to which he had been sent as punishment, seven hear old Norman Miller was dead here today from burns suffered in fire which followed a kitchen explosion in his home.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Earl Miller, and Roy Sheriff, employed nearby, made desperate efforts to reach Norman, but flames cut the room off from other parts of the house, and the boy was fatally burned before firemen arrived and rescued him. He died shortly after being admitted at Columbia hospital.

The boy had been sent to bed for a boyish prank, it was learned today, and was trapped when flames, started by an explosion of gas in the kitchen, spread rapidly to his bedroom, cutting off all avenues of escape.

The mother, who escaped injury in the flames, was near nervous breakdown at the home of friends.

Several Escape In Bomb Scare At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 16.—Twelve persons narrowly escaped with their lives today when a bomb wrecked one house and damaged another.

The bomb was planted under the rear porch of the Andrew Koupez residence. It exploded shortly after Mrs. Koupez was awakened by muffled voices at the rear of her home.

Koupez was not at home. His wife and their three small children fled to safety through the falling plaster, glass and debris. The family of John Romansky in the adjoining house also escaped unhurt.

Police are investigating a report that the bomb was planted in retaliation for a raid by dry agents in the neighborhood.

Stadium Tickets Must Be Paid For

Call Made For The Return Of The Tickets Or The Money By Saturday

Prof F. L. Orth, principal of the Senior High School, announced today that all stadium tickets, which he sent out a few weeks ago, must either be returned or paid for by Saturday, as those not paid for or returned by that time will not be honored in any way at the stadium on the opening of the season. It is necessary that the money or tickets be accounted for by Saturday, the opening day of the coming football season and it will be appreciated if all those who have not paid for the tickets or may not want them, should find it possible to straighten out the matter at once.

Army Experiments To Get Antidote For Mustard Gas

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md., Sept. 16.—Work on an antidote for mustard gas is being carried forward here, it was learned today. Colonel Charles Exton, commanding officer, declined details but said experiments are being made.

"I can not give any information concerning this new discovery," Col. Exton said. "First, it is decidedly against service regualtions to furnish such information, and then the work is not completed. I can not even estimate when it will be ready as army equipment."

Indian Town Lays Claim To First Oil Well On Continent

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Members of the committee of oil producers, which has in charge the erection of a memorial to mark the oil spring on the Indian reservation at North Cuba, where it is believed oil first was discovered in the new world, made a trip to the spot recently. In the party were R. H. Bartlett of Tulsa and Cuba, chairman; N. V. V. Franchot of Olean, L. H. Thornton of Wellsville, V. D. Freeborn, H. J. Demcey and H. E. Keller of Cuba.

They found the casing still in the well, drilled many years ago, also the large wooden tank 16 feet deep, which surrounded the spring. This is supposed to have been built at the time the well was drilled.

The committee is investigating the history of the spring. It desires to learn when and by whom the oil well was drilled at the spring. It is said the boring of this hole drained away a portion of the oil, but considerable still gathers on the surface of the pool, and the visitors found they could light the gas given off.

How To Choose Rugs

First, consider your room's exposure. If it faces north, your rug must be chosen to give warmth, reds, mulberry, browns and warm grays bring color warmth into a room.

If your room has sun-flooded windows, a rug in a cooler shade should be chosen, taupes, grays and blues, are the best. Which room is to have the rug, who are to be its users—man, young girl, children—what kind of furniture is your rug to harmonize with—how are your walls decorated? All these questions must be taken into consideration.

Here at Haney's we are equipped to help you buy the right kind of a rug. We might add to this advice, don't buy it until you have seen it under both natural and artificial lights. If you don't see it under both lights you are apt to be disappointed with the colors when you get it home. Here at Haney's we gladly show you your rug under both lights.

Also, while we have rugs at most any price, you may wish to pay, we always advise buying GOOD rugs, our extended payment plan enables you to buy GOOD rugs.

Army In Suspense Over Appointment Of Chief

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The type of officer President Coolidge will pick to "boss" the Army for four years in engrossing the entire officers' corps and official Washington as well.

In the ranking candidates for the position of chief of staff to succeed Major-General John L. Hines the President is offered distinct and widely varying personalities.

Believing that Major-General Hines would not accept reappointment if it were tendered, politicians in the Army now are busily engaged in forwarding the claims of several candidates. The choice will be made in December.

Major-General Charles P. Summerall, commander of the Second Corps Area with headquarters at New York, is in the line for the position from the standpoint of seniority. He is known as a hard and fast military man with utmost contempt for advocates of scant military defense, and in some quarters it is predicted that President Coolidge will seek another type of general for the most important job in the Army.

Major-General Hanson E. Ely, head of the War College, and Major-General William Lassiter, late in command of the Panama Department and president of the Tacna-Arica commission are reported more in accord with the President's views on natural defense.

Three other generals are given an outside chance in military circles. They are Major-General Douglass Arthur, one of the youngest generals with a brilliant record overseas; Fox Conner deputy chief of staff and Dennis A. Nolan, military representative at the Geneva preparatory commission on arms limitation.

Major - General Summerall's friends, fearing that precedent may be overturned, are making a strenuous bid for his appointment. President Coolidge recently was given an excellent opportunity of studying the candidate at close range, when he visited the Plattsburgh training camp. Major-General Summerall, as commander of the Second division, and three different Army Corps in France during the World War, has a military reputation unexcelled in the Army.

Selection of Major-General Summerall result in a vigorous four-year reign of the General Staff, with the Army heads seeking every opportunity to put their claim for adequate funds for the building up of a badly depleted regular army.

Major-General Summerall is regarded as a typical blunt, fighting military man. Major-General Ely is known as a scholar and less energetic in enforcing his own views, while Major-General Lassiter is called the Army's best diplomat.

Technically, the Army has nothing to do with the selection of the head of the all-powerful general staff, but from lowest to the highest officer an interest is shown not exceeding the hottest national campaign.

MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF PASSING SAWS TO PRISONERS IN JAIL

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 16. Bonnell Mark, Martins Ferry, was arrested in the court house today by Deputy Sheriff Amos Pierce and charged with spiriting five saws into the county jail 10 days ago just before the jailer discovered a plot to liberate some 40 prisoners on the first floor, where Mike Dragovich, on trial for the murder of Sheriff Sam Dunfee, and one other awaiting trial for murder were confined.

Mark is charged with secreting five saws in the bottom of a carton of cigarets which he had delivered with a basket of fruit to Alex Perse, convicted of a liquor law violation. The saws had been so cleverly secreted it was mere accident they were discovered.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mehler and son Jack of Lowellville spent a couple of days the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mitcheltree.

SHORT LIST OF LAW VIOLATORS LOSING LICENSE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—One of the shortest revocation and blacklisting lists for a week's period ever issued by the State Department of Highways since it began a campaign against infractions of the motor code was made public today.

Twelve drivers' licenses were revoked and two names put on the blacklist. Five of the revocations were for intoxication, four for being habitual violators of the law and two for failure to stop and render assistance after an accident. There was only one revocation for reckless driving. The two blacklistings were made because of intoxication.

David H. Sollenberger, of near Chambersburg, lost his license on the charge of being an habitual violator of the motor laws.

FRANKLIN BROKERS ARRESTED ON CHARGE BY LOSER WITH FIRM

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 16. — Warrants charging embezzlement were served upon J. Howard Smiley and Edgar V. Tunstall here in connection with the failure of their brokerage firm last April. Both pleaded not guilty and were held in $4,500 bail for hearing September 27.

Action was brought by W. O. Milton, one of the heaviest losers of the firm. The Smiley Company had liabilities of $71,488 and estimated assets of $30,000.

Don't worry too much if your boy likes to study. He'll outgrow that before long.

TWO STEUBENVILLE WOMEN CLAIM SHARE IN ARGYLL ESTATE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 16. —Mrs. James Matthews and Mrs. Nelson Fellows, sisters, both of Steubenville, will lay claim to a share of the $35,000,000 estate of the late Duke of Argyll of Scotland. Other relatives and claimants to the estate are said to be Mrs. Richard Walbach, Mrs. Charles Simclair, Mrs. Russell Booher, John William Matthews, James Arrison Matthews and Thomas Reed Matthews, all of Pitcairn, Pa.

The sisters here claim to be direct descendants of the duke and say they have documents to prove their claim. Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Fellows say they are great-granddaughters of the Duke of Argyll, their grandmother having been disinherited because she married a prize fighter and came to America. Despite the disinheritance feature, they believe they can collect a portion of the fortune.

Police Dog Has Faith In "Pete"

Feeds From Hand That Has Dispatched Many Dogs' Lives.

"YOU MUST KNOW THEM," HE SAYS

By ED FRITZ.

Dogs are peculiar creatures—especially a police dog—brought to the police station labelled "Lost and Found" today.

The dog in question is no different than any other police dog but it has great faith in human mankind.

Everybody knows that Pete Hilliers, as a city policeman, is called upon to dispatch "mongrels running at large."

During his career he has probably slain hundreds of dogs—but here's the story:

The dog trotted into the steel mill. A young man, wishing to save the dog's life, took it in tow.

He took the dog home but it refused to eat, though it apparently was satisfied to "hang around."

Refuses to Eat.

Today the young man brought the dog to police station to inquire as to its ownership.

"He won't eat" said the man.

Pete Hilliers got busy. He had some stew in a bowl, which a prisoner did not care for.

He offered the bowl with the contents to the dog. It refused to eat.

"I'll try another way" said Pete, dumping the stew into the palm of his hand.

The dog ate the food.

"That's funny. He won't eat from a bowl, but will from your hand" said a bystander.

"It is all in knowing dogs" said Pete.

"That dog doesn't know he is eating from the hand that has caused many dogs to die via bullet" said another bystander.

Canine His Belles.

Talking about dogs, we heard of a man who is not as parental as a dog. He has deserted his wife and eight children.

A year ago he deserted his family and was caught. He stayed at home three months and has fled again.

Councilman Davies says:

"In a case like this I believe the man should be deported. He is not a citizen.

"The city will take care of his family as it has for about a year."

Aided City "Cops."

Not so long ago the police department boasted a pet—a bull terrier.

Whenever the patrol went on a call the dog raced to the wagon and leaped to the seat.

For a long time the dog was content to look on and not interfere but like all things patience ends.

One night an obstreperous customer landed in the net and gave the police a battle.

This proved too much for the dog that had "copper blood." He snarled, growled and leaped from the wagon.

He tried to grasp the prisoner's leg with is open mouth. Police had more difficulty keeping him off than arresting the man.

The next day the dog was banished from police headquarters because he thought he was aiding his friends.

Send Queries To Insurance Agents

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—The questionaires being sent out today to all applicants for registration as an insurance agent of any kind within the state will furnish the State Insurance Department with a complete record of all persons who follow that occupation. All answers on the questionnaires must be made out under oath before a notary public.

The questionnaires are so worded that the answers, if correctly given, will not only indicate the mental fitness of the applicants for such work but will give his past business record as well.

One of the questions asks: "Do you understand that it is illegal to rebate, to twist policies, to misrepresent policy conditions or misrepresent the standing of companies?

Companies or agents suspected of being guilty of infraction of any of those provisions will be the first to be investigated by the new regime.

The questions also go fully into just what the prospective agent intends to do in any line of insurance business and where his office will be located.

Other questions are worded to reveal the status of the agent as well as the companies for which he has worked. He must make sworn statements whether he has ever been associated with any company which has been liquidated or whether a license has ever been refused or revoked.

Additional queries ask if the applicant has ever been arrested or convicted of any crime, and whether any judgments are outstanding against him.

After the sworn statements have been made an official or representative of the company for which he works, or intends to work, must file an endorsement, vouching for the truth of the answers.

Each application must be accompanied by five letters of recommendation by reputable and responsible citizens bearing on the applicant's good repute.

Officials of the insurance department believe that the new questionaire system will aid greatly in driving out of business disreputable companies and agents.

New Fraternity At Westminster

Five Fraternities On Campus At Westminster For Coming Year

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 16.—With the opening of the new semester at Westminster College, there is a new men's fraternity on the campus. The new organization is known as the Epsilon Theta Pi fraternity and at the present time has a membership of about 25.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin will stop dyspeptic agony in five minutes; will conquer obstinate cases of indigestion, and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks.

If you want quick and lasting relief get a bottle to-day. It is dispensed by McKee's Kut Rate Store, New Castle Drug Corp. and druggists everywhere.

Raspberry Jam Brings Bear Cub From Tree Tops

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Sept. 16.—"Babe" the Cinnamon bear cub that has been a mascot around the president's executive offices recently, escaped today and eventually was located in the top of one of the tall pines near the offices. Raspberry jam was used to lure the cub to the lower branches where he was captured.

It was the most exciting incident in some time near the president's headquarters. Mr. Coolidge passed by a few minutes before the search was successful and a throng of tourists and members of his party gathered to witness attempts to dislodge the young beast. Clarence Jackson, photographer put on lineman's spurs and offered the jam to "Babe" as an inducement to return to civilization. The cub was brought here in an automobile from Cody, Wyo., by Jacob Schreber Detroit motion picture theatre owner.

Yawning is fine training for eating corn on the cob.

MARSHALL REUNION

The descendants of John and Elizabeth Clark Marshall met at the home of David M. Marshall of Wampum, Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 6, 1926 for their tenth annual reunion.

On account of the wet day and sickness among some of the folks, the crowd was not as large as usual. Eighty were present. A sumptuous dinner was served at noon, followed by a business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Anna Marshall McHattie. The meeting was opened by singing the one hundredth Pslam followed with prayer by Rev. Savage, D. D. After reading the minutes of the last reunion by Mrs. Mabel Marshall McKinney as secretary, pro-tem for Mrs. Marie McKim McMillin, officers were elected for next year. Pres. Dr. R. J. Marshall of East Liverpool, O., vice president, David M. Marshall of Wampum, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Clark Marshall of Beaver, Pa. Following the election of officers speeches were made by Dr. Savage of New Galilee, Rev. Greer Bingham, Wampum, Dr. Milton Marshall of East Palestine, Mr. John Bingham of Slippery Rock, Thos Wilson, D. M. Marshall, Everett Marshall of Wampum, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Molesberry of Youngstown, O., and Daniel Cronin and Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Marshall of East Liverpool, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Marshall and John G. Marshall of Beaver.

John G. Marshall, Mrs. Anna Marshall McHattie and Mrs. Clark Marshall were appointed as a committee to continue the writing of the Marshall history. After the business meeting was closed cake and ice cream was served and the remainder of the day was again spent socially.

Bed Of Ocean Rises Two Miles In 25 Years

LIVERPOOL, Eng. Sept. 16. — Discovery that the bed of the Atlantic near the Island of St. Helena had risen two miles during the last twenty five years, has led to a belief among scientists that the entire southern Atlantic bottom has undergone a vast submarine convulsion.

First news of this phenomenon was announced by a cable ship which had been repairing a break in the St. Helena-Cape Town line, laid twenty seven years ago. The cable ship found that instead of the sea being 2700 fathoms, or just over three miles deep, as set forth on the chart, it was only a little more than three quarters of a mile deep, or about sixty-six fathoms.

Postpone Meeting

All swimmers in New Castle interested in forming a Swimming club are asked to be present at the meeting next Tuesday and to bring along their ideas regarding the formation of a fast club for this city.

HOW THE PILGRIM MOTHER

Kept Her Family in Good Health

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her family. When they were ill, she brewed remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Massachusetts woman writes: "I was all run-down, with no ambition. I was tired all the time. Sometimes I would be in bed two or three days at a time, and the doctor would have to give me something to quiet me. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have had wonderful results from it. I felt better after taking the second bottle, and I am never without it in the house now. I have told lots of people about it, and they say it helps them, too." —Mrs. J. W. Critchett, 2 Hammond Street, Cambridge, Mass.

North Beaver Grange To Exemplify Degrees

Lodge Work To Be Feature Of Meeting Friday. Other Grange News

The first and second degrees of the Patrons of Husbandry will be exemplified at the regular meeting of the North Beaver Grange scheduled for Friday evening, Sept. 17. The meeting will be held at the Willow Grove schoolhouse.

Paul Wallace, a member of the Grange, who has been in the hospital for some time, is somewhat improved.

The condition of Mrs. Alma McKinley continues to improve.

Paul Gilmore, who recently underwent treatment in Cleveland, has returned in much better health.

Autumn Due Here 7:27 P. M. Sept. 23

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. —Fall is due in the Northern Hemisphere on September 23 at 7:27 P. M. Eastern Standard Time. In the Southern Hemisphere Spring begins says a bulletin from the American Nature Association.

A return visit by Mars marks the advent of Fall, it being closest to the Earth on October 27. Mars will be at a distance of 42,625,000 miles in October. It will then be about 30 per cent brighter than Sirius, the brightest of all the stars, and almost exactly equal in brightness to the planet Jupiter which will be above the horizon also during the evening hours so the two planets may be compared in brightness.

Mars made nearly, if not quite, its closest possible approach to the earth when it was less than thirty-eight million miles distant two years ago, the American Nature Association points out. Although now over seven million miles more distant from the earth than at the opposition of 1924, Mars will be favorably placed for observation.

Mars will not again come into opposition to the sun and on the side of its orbit nearest the earth until December, 1928.

Fifteen years more will pass by before Mars will again be as near to the earth and as favorably placed for observation. Mars will be in the constellation of Aries and rise in the northeast early in the evening. It will be easily recognized by its fiery red color and its superior brilliancy, far exceeding that of any other object in its near neighborhood.

Workers' Conference At First Baptist

Sunday school workers' conference will be held this evening in the First Baptist church at eight o'clock. All teachers and class officers are expected to attend.

This is the first meeting of the fall. Plans will be made for promotion and rally day and an outline of the winter's work.

For nearly 100 years all the gum used for stamps and stationery in the British postoffice department has been manufactured by members of one family in a little home factory near Aldershot. Now the little establishment has been closed, so that the gum may be manufactured on more up-to-dare lines nearer London.

Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

ONE cannot be well without good elimination. If the kidneys fail to function properly, there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and often toxic backache, headache and dizziness are symptoms. Further evidence of improper kidney function is sometimes found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning the value of drinking plenty of pure water and occasional use of a diuretic. Doan's Pills have been winning friends for more than 40 years. SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Cloth of Gold

By Monte Darrell

CLOTH of gold! And now its shining folds are dim and streaked with rust.

Marie gazed in dismay at her once beautiful turban. As long as it had rested on the top shelf of her hat closet through the Summer months she had been looking forward to the day when she should loose it from its swathes of tissue paper. But, alas, the paper had been white instead of blue! While the crown, in some mysterious manner, had remained bright and shiny like a gilded dome, there were many streaks where the knotted folds held in place the cascading feathery plumage of some rare, pale yellow bird.

There were those who might think Marie too blond of hair to grace a hat like this, but her large, dark eyes gleamed like unfathomable pools underneath its shining folds. She was a profitable customer of Madame Guyere's since usually she cast aside her millinery after a few weeks' wear. The hat, however, made from cloth of gold, she would have worn gladly until it fell into scraps of tinsel.

There was one Tommy Peters who never noticed women's clothes. He had, nevertheless, a rare taste in feminine companionship. He did know in some subtle way whether an entire costume blended into a harmonious whole, although the details were too trivial to claim his attention. Thus it was surprising that the hat made from cloth of gold won his seldom-given praise.

"A beautiful hat, Marie! You should always wear a hat like that."

And, of course, that was what Marie wanted to do—not only one like it, but that particular hat. She returned from the kitchen cabinet with a bottle of silver polish which she applied to one of the rusty streaks.

Vigorously rubbing, she saw the spot turn from reddish brown to vivid green. When, with a sigh, she tossed the hat upon her bed, she heard a stifled sobbing in the hall outside her door.

Now, Mrs. Burns, who had come to do the semi-weekly cleaning, had a daughter recuperating from a long and serious illness. Marie, feeling sure that Barbara must have had a relapse, became kindly sympathetic.

"No, heaven be praised, she gets that better every day! But she's been out of work so long, Miss. The doctor, he said she must now be in the fresh air, and he so kind is going to take her in his new car for half an hour. I'm ashamed to have the poor child look like such a fright, but I can't buy her a new hat just now. That's where it's hard to be poor. Not to be able to get things for those you love."

When Mrs. Burns went home that afternoon, she carried a blue-and-white-striped box stamped with Guyere's name. Within reposed the golden hat, its tarnished folds covered with yellow chiffon, its brave crown shining brightly.

As Tommy Peters became cramped and weary of reading the building notes in his technical journal and thought longingly of the golf clubs in his office closet, he strolled casually to the window for a change of scene. Down in the street below, amid the motely caravan of long-used cars, gracefully glided a thing of beauty—long and blue its body, with nickel sparkling on it here and there. Since the top was fastened back one was given a glimpse of a golden hat and a glorious cloud of waving plumage.

"By all that's wonderful!" he ruminated, "Dr. DePuyster! He never takes people to ride unless they're so sick they can't sit up. And Marie is the healthiest person alive."

Tommy sank weakly into a chair and thought and thought. When only this morning his mother had suggested that she invite Marie to dinner the following week, Tommy's lack of enthusiasm gave her a disheartening moment.

While she may have entertained the selfish thought that it would be hard ever to be second in Tommy's affections, yet when it must happen she so much preferred a dependable girl like Marie to the breezier type of Tommy's choice.

Tommy had not only shown a lack of enthusiasm but he had even thrown cold water on the plan.

"But why invite Marie? Let's have one of the popular girls like Patty Weed. I almost never get a chance to see her without half a dozen others clamoring for her attention."

Business may have had its boring moments to Tommy Peters. But let it be whispered that some other firm was on the trail of a coveted contract, then keep your eyes on Tommy. No battle charger ever reared a prouder head or plunged more fiercely into the fray.

When Tommy was himself again after the blinding flash from the shining hat and the brilliant beauty of the noble car, it was time to close the office door on business cares and triumphs.

Neither did Marie fathom the mystery of Tommy's breezy entrance that evening into their little family group and his persistence in remaining until one after another had slunk inconspicuously away.

She forgot her wretched morning filled with the disappointment over the ruined hat and her first real sacrifice in giving it away. She even forgot her constructive afternoon filled with plans for other millinery. No two hats had ever been alike, but now the rule must be made elastic. Perhaps Madame Guyere might have other golden clouds of plumage and she must have cloth of gold.

Something For Nothing

By Claire Wesson

EVER since he won $10 for correctly guessing the number of beans in a jar during a contest when he was in high school, Edwin Gray had been obsessed with the thought of winning prizes, or, in other words, of getting something for nothing. There was nothing in the shape of a contest that he didn't try, and he had a large range of subjects to experiment with, but Lady Luck wasn't with him.

Finally when one of the big dailies announced they would give $50 for $2 bills of certain serial numbers Edwin immediately saw fortune before him. He began saving every $2 bill he became the possessor of, often at a great inconvenience, for he absolutely refused to part with one. He even went so far as to borrow a dollar now and then, and the final folly came when he drew on his bank account. He began to hope at last the contest would close before his entire amount of money became converted into $2 bills; his roll of bills became so large he had difficulty in carrying it around, but he wanted them handy so he could scan their numbers as the editions of the paper came out.

Now, Edwin had an aunt in the country who studied bargains in the papers as assiduously as her nephew trained for prizes, but, unfortunately for him, she seldom could get to the city to do her own shopping and delegated Edwin to do it for her. The last commission was a large order for kitchen utensils. Edwin said uncomplimentary things about relatives in general and his aunt in particular as he made ready to execute her errand.

The kitchenware department was crowded with women eagerly pulling over the various bargains when Edwin descended into the melee. He wandered aimlessly about, his list in his hand, until at last he attracted the attention of a tired-looking salesgirl who evidently felt it would be a relief to wait on a man, after her fussy female customers. As most of the articles his aunt wanted could be obtained from the one counter, Edwin felt that, after all, his aunt wasn't so very unreasonable, at that.

Of course the shy blue eyes looking into his, as they discussed the merits of the various kinds of double boilers, had nothing to do with it, but Edwin was sure he had never before found a salesgirl to be so pleasant and helpful. She even went with him to the other counter he had to to visit and offered him advice about selecting the remainder of things on his list, then they came back to her own counter and she made out the slip.

Edwin gave a bill in payment that necessitated quite a good bit of change in return. He fervently hoped it would contain a lucky two; if it did he certainly felt justified in keeping it for himself. He surreptitiously drew the list of numbers for that day from his pocket as he waited. He did not notice the little salesgirl as she also drew a similar slip from the pocket of her apron.

Finally his change came. The girl slowly drew the crumpled bunch from the carrier and smoothed it out, and somehow Edwin found himself watching her face instead of his change. As she smoothed out the last bill, a two dollar one, she gave a little cry and paled slightly. They both bent their heads over it and looked, then frankly consulted their lists. There it was, a winning number.

Edwin felt a delicious thrill, $50 for which he had not done a single stroke of work.

Then he looked at the girl, who was regarding him with a wistful smile, "I'm so glad you got it," she said softly.

At 5:30 that night Edwin's feet carried to the employe's door of the store where the little clerk worked. She looked more tired and pale than before, in her shabby little suit and hat. To Edwin it seemed the most natural thing in the world to fall into step with her and place his hand carefully under her elbow at the crossings. And it seemed the most natural thing also to have her tell him how much she had been tempted to slip out the lucky bill and replace it with one of her own when his change came. Also, it seemed to Edwin that everything had happened just as it was ordained to happen when he had the right to slip crisp bills in his wife's handbag as she shopped for furnishings for their shining new kitchen.

The Main Incidents

By Margaret Taylor

SHAWNEEN is one of those tiny new England towns that make you say to yourself as you motor through, "Now, what could happen in a sleepy town like that?"

Well, life goes on here about the same as in other places. There are the main incidents—birth and death and all the other things that come between.

Be that as it may, Enid Chevery thought that Shawneen was decidedly out of things. Her resentment grew daily until she had definitely come to a decision in her own mind to cast her cares to the wind and spend her future days as she really desired to do.

"Mother, we've got to go!" Her two children clamored to be off, for the school bus was almost at the door.

"Kiss me good-by," she exclaimed, as she drew them to her. Hastily they pressed their lips against her cheek, but still she held them to her.

"Mother, the bus won't wait!" they cried, so reluctantly she released them.

"Neither does life wait," she murmured to herself. "Why should I give up happiness when it is offered to me?"

Again in her mind she sketched for herself some charming pictures of the Summer evenings just past. Stolen sweetness, those moments she had spent with Guy King, the New York artist, who had boarded with them all the Summer.

She saw herself again alone with him in the long twilight, that enchanting time when the boys were in bed and Sidney, her husband, was busy in the barns doing the last chores of the long day. Once or twice Guy's fingers had found hers, and a warm, delicious thrill had shot through her body, making her forget her children and Sidney and everything that irked her.

"Why waste yourself, Enid?" Guy had tempted her. "Enid, dear—"

How could life be the same after that? Oh, the monotony of doing the same things in the same way, day after day, in the same place!

No one to talk to but Sidney, who, while he loved her, seemed too tired to say the love words she hungered for, no one but the children, who asked all and gave nothing, or so Enid thought.

The telephone broke in on her thoughts—she had been waiting for this call.

"A telegram for you, Mrs. Chevery," Joe Beck, the station agent announced.

"Says: 'Shall be waiting for you today,' and it's signed just letter "G." Get it?"

"Yes, thank you Joe," Enid replied. "And, oh, Joe, don't save a copy of it." She hung up the receiver and, going into her bare little bedroom, packed her bag rapidly.

This was market day for Sidney, and the children of course, were at school. She tried not to think of them, for they represented care and responsibility, and she wanted to be done with all that. Henceforth, joy should be hers as she stepped into the whirl of the middle of life. She wished, as she passed through the door, that she had had time to put the house to rights and had looked up the children's warmer underwear. But she ran a little as she went down the road and never looked back.

Joe Beck was tagging a crate which held several collie puppies when she arrived at the station.

"Cute, ain't they, Mrs. Chevery?" he asked as she came near. "But look, ain't it a shame the mother collie has broke her rope and followed her pups to the station?" The dog was leaping about, barking anxiously as she tried to caress her babies between the slats in the crate, and Enid felt a stab of remorse as she watched the scene.

A train (not Enid's) came in, and Joe lifted the crate of puppies into the baggage compartment. The mother dog danced after him, barking pitifully as the train started up. Joe put his hand on the dog's collar as he tried to quiet her. Tears and anguish were in the dog's bark as the train gathered speed; then, with a mighty effort, the collie slipped her collar and dashed after the baggage car.

Instantly the dog was swept beneath the train and the heavy wheels rolled on. Enid screamed, then screamed again, as the collie gave one yelp of pain, pitifully agonizing.

Enid closed her eyes and sat down, weak and shaken, upon the station steps. Yet to the dog was death not kinder, sweeter than separation? Mother love! Didn't Enid's babies mean as much to her as the puppies had meant to the collie?

She had been mad to think she could forget the children! She couldn't! This mother instinct had been handed down to her since the beginning of time and who was she to fight it? No matter what she desired for herself, this bigger thing would always come first.

She suddenly realized that if she had left them she, herself would have lost the most of all. She knew now that this mother love was a force beyond her control and it would always thwart love that was selfish.

Guy King's sort of love would have left her dry and stagnant, but this other kind would keep her forever in the gladsome middle of life, even in Shawneen.

"Joe," she called, "will you send this telegram?"

It was to Guy King and it stated simply, "I'm never coming."

You might say nothing happens in a town like this, but it does. There are the main incidents—birth and death and all the other things that come between.

Never Say Die

By Hazel Courtney

I THINK the patient in No. 36 is going to die," gasped the young little nurse, who had just married a poor, but ambitious cub reporter.

"Never say die," the superintendent of nurses rebuked her, looking up for a moment from the charts of Ward L. "We never say die in this hospital. Please remember that, Mrs. Gladden."

The superintendent turned to the head nurse.

"Better call the doctor," she advised. "'ll look in on 36 for a minute. Just keep up the patient's courage, Mrs. Gladden. That's all any of us can do now."

She went with the young little nurse into the patient's room. She laid a cool, efficient hand on the girl's fevered brow. Her voice was the croon of a mother soothing her tired child.

"Just hold on, little one," she murmured to her. "You're coming through all right."

Lenora Gladden took the superintendent's place again at the bedside, and kept up the patient's courage. She had a great stock of courage herself from which to draw. That was the stock on which she had married young Winthrop Gladden—courage, combined with love and a meagre salary. She "specialed" at the hospital, where she had trained, in order to stretch the salary and buy furniture for the love nest.

No. 36 rallied, and lived. Just before her discharge, young Winthrop Gladden was carried into the hospital, white, mangled and unconscious. He had been after a big scoop—and had gotten it, the most sensational fire in the history of the newspaper. After getting it, however, and reporting it over the wire, he had been scooped out from under his car. After the fire chief's bell had been disentangled from his leg, and the shattered windshield from his own car had been dislodged from around his neck, he had been rushed to the hospital.

Lenore went immediately on the case. Her own patient was out of danger, and did not need her. She refused to call in a night special. She insisted on taking the case entirely by herself, although the superintendent installed a night special within call in the corridor.

After two operations, his condition became weaker and weaker.

"Never say die," murmured Lenore, bravely, through set lips. She changed the ice packs with firm fingers. The superintendent came noiselessly into the room to smile encouragement.

"We must hope for the best," said she. "It's all any of us can do."

"Never say die," insisted Lenore.

The superintendent of nurses looked at the still, set face, like a bit of parchment cut against the pillow. Even her dauntless heart contracted with the hopelessness of the case. Only that morning the doctor had said, "We can do no more. He will probably just sleep himself out without gaining consciousness."

"Win," Lenore murmured into his ear, gently smoothing the damp hair on his temples, and her voice was firm, "Don't you hear me, dear? You are not going to die."

There was no sign, no movement from the form on the bed. Lenore sat down patiently. She was tireless. For 48 hours she had not slept. Nobody could drive her from the room. She had changed ice packs, and filled hot water bottles until her hands moved mechanically. She did not even notice the superintendent of nurses, who sat down in a rocking chair to watch with her. There was no sound save the gasping breaths of the sick man, and the patter of rubber-soled feet in the corridor outside.

Lenore changed the ice packs again, then leaned her fair head against the patient's bandaged arm. In the dim light of the room, her face looked like a small, white blot, just as white as the sick man's.

"Oh, God," she whispered against the bandage, "just help me to make him bear. I shall never say die. I shall not even think it, unless it be thy will that I must. Win, win, try to live, dear."

There was a stir from the sick man, so slight as to be barely felt by Lenore. His eyes rolled open. The superintendent of nurses leaned forward, breathless.

"The danger is not over yet," he said, as he went down the stairs a few minutes later with the superintendent after a look at the patient, "but this improvement is miraculous. With constant care he will pull through. But, for goodness' sake, put that young thing to bed, and put that night special in her place. Drug her if you have to, or we'll have another patient on our hands. She has done all she can, for the time being."

The supperintendent found her asleep with both hands clasped about one of Winthrop's bandaged arms, a contented smile on her pretty face. She called in the night special, and between them they lifted her to the couch, and covered her with a blanket. Her eyes opened for just a moment.

"Never say die," she sighed, drowsily.

Broken Bits of Beauty

By Joella Johnson

IT is always my custom, at half-past six of a clear evening, to punctiliously wrap on the master's (even I, his secretary, call him that) always barred door, call, "Half-past six, master, our walk, you konw," and wait in respectful patience till the master, in great-coat and bowler, opens his study door.

We are all rather in awe of the master. He writes quite un-understandable books, receives immense sums for them, and is known as the critics' delight. That is, they scarcely need go to the trouble of wading through his fearsome stuff. They have definitely decided that he is a genius, so they merely skim a page or two, catalog the names of the principal characters, and write glowing, wholly diverse columns about the greatness of the volume.

Martha could tell you a few things. Martha cooks for the master. "Fussy old woman," she grumbles. "Can't eat this, won't eat that. Sure, he threw them biscuits clean across the table."

Jennie, too, Jennie sees to the master's room. Jennie could tell you he has a passion for old rose pajamas. And that once he cuffed her soundly on the ear when she spilled a bottle of his favorite perfume.

So, too, James. James drives the master. He—in his own words—could "spill a few beans" as to how he drives the master hither and yon in avid search for a bargain. And how his arms are often quite loaded down with articles "cash and carry."

Oh, we know the master well enough. And when I venture to the servants' sitting room, I have often heard him alluded to as "crazy old crank. Nut, that's what!"

Tonight we walked across the Common. The stars blinked down, kindly, patiently. We scarcey spoke. Inevitably we sit for a while on a bench with a particularly inviting down-and-outer. The master is, naturally, a psychologist.

Presently he spoke. "That bench yonder. Interesting derelict. Looks as if he had a fund of memories. Try him out, Belloc."

That is always my business. The master is far too awesome to inspire the confidence of the usual bench warmer. Much to his chagrin he has yielded the task to me. And he says, with his heavy humor, that perhaps in me they sense a kinship. Which he doesn't realize, is rather a compliment.

Eventually we gained the bench and sank down beside the derelict, I in the middle, murmuring. "Evening," in my pleasantest manner.

I looked at the man. He was ragged, unkempt, ill-smelling, but there was something about his eyes—great dark eyes, visioning.

Immediately he asked me for a match, made an elaborate show of searching through his pockets, murmured an apology and asked for a cigarette.

Presently the three of us were contentedly smoking, the master puffing at an inlaid pipe, gift of a Mahajarah or someone.

"Beautiful night!" I observed.

"Ah," he smiled, "look at them stars, broken bits of old moons."

The beauty of this illiterate man's metphor amazed me. The master has never written an exquisite bit like that.

"Look here," I said to him, "you're rather a poet, aren't you?"

"Poet?" he asked shyly, puzzled. "I ain't never wrote no pome."

I couldn't smile at the words. "But you'd like to, eh?" I persisted.

He eyed me gravely, and I looked at him sympathetically.

"Nights," he began encouraged, "when it ain't so cold and me chist don't bother me, I sits here on this bench, alone, and looks at God. I come here time enough to see Him paint the sunset; them purple clouds, some kinda orange pinkish, too, and gold. And then I hears Him whispering to the trees. I don't know what, but all them leaves take wing and floats up attar Him."

The master stirred impatiently. He always finds belief in God annoying. His voice rumbled out, "I suppose, you there, you, believe in God?"

The man peered past me and gazed steadfastly at the master.

"You don't," he commented softly.

"How do you know that?" I involuntarily asked.

"He don't look like a man wot's happy."

I looked at the master. He was scowling fiercely, there were ugly lines about his mouth, with his great walking stick he was scribbling—no doubt "fool"—on the ground, his eyes habitually moody, downcast.

I looked at the derelict. His visioning eyes were intent on the sky, his lips were parted, almost, they smiled. He might have been listening to the Voice.

"You do believe," I said gently.

His eyes flashed in mine.

"I shall write a treatise," he declared vehemently, "anent the awfulness of contentment. The fearful rut one in such a state wallows in. I shall, eh?"

"Yes, master," I said respectfully.

The Angel of Death

By Claire Wesson

THE living room in the suburban home of the Livingston family was alive with cheerful light and friendly chatter. "Daddy Jim" was giving his "annual farewell party"—the little festivity that always preceded his shooting trip to the Maine woods. It followed the family's return from their vacation, and while Mrs. Livingston put the house in order for the impending Fall season, her husband shouldered his gun, journeyed back of Polar Springs and, accompanied by a guide who had cooked his meals and cleaned his rifle once a year for a decade, lost himself in the great pine woods.

He was as eager to go this year as ever, and still he experienced a feeling of nervousness. This was due to the fact that last year, while he was away and out of touch with civilization, Mrs. Livingston had been suddenly taken ill. She recovered quickly. However, for a few hours her case had seemed dangerous. A wire had been sent to the husband which he did not receive until three weeks had passed. When he did get it, he also found another telling him to disregard the alarming message. But he came home nevertheless, thanking God for his wife's speedy recovery and promising himself that he would never again permit himself to get so completely out of touch with his dear ones.

Among the guests on the evening of the farewell was Dr. Nelson C—, an old friend of the family and its physician for years. He and Livingston were chatting and the latter had just outlined a plan of communications to the doctor.

"I think I can fix it all without much trouble," said the host, "Instead of taking only my usual guide I'll take an Indian boy along and send him every night to some place where there is a telephone. I am sure I can make out a route that will make this possible. I'll leave word in the telegraph office and if a messcomes for me I'll have it a few hours after it was sent.

"You look as though you had seen a ghost," said Livingston. "What's up?"

The other shook his head and passed his hand across his forehead. Then, after a pause: "I am very glad you will make this arrangement," he said at length. "One can never tell. Both your wife and little Jim are in splendid health, but it isn't the wisest thing to get out of touch with the world all the same.

The next morning Livingston took affectionate leave from his wife and just before going stopped at little Jim's crib. There lay the chubby youngster, rosy-cheeked and sturdy-limbed, the picture of health, one hand holding tightly to a toy dog that was his inseperable companion.

The next morning found Livingston in the hut of his guide. Before joining the woodsmen he had made detailed arrangements with the telegraph office and had acquainted the man in charge with the relay system he had devised and his bitter experience of the year before that had inspired it. Then he set out with the guide and a young half-breed for the deer country.

When night came the Indian lad was dispatched to a village three miles distant to communicate by telephone with the telegraph office. He returned about midnight, announcing that no telegram had been received at Poland Springs for Livingston.

But exactly 24 hours later, on the halfbreed's second return, he brought a message painfully copied from the words he had heard over the telephone.

It read: "Little Jim is very ill. Mother."

Another 24 hours and, Livingston, pale as a ghost from fear and the fatigue of travel, once more stood in his own home. He had come too late—the child had developed "black" diphtheria and was near death. He died that night, despite frantic efforts to save him, Dr. C— desperately working over the little patient.

Later when the first despair had subsided the two men were discussing the child's case. Presently Dr. C— said:

"Do you remember the time I stared so out in the hall and you inquired whether I had seen a ghost? What I saw was an angelic winged figure, robed in white, coming down the stairs with little Jim in his arms. I could not speak of it at the time, but when you told me of your arrangements to keep in touch with the family, I felt greatly relieved—for I feared then that the boy, though in the bloom of health, was in desperate danger."

NOT ANOTHER NIBBLE!

Now that his eyes had grown accustomed to the dim light, Pat the Dog could see clearly, even to the farthest corner of the baggage car. It hadn't been the truth when he had told Mr. Rat he longed for sharp teeth like Mr. Rat's own so he could gnaw the peephole bigger to see out of.

Pat the Dog had told a fib, the first in all his young life. So, quite naturally, Pat was ashamed of himself, so ashamed he hung his head and drew back into the box as far as he could. He must have looked as guilty as he felt, for almost immediately the wise Rat guessed all was not as it should be.

Mr. Rat stopped nibbling, poked his sharp head through the hole and stared at Pat.

"What's wrong Dog?" squeaked he after a moment's pause, during which Pat wondered if Ratty were going to jump through the opening, and shivered, for a Rat outside the box was one thing while a Rat inside was another.

"Why don't you look me in the eye? Are you afraid? What of?"

Pat, not knowing just what to say, said nothing at all. No answer to his questions! Mr. Rat was puzzled. He tapped on the floor with his tail—a habit Rats have when they are thinking very hard. Somehow this must have helped him, for suddenly Ratty gave a squeal so sharp that Pat jumped and bumped his head against the box's side.

"Cheese and crackers. Where have my sharp wits been, I wonder? Wool gathering, certainly, or long ago I should have guessed what you were up to! You don't care a snap about seeing the better. You want to get out of the box, you do, and you thought to fool me into making these holes large enough for you to jump through. What a foolish Rat I've been! If you hadn't hung your head I might have gone on gnawing and gnawing, and by and by you'd have leaped and I'd have been shaken to pieces for my pains. I'm on to your tricks now, though! No more aid will you get from me, No, sir, not a single nibble!"

Next: "Rat Frees Pat."

Auto Afire, Woman Jumps To Death

Mrs. Jane Wyers Of Norristown Frightened By Crossed Wires Blaze

NORRISTOWN, Sept. 16.—Jumping from her husband's automobile when it suddenly caught fire near Cedars, Mrs. Jane Wyers age 54, wife of Walter Wyers of 210 Summit street, Norristown, sustained fatal injuries when her head struck the macadam road with such force her skull being fractured. Mrs. Wyers was riding in the rear seat of the auto. Her husband was driving.

Electrical wires near the rear light became tangled causing a short circuit and the car was ignited.

Frightened Mrs. Wyers shouted to her husband to stop the car. He soon brought the auto to a halt but Mrs. Wyers jumped from it before it stopped. A quick examination by her husband revealed she was seriously hurt and the Montgomery hospital ambulance was summoned. Mrs. Wyers was pronounmed dead when the local medicinal institution was reached.

It was stated that Mrs. Wyers became excited due to the smoke and feared the blaze might communicate to the gasoline tank.

Mother Is On Trial; Infanticide Charge

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—A jury in which sat one lone woman today was to hear a second day's testimony in the trial of Mrs. Mildred Spiegelhalter, 29, of Conemaugh, charged with infanticide in connection with the finding of the body of a newly-born male child near Mineral Point, Conemaugh township.

The defense today was to begin building its case following testimony of Edward Poorman, who told of finding the infant's body, and of Oscar Davis, Conemaugh undertaker, who was placed in charge of the body by county officials.

Mrs. Spiegelhalter pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge John E. Evans at the opening of the trial.

FAMOUS CASTLE FIRE DESTROYED

EDINBURG, Scotland, Sept. 16.—Cluny Castle, one of Scotland's most palatial mansions, owned by Lady Emily Cathcart, was partially destroyed by fire during the night, it became known early today. The damage was estimated at $350,000.

Lady Cathcart was entertaining a large number of guests when the flames were discovered. Hostess and guests were forced to take refuge in neighboring farmhouses. None was injured.

Merely to let the other fellow talk doesn't prove you tolerant. Stay and listen.

METHODISTS TAKE FIRST GAME OF SERIES 3-1

Baker Pitches Three-Hit Game

HUGHES-HOOVER BATTING STARS

The Methodists and Central Presbyterians got the jump on Jupiter Pluvius in the first game of the Church league championship at Centennial field on Wednesday night and then the Methodists got the jump on the Central Presbyterians by toppling them 3 to 1 in a fast encounter in which Ralph Baker pitched brilliant ball. The game was halted in the fifth inning on account of rain and darkness.

The Presbyterians could do nothing with the delivery of Baker after the first inning and he allowed but three hits during the time that playing was possible. The Presbyians scored their lone tally in the first inning Wilson and J. Carson the first two men to face Baker smeared the stitched ball for safe hits, then Baker developed a streak of wildness and walked two men, forcing in the lone run that was destined to suffice for the Presbyterians but Baker settled down and the side was retired with two batters whiffing the breezes and the third going out on a grounder that Lockley gathered in.

The Methodists had a hard time solving Bush in the first inning one man reached base but was forced at second and the next two men grounded out.

Baker Invincible.

In the second inning and for the remainder of the game Baker had the Presbyterians eating out of his hand and allowed but one hit after that terrible first chapter.

The Methodists got to Bush in the third inning for their three tallies. Hoover started things to humming by singling to center. Brooks also singled, E. Lockley filled the bases with a perfect bunt and two runners raced home when Leonard hit through second base. Hughes beat out a bunt and Baker made first on a passed ball with Lockley scoring.

Both teams played brilliant ball with the Methodists turning in a perfect game in this regard and the Presbyterians had a couple of miscues.

Hughes and Hoover with two hits apiece led the Methodists with the sticks while J. Carson with a pair of hits including a double was the only Presbyterian batter able to solve the deceptive delivery of Baker with any degree of effectiveness.

Series Game To Be Played Friday At Croton Field

First M. E. And Central Presbyterians Battle In Series Game Friday

Due to the fact that the New Castle and Ellwood City teams will utilize Centennial Field for their "Little World's Series" game on Friday night, the Church League series has been moved to the Croton Field. The game will start at 6 o'clock.

The Methodists in a postponed game played last night at Centennial Field took the Presbyterians into camp by a score of 3 to 1, but Manager Weiss is not discouraged and freely predicts that his boys will come through and deadlock the series.

The Presbyterians will likely use Melder in the Friday night game, with the Methodists sending Leonard to the mound.

Hamilton and Black will officiate.

NO REASON TO DOUTHIT

Cardinal Fans Call Youngster Great Outfielder

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

No one would mistake young Taylor Douthit, Cardinal centerfielder for Tris Speaker or Ty Cobb after a close scrutiny of the lad. Especially at the plate. He hits from the third base side and everybody knows Cobb and Speaker constantly violate the rules of etiquet and turn their backs on the first baseman while batting.

Douthit may lack a bit of the finesse of these matters in centerfield too. But try to buy him from the St. Louis Cardinals.

He is quietly and unobtrusively struggling along doing a bit more than his share to carry the St. Louis Cardinals along at the top of the National league heap and keep the hope of a flag flopping up and down in the breasts of Missourians.

This is Douthit's first season as a regular with the club which makes his work all the more remarkable. The St. Louis club has owned him for two or three years but after acquiring him from the Ft. Smith club of the Western association they farmed him out first to St. Joseph in the same outfit and then to Milwaukee. It wasn't until he had won his spurs with the American association outfit last season that the Cards decided he was ripe.

With the Milwaukee team Douthit hit .372 in 92 games and stole 26 bases. With the Cardinals he has maintained a fair batting average —above .300 and is playing good ball in center. He has a world of speed. The knowledge of batters that comes with experience will make him a more valuable outfielder in the coming campaigns. His main fault at bat is an apparent awkwardness. This doesn't prevent him however from connecting with the ball. And after all that is the main purpose in making faces at the pitcher.

There may be sweeter centerfielders among the younger generation of major leaguers but every durned baseball bug in St. Louis and suburbs will douthit if you try

Kendrick Leaves Bout Up To Tex

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—It is up to "Tex" Rickard to defend the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship bout against threatened legal complications, Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick asserted today.

The mayor added that it is Rickard's concern to check the efforts of the Chicago Coliseum club to halt the bout.

"I'm not at all worried," Rickard told visitors today, "about the outcome. I know it is aimed at Jack Dempsey. It does not involve Tunney, or the sesqui, or me, who would be the losers if the injunction were enforced. But if the injunction is sent into this state, the fight will in all probability go on anyway, and the worst that could happen would be that Dempsey would be fined $200 for contempt of court."

TENNIS KINGS BATTLE TODAY

Tilden Defeats Arnold W. Jones In Five Sets

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16.—America's tennis "Big Four" once again faces the challenge of France's impetuous young invaders, this time with the national singles championship at stake.

Surviving the third round of the title tournament at the West Side club's stadium yesterday, the four American aces will go into the quarter finals today against the same opponents they turned back in the Davis cup challenge round last week.

This is the way the Franco-American battle lines will be drawn in today's matches, starting at 2:30 p. m.:

William T. Tilden II vs. Henri Cochet, Vincent Richards vs. Jacques Brugnon, Richard N. Williams II vs. Rene Lacoste and William M. Johnston vs. Jean Borotra.

Tilden's battle in defense of the crown he has worn for the last six years found him extended for the third straight day, carried to the full limit of five sets by Arnold W. Jones of Providence, R. I., former Yale captain. Nevertheless, the national champion's closing flourish not only carried him to victory by scores of 7-9, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, but revealed him as closer to his real form than at any time this week.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—The Reds still lead the Cardinals by half a game this morning, as both teams won yesterday. The Pirates, however, lost to the Giants and now trail the Cardinals by three full games. The Cubs lost two games and passed out of the picture entirely.

Cleveland's pennant hopes received a damaging setback when the Yankees won the first game of the crucial series, increasing their lead to six and one-half games. The two teams will play a double-header today.

The Yanks can now clinch the pennant by winning seven of their remaining thirteen contests, even if the Indians win all their remaining games.

Light Workout For High Team

Scrimmage Session More Than Likely Will Fill Bill For This Afternoon.

NEW MEN DISPLAY NECESSARY PUNCH

By "Bugs" Walther.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh was extremely gracious to the High School gridders on Wednesday afternoon, and crossed everyone up including himself by giving the squad an easy session, that required but little over an hour.

For the greater part of Wednesday afternoon the squad was sent through a light signal drill, with a few fundamentals thrown in. The boys are advancing rapidly and the coach realizes that it is best not to over-train the youngsters.

Today is another matter however and it is more than a possibility that the boys will be put through a hard scrimmage session, their final hard workout before the season swings into action on Saturday.

Friday the team will indulge in a light signal drill with no hard work being cut-out for them, the mentor would rather utilize Friday as a rest period.

The Red and Black combination that will start the opening game is coming along fine. There are but four new members added to the veteran crew that was left over from the season of 1925, they are: —W. Mott, tackle, Burns and Ostrosky, ends, and Harper at Fullback. The new comers have added the necessary strength to the team and together with Millison, Ulrich, Christman, Captain Robinson, Klaber, Turk, Richards and Dickson they form one of the finest looking outfits that ever represented the local high school.

Mars High with a strong team composed of ten lettermen from last year will be the opponents in the curtain raiser and according to reports from the Butler County town they have a first class team this year and are figuring on a victory here Saturday.

Jack Kearns' Absence From Dempsey Corner Causing Much Talk

By NORMAN E. BROWN

It is interesting, the prominent part the name of Jack Kearns is playing in the news, discussions, predictions and whatnot anent the coming melee between Jack Practical Dempsey and Gene Philosopher Tunney.

No matter what the real cause may be Dempsey's defeat, if he is defeated, will be attributed by scores to the absence of Jack Kearns from his corner.

This belief will be adhered to despite whatever injustice it might heap upon Tunney, were he to be victor.

Despite, too, whatever the real cause of Dempsey's defeat, if it comes, up to and including the powerful sock needed to knock him flat.

Kearn's ability as a manager was not questioned up to the time he parted company with Dempsey. In fact most folk leaned over backwards in giving Kearns the credit for carrying Dempsey from the ham and egg class to the championship —and a million-dollar championship at that.

However, some of the saner mortals gave Dempsey a bit of the credit, pointing out that the mule kick he carried in both mitts had something to do with the outcome of most of the battles, regardless of the cleverness displayed in his corner.

Kearn's part in Dempsey's success never will be definitely established. But we beg to offer this query.

"What has Kearns done as a manager since leaving Dempsey?"

And the answer is this:

Does this in Kearns seem brilliant?

Kearns took over Walker's contract when all the former's efforts to coax or force Dempsey into retaining his services failed. Walker had not been making as much money out of his title as the other champions—Dempsey, Leonard et al. But not through his failure to fight. The welter king had defended his title and fought no-decision contests and through them his title had been preserved.

Kearns took him in hand. Mickey had one or two fights and then Kearns allowed him to be matched with Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa., welter hope. Latzo promptly gave Walker a drubbing and won the title. Walker now accepts the smaller purse of an ex-champion.

Wherein then, did Kearns shine?

Jones-Evans To Feature Playing In Golf Tourney

JONES FAVORED TO DEFEAT CHICK

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

BALTUSROL COUNTRY CLUB, SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 16.—Robert T. Bobby Jones, Jr., and Charles Chick Evans, Jr., natural rivals by right of conquest, choice and environment will cross paths today for the first time in six years and great will be the merry throng gamboling over the greensward. I might add that judging from their comparative performances of recent vintage, great will be the defeat of Charles Chick.

The occasion will be the feature of the national amateur golf championship's third round, the remaining attractions coupling the names of George Von Elm and Watts Gunn respective finalists of 1924 and 1925, George Dawson and Eddie Held former public links champion and Francis Ouimet and Fred Wright, citizens of Boston and golfers both.

The round will produce the second meeting in history between Robert T. Bobby and Charles Chick, although they have been high toning the field of competitive golf these many years. Charles Chick holds the first and only decision, gained at Memphis in 1920.

Judging from what has happened during recent years Charles Chick might be disposed to feel that it was all for the best that he had had no personal contact with Robert T. Bobby in the meantime. It wouldn't have done, for instance, for Charles Chick to have darkened the others competitive doorway while Bobby was rushing through the last two amateur fields at Merlon and Oakmont. For, had he done so the hungry typewriters might have been without so much fodder this morning and Charles Chick might have been without to much optimism.

Before he left Chicago for the tournament Charles announced that it would be his pleasure to take issue with Mr. Jones when and if possible, with the commendable idea that he, Charles Chick could and would emerge the victor.

The round will be decided on a basis of 36 holes and both men are certain to make the required weight of 200 pounds of applied energy behind each shot.

Harvard Star Turns Pro For Coming Season

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 16—Edwin Gehrke, one of the greatest backs that ever sported a Harvard uniform, has followed the lead set by "Red" Grange and joined the ranks of the professionals.

Gehrke relinquished a business career in New York to make his living on the gridiron and has affixed his signature on the dotted line proffered by Robert K. McKirdy, director of the local pro team.

For years, promoters have been trying in vain to persuade Harvard stars to become professional. Gehrke is the first crimson to surrender to the call of the dollar.

Gehrke starred in the Harvard backfield from 1922 to 1924 and graduated in 1925. He is known to be phenomenally consistent and reliable player, as Princeton and Yale elevens can testify.

Kirkwood Will Play In Foursome Friday

He Will Be Paired With Dr. J. R. Cooper, Former Club Champion

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance at the Field club of Joe Kirkwood, Australian champion and one of the leading golfers of this country, on Friday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock daylight saving time.

Kirkwood will appear in a foursome with three of the outstanding golfers of the New Castle Field club. He has been paired with Dr. J. R. Cooper, champion of the field club last year and runnerup in the championship tournament this year. Cooper is a steady consistent player and will keep even Kirkwood going at his best to turn in a better score than he.

The other members of the foursome are to be Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional, who holds the low net score for the course, and W. M. Nunn, the club champion for the present year.

The foursome will play eighteen holes and during the afternoon, Kirkwood, who is noted for his ability at making hard and tricky shots, will demonstrate his well known ability along those lines.

At the close of the play by the foursome, Kirkwood will give a lecture for half an hour, on the finer points of golf. Reports received by the club officials and Captain Smith, club professional, indicate that golfers from the Beaver Valley, Ellwood City, Grove City, Sharon, Greenville, Youngstown and many other points will be on hand.

A small fee of $1.50 is being charged to cover the expense of having Kirkwood appear here.

The Dempsey-Tunney championship will furnish a brilliant climax to the Sesqui-Centennial program of sports in the Quaker city.

"HAIR-GROOM"
Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

New Castle-Ellwood Game Is Postponed

Jupiter Pluvius decided that the players in the "Little World's Series" of Lawrence county needed a rest, and therefore the gentleman in mention went on record Wednesday night and again this morning with a deluge of rain-water that didn't tend to make the playing field at Centennial park any better, and for that very reason the game scheduled for tonight was called off.

The New Castle team now has the jump on Ellwood City with two victories in the bag to none for Ellwood City, but Connie Wardman who looks after the destinies of the County leaguers in the "Tube City" opines that Jamison will take the third game of the series from Manager Steen's O. & P. league team.

Manager Steen will use either Coen, Hospidore or himself on the mound Friday night, was the indication today. The New Castle lineup for tomorrow night weather permitting such indulgence will be the same as used in the first two games. Ellwood City will use the same lineup, Wardman said.

Interest in the series is at fever heat here and also in Ellwood City, where the boys freely predict that Ellwood City is not out of the running yet and that they intend to open up with a few tricks out of the sack in the third game, all of which makes mighty interesting copy anyway.

Now providing the weatherman smiles upon Centennial Field Friday night the third game of the series will start at 6 o'clock, daylight savings time.

United Brethren Officers Take Up New Assignments

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Second day's session of the Allegheny conference of the United Brethren of Christ opened here today with Bishop William M. Bell of Harrisburg presiding and newly elected officers including Rev. Jas. J. Funk of McKeesport, recording secretary at their posts.

A judiciary committee was to be appointed for the conference today by Bishop Bell. Included in the list of officer chosen at the first day's sessions were Rev. Dr. W. G. Fulton, Homestead statistical secretary Rev. Charles G. White, Juniata, official reporter; Rev. B. F. Bungard, Altoona, preceptor and Miss Verna Biery, Port Treverton, accompanist.

Among those in attendance at the conference was Rev. Dr. L. W. Stahl of Greensburg, said to be its oldest active member.

Italy Expresses Regret At Actions Toward Consulates

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The Italian government has expressed its regrets for demonstrations before the French consulates in Livourne and Trieste, the foreign office announced today.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

The Reds maintained their lead in the National League race when Rixey breezed home to a 7 to 2 win over the Dodgers. It was Cincinnati's fifth straight victory from Brooklyn.

The Cardinals stayed within half a game of the Reds by smothering the Phillies, 9 to 2. St. Louis scored four runs in the fourth inning and four more in the eighth.

Pittsburgh lost to the Giants, 6 to 5, when Kelly singled with the bases full. The Pirates now trail the Reds by three and one-half games.

With Genewich and Edwards officiating on the mound, the Braves shoved the Cubs down the ladder by winning both ends of a twin bill, 1 to 0 and 3 to 1.

After beating the Senators 2 to 1 on Washington's errors, Detroit lost the second game 9 to 5.

Aided by the slugging of Purdy, a rookie, the White Sox downed Boston, 5 to 1. Thomas held the Red Sox to four hits.

Mother Acquitted Of Killing Babe

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Mrs. Mildred Spiegelhalter charged with killing her newborn child was acquitted of a charge of infanticide by a jury here today.

The jury which retired after the young mother took the stand in her own behalf, deliberated less than an hour.

Mrs. Spiegelhalter's defense was that the child was born dead and that she had no knowledge of the law relating to burial permits and death certificates.

Jury Gives Liberty To Youthful Slayer

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Alexander Andy, 12, the youngest prisoner ever tried for murder in Westmoreland county, Wednesday afternoon was found "not guilty" by a jury.

The boy was charged with slaying of John King near the Andy residence on March 13, last. The defense contended that Alexander fired at a man prowling outside his home.

London Burglars Get Valuables In Two Audacious Jobs

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 16.—English burglars, who generally know their place, are becoming rather audacious.

The Daily Mail announces that a suitcase belonging to Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, has been stolen. The suitcase is said to have contained important documents.

To add further to the troubles of Scotland Yard, burglars last night broke into the residence of the Marquis of Carisbrooek, cousin of the king, and stole valuable jewels.

Elisha Lee Is Given Promotion

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—Elisha Lee, vice president in charge of operations of the Pennsylvania railroad has been promoted to the vice presidency of the system in a change of the railroad company's personnel undertaken by the board of directors. Lee's elevation is effective today.

Other important changes include the elevation of W. W. Clement who had been assistant vice president of operation to the post vacated by Lee.

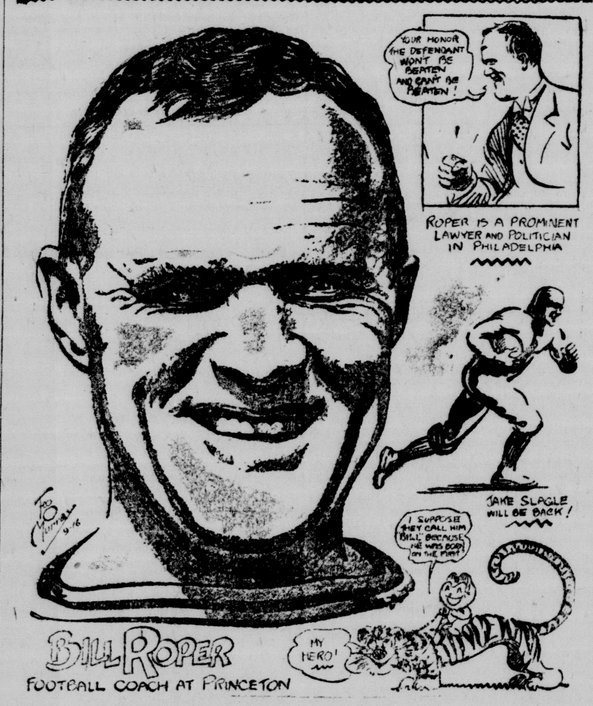
A Lawyer-Coach — By Feg Murray



Law and sports seem to go hand in hand of late, and I don't refer to the various attachments, injunctions, writs of mandamus, habeas corpus and hokus pokus which have popped up in connection with the recent activities of Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns. Monte Munn, the big Nebraska legislator, has put the combination of the law and the ring before the public quite satisfactorily of late. But down at Old Nassau for these many years, a prominent lawyer and lawmaker has been mixing his Blackstone with his football, and with great success, too. For Coach Bill Roper of the Princeton football team has been a prominent Philadelphia lawyer and a member of the city council, at the same time whipping the ambitious undergraduates into well-drilled, hard-fighting gridiron machines.

Bill is so good a politician that he has been mentioned for mayor of the City of Brotherly Love, and even for governor of the state that took the Dempsey-Tunney fight away from New York. In fact, Roper has one of the keenest legal minds in the profession, and annually he decides that he must retire from the field of sports to devote all his time and energy to his busfness.

What will Bill Roper do at Princeton this year? Will the threat of being dropped from the Harvard schedule in 1927 cause the ferocious Tigers to rise to greater heights than ever in their annual battle with the Crimson? Last year, it will be remembered, Princeton was tied by the lowly Navy and then whitewashed by Colgate on successive Saturdays, but came on finely to score 61 points against Harvard and Yale, thus winning the undisputed championship of the "Big Three."

Bill Roper played at Princeton from 1899 to 1901 and has been coaching his Alma Mater for over ten years. He is noted for his ability to develop winning elevens from mediocre material. His 1922 eleven which beat Chicago in one of the most thrilling battles in all football history, was a fine example of the fighting spirit that Roper instills into his pupils.

Feg Murray Says—

"The first thing about Tilden that strikes you," writes a contemporary, "is his catlike grace and agility."

Three Are Held For Conspiracy

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 16.—Burgess Walter P. Berner of Sharpsburg, Rocco Belsito and Angelo Yununzzi also of Sharpsburg, today were being held in $2,000 bond each on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibitory laws on orders of Federal Commissioner Roger Knox.

The trio was held after Peter Blazer, former chief of police of Sharpsburg was released in the case because of insufficient evidence.

Dempsey is considerably under the average age at which his predecessors relinquished the heavyweight championship. Sullivan was 34 when Corbett beat him. Corbett lost to Fitzsimmons at the age of 31. Fitzsimmons was 37 when Jeffries took the title from him. Jeffries quit the game at 30. Jack Johnson lost the honors to Jess Willard at 37 and Willard was 36 when Dempsey toppled the crown from his head.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office. HISTORY

The Admission of Minnesota—1858.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

IN 1858, MINNESOTA WAS ADMITTED TO THE UNION AS A STATE. PART OF MINNESOTA HAD BEEN ACQUIRED BY THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR. THE REMAINDER WAS INCLUDED IN THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE (1803).

FOR A LONG TIME MINNESOTA WAS CALLED UPPER LOUISIANA. THE FIRST SETTLEMENT IN THE REGION WAS MADE AT FORT SNELLING IN 1819. IN 1849, MINNESOTA WAS ORGANIZED AS A TERRITORY, ITS AREA CONTAINING THE PRESENT STATE OF MINNESOTA AND PARTS OF NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA.

SLAVERY WAS BARRED FROM MINNESOTA BY THE NORTHWEST ORDINANCE (1787) AND THE MISSOURI COMPROMISE (1820). AFTER 1844 MANY HARDY IMMIGRANTS FROM THE NORTHERN LANDS OF EUROPE CAME TO SETTLE IN MINNESOTA, ATTRACTED BY ITS VALUABLE TIMBERLANDS AND FERTILE SOIL.

MINNESOTA EARLY BECAME NOTED FOR ITS PRODUCTION OF WHEAT. THE FALLS AND RAPIDS OF ITS RIVERS OFFERED UNLIMITED WATER POWER FOR FLOUR MILLS AND TODAY MINNEAPOLIS (WITH ITS TWIN CITY ST. PAUL) IS THE GREATEST FLOUR MANUFACTURING CENTER IN THE WORLD.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Industrial stocks displayed considerable irregularity and nervousness in the early trading today, the market being dominated principally by the money situation.

After a fairly strong opening, the industrial stocks declined all along the line. Professional selling produced the bulk of this pressure against the market, but there was not sufficient buying power to absorb the offerings except at moderate recessions in prices.

Outside of the money situation, all of the factors affecting stock values appeared to be favorable. Better buying of copper metal and steel products was reported in trade circles and foreign trade figures showed some improvement. The petroleum companies announced a price cut on West Texas crude, the effect of which was expected to choke off excessive drilling in that section.

Commodity markets were firm, with cotton up about a dollar a bale.

After an early advance to 151, General Motors declined to 148½ and United States Steel lost a point. Industrial stocks were gradually pushed backward to slightly lower price levels, with losses rarely exceeding a point or two. Rails were inactive and generally firm. Stocks of the moving picture companies moved downward sharply, with Warner Brothers sustaining a loss of about 4 points.

Elect Eight Nations To Non-Permanent Seats In League

By S. DUNBAR WEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Eight nations were elected to non-permanent seats in the council of the League of Nations by the league assembly today. A ninth seat still remains to be filled.

The nations elected and the votes they received follow: Colombia, 46; Poland, 45; Chile, 43; Salvador, 42; Belgium, 41; Roumania, 41; Holland, 37; China, 29.

Kidnapped

Oppose Pardon For Willie Fisher

Application for a pardon for Willie Fisher, convicted bank robber, has been opposed by city, county and local bank officials, it was learned here today.

Attorney Wylie McCaslin, representing the Union National Bank, filed the protest with the state pardon board, which was to have heard the case yesterday.

The attorney said that the signers, opposing his application, included city and county officials in addition to all of the bank officials of this city.

Fisher was one of several bandits who held up the Union National bank several years ago and fled with about $50,000, and which has not been recovered.

He was convicted and sentenced to a long term. He was removed from the penitentiary and taken to Fairview, a hospital for the criminal insane. He fled the asylum and was recaptured.

Sometime ago he was returned to the western penitentiary. His plea for a pardon is based on the statement that he wishes to be given his freedom so he can care for his aged mother.

A decision has not yet been handed down by the pardon board.

JOHN DOE IN NEW ROLE AT POLICE COURT

John Doe has been charged with many offenses against the law on the docket of the New Castle police department, but as far as memory serves, never with violation of the parking regulations of the city.

When John was discovered this morning to have violated the parking regulations of this city, the question was asked as to why his name appeared.

Day Sergeant Frank M. Jones explained that it had been returned to him by mail and that the sender had failed to put any name or address with the money. He would appreciate it in the future if persons sending in their payment of fines would always give their name and address so that a proper record might be made.

Passing Of Flapper Heralded At Paris

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The passing of the flapper is announced. Models for fall and winter now being shown while not entirely ignoring her, markedly thrust her into the background in favor of a more distinctly feminine type.

Few flappers of the original model will be seen the coming season, but it is not likely that the flapper will allow herself to be supplanted without a struggle by a more girlish type with long curling hair and frills and ruffles, jabots and high necks and profusely trimmed hats.

Perhaps it is because the women of the Garden club have worked so hard, or it might be that she is in a particularly benign mood this summer. Whatever the cause, Dame Nature never had more lovelier offspring than she has on display at the Fall Show of the New Castle Garden club which opened today in the Carnegie auditorium and which will continue through Friday.

Gorgeous dahlias, rivalling the sunflower in size and the spectrum in tint, stately gladiolas with their blooms that seem to be the work of a master artist, delphinium and zinnias, phlox and asters, verbenas and late roses, tritoma, scabiosa, iron weed and goldenrod, all the bloom of which Dame Nature boasts are there, creating an ensemble of beauty that leaves one entranced.

Thousands of Blooms.

There are thousands of blooms and seemingly as many colors and shades. Yellows that start at delicate cream and rush on into a golden hue, blues and lavenders, purples and heliotropes, red and orange and each one of them boasting of tints that cannot be named but can be appreciated.

As one steps into the auditorium the giant dahlias seem to reach out a friendly hand. All varieties are there, singles, doubles, cactus and those huge dahlias which seem to measure nearly a foot across. Some of them look as though they might have been intended for a royal conservatory, others as though Nature had been in a jocose mood when she mixed the pigments.

Long tables spread out with their load of beauty, seemingly all prize winners, and certainly all of them wonderful specimens. Baskets of dahlias or gladiolas have for their neighbors, bowls of the smaller flowers, woven in an intricate design and colored with a lavish hand. Then a cluster of delphinium looking much like sticks of delicious candy.

New Bedford Club Represented

One of the features of the show is the woodland glade which is the work of the New Bedford Garden club, a unit of the Lawrence county organization. Although the New Bedford club is a small one, it has a display which is a credit. A corner of the auditorium has been taken over and a woodland scene reproduced which is a beauty. The glade is enhanced by a pool and a rock garden.

Harry Lash, the Carnegie Steel gardener is represented of course. It wouldn't be a show without some of Harry's work. This time he has a country estate in miniature which might be named Oak Grove. In the center is a small house with a spacious lawn surrounding it, and oak sprigs here and there.

The judges, H. C. Richardson, Herman Rapp and John Carman got in this morning and are judging the exhibits this afternoon. They will judge the exhibits of flowers, the table displays being in charge of a local committee.

The time necessary to see the show in the auditorium is well spent. Without a visit there, one can hardly appreciate the luscious beauty of it, and the Garden Club is to be congratulated upon another star of success in a diadem of triumphs.

Baker to Oppose Oddie in Nevada Senatorial Race

Holds 200-Year-Old Ring From Pirate's Chest

SOINT CATHARINES, Sept. 16.—J. W. King of this city, is the possessor of a valuable antique ring which was found in a pirate's chest and is 200 years old. The ring was sent to Mr. King by Fred Sullivan of the City of Bogolousia in South America. Mr. Sullivan was born and raised in Saint Catharines, but is now a timber merchan in South America. The ring has a big opal and is of gold and platinum.

Fewer Alien Visitors Received In England

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Less aliens entered Great Britain during 1925 than during the previous year, according to an official announcement made here. A total of 331,703 aliens entered England during the year and only 2414 were refused admission. Of these, 80 were refused admission on medical grounds.

Tourists from the United States totaled 89,624, but only about 10,000 business visitors, or one-half the number in 1924, came to England in 1925.

"The Slick Guy"

Nearly every one of us has seen the checkered-suit person with the velvet tongue. How smoothly he once told of the merits of this product or that—and raked in perfectly good coin for purchases that were often worthless.

The "slick guy" is seldom seen today. When the wise person goes to buy, he knows what is good in value and fair in price.

Simply by glancing over the advertisements in your paper, you can see where to go for the best buys. You can compare values and check up prices without even stirring from your easy chair. You know in advance just what you are going to get and how much it will cost. And you can have the satisfaction that comes from knowing your money is wisely and safely spent.

Nowadays, no one need be at the mercy of the "slick guy." There are still a few people who fail to read the advertisements—and "take a chance." Don't be one of them.

Advertised products are safe buys.

Blackboard Drill For Westminster Men

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. Sept 16—Something new every day. Candidates for the Westminster college grid squad in training here since September 1 have grown accustomed to the introduction of a new feature each day. However just when they were confident that Head Coach Dwight "Ryke" Beede must be at the end of his string the new mentor issued a call for blackboard drills during the evening hours.

The first of these was held Tuesday evening at which time a complete review of plays was flashed across the boards supplemented with a drill in defensive play. The next "indoor practice" is scheduled for Thursday evening at which time Beede and his assistant, John Lawther will make a complete review of the recent grid rules. They will be explained in full for the coaches are determined that no games will be dropped because of the lack of a working knowledge of rules.

The time has arrived when Beede must make decisions in regards the comparative abilities of his men. A week from the coming Friday the team will be given its first test. Duquesne University is to be met in this fray at Pittsburgh.

Although the squad is considerably handicapped at the present time due to injuries, Beede is permitting no letup. There is no time for a rest. Much will depend on Lady Luck during the next few days. A few more injuries and the team will be far from its capacity strength in the first game. At present Jim McQuiston one of the leading backfield candidates is suffering with a bad knee that may cause him trouble all year. He will not return to uniform until next Monday. "Red" Hostettler, a husky freshman fullback candidate from Erie has not been near the field this week due to a knee injured in the scrimmage last Saturday. "Rusty" Coles, another veteran back has a trick knee which is causing him trouble and incidentally the coaches plenty of worry.

Plastering Work On Hospital Under Way

Expect Grove City Institution To Be Ready In October—Other News

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Stuccoing of the Bashline-Rossman hospital is now taking place. The entire building is being given this outside finish, which includes the new addition to the building, as well as the old hospital building. William Miller, local plaster contractor, has the contract for this work, which is about half completed, as well as the plastering of the building. The hospital, when completed, will be a 48-bed institution with a modern operating room and two sun parlors for convalescing patients. The building will be completed, it is expected, in October. The improvements will cost $25,000.

Tearing down of the frame structures in which material was stored during the term of construction of the First Presbyterian church of Grove City, the H. Platt Company of Erie, general contractors on the job, are making ready to depart, their work finished. The church will be completed ready for dedication by the week of October 17. The Jos. Horne Company of Pittsburgh are laying the carpets this week. The pipe organ will be completed by October 1 and the chimes hung.

Placing of the pews will follow the carpet-laying in the church.

The church was started in May of 1925. First plans were for its completion in the spring of the year. Next dedication plans were made for September, with the use of the building planned for Bible school in August. The inside beauty of the structure compensates for the delays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harshaw, daughter Miss Gertrude, left Wednesday for Madison, Wis. Miss Harshaw will matriculate at the University of Wisconsin there. The trip was made overland by auto.

Miss Isabelle Moon, secretary to Dr. W. C. Ketler, president of Grove City College, is taking the second week of her vacation at this time.

Wednesday, Sept. 15, was the last Wednesday on which Grove City business houses will be closed. The closing period extended from June 15 to September 15.

R. E. Ohles, head of the Reo Motor Company, is here making purchases of engines for his sea yacht, Reo Mar III. Mr. Ohles addressed the Grove City Rotary Club at their Tuesday luncheon. The name Reo is derived from his initials and first letter of his name. While here he was shown through the Bessemer Gas Engine Company factory, from which concern were purchased the Diesel type engines that will be used in his yacht.

The Grove City Rotary Club members go to Kitanning today for the round-up of clubs of the 33rd district, being held there. The event is the annual field day for the clubs. A group of 12 local golfers left this morning for Kitanning, where they will spend the day.

More of the members will make the trip later in the day.

The sun parlor of the Colonial Hall of Grove City College is being redecorated along with repairs on other college buildings during this vacation period. It is the intention of the management to provide by changes at this time more dining room for girls. The hall, filled to overflowing long ago with girl students, will also provide accommodations this coming school year for girls living in the cottages adjoining it. An effort is being made to provide accommodations for all the girls who are making application to enter, but the task is herculean, with the demand the most exceptional in the school history, it is announced. There has been a waiting list of girls for some time. The boys are disposed of by finding them rooms in the town. It is expected that the attendance of 650 in 1925 will not only be duplicated this year, but from indications may be increased.

Invitations are out for a luncheon at the home of Miss Louise Shellito on September 21. Invitations for 40 guests have been sent out.

Secretary Davis Pallbearer At Mother's Funeral

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 16.—Secretary of Labor James P. Davis and his three brothers were pallbearers today at the funeral of their mother Mrs. Esther Nicholas Davis who died Tuesday. In keeping with an old Welsh custom the coffin was carried from the family homestead to the Welsh Baptist church where services were held at 2 p. m. David J. Davis, blind father of the labor secretary insisted his sons act as casket bearers.

Hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have been received from all parts of the world among them one from President and Mrs. Coolidge. The entire lower floor of the Davis home was banked with floral offerings, many of them from government officials and various Moose lodges.

He isn't doomed to remain a bachelor until he gets the notion that all ladies covet him.

U. S. Gunboat Is Fired Upon By Chinese Battery

(International News Service)

PEKING, Sept. 16—An exchange of shots has taken place between the American gunboat Pidgeon and a Chinese shore battery on the upper reaches of the Yangtse river, according to advices reaching the American legation here today.

No Americans were injured.

Boy Is Acquitted In Murder Case

Mother Takes Lad Home After Verdict in Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Sept. 16.—Unconcerned, apparently not realizing what had taken place, Alexander Andy, 12 years old, went home with his mother yesterday afternoon after a jury had found him not guilty of murder. He was the youngest prisoner ever tried on a first degree charge in Westmoreland county.

The boy was accused in connection with the death of John King 45 years old in the rear of the Andy home, Sewickley township, the night of March 14. Defense counsel asked last night that a verdict of not guilty be returned because of insufficient evidence, but Judge Whitten ordered the case resumed. The prosecution today asked for a verdict of manslaughter or second degree murder.

MISS ALLISON TO LEAVE FOR EGYPT

Will Leave October 1 To Resume Her Work On The Foreign Mission Field

Miss Mildred Allison, daughter of Mrs. Ida May Alison of Marshall avenue plans to leave Friday, October 1 for New York City where she will sail a few days later on the City of Benares for Cairo, Egypt, to resume her work on the Foreign Mission Field.

Miss Allison has been home on a furlough for about a year. Previous to returning to this city, she was engaged in teaching in the American College at Cairo. On her return to Egypt she will take a course of two years in the School of Oriental Study in the American College where she will learn the language preparatory of doing special missionary work.

Miss Allison goes to the Foreign field under the supervision of the United Presbyterian church. She expects to be away for six years.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. New Castle Drug Corp., McKee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. sells lots of it.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY FLOOD

HOUSE STRUCK; BARN BURNS; IN STORM

Union Township Barn Destroyed Wednesday Night

Loss Of $1,500 Or More At Property Of Prof. R. G. Leslie During Storm.

New Castle and vicinity was visited last night by one of the most severe electrical storms of the present year and at least two places were struck, fire resulting in one instance, which destroyed the barn of Prof. Roy G. Leslie, principal of the Highland school, the barn being located in the rear of 505 Moore avenue, just outside the city in Union township. The loss was in excess of $1,500.

The barn was filled with hay and other farm products and supplies, which were destroyed. A horse owned by Mr. Leslie was also burned to death, it being impossible to get the animal out before the flames had advanced to the stage where it was impossible to get into the barn, as the fire spread so rapidly after the building was struck. It was but a smouldering mass of ruins in a few minutes.

The building was struck about 7:35 p. m., during the heaviest part of the storm and was burned

SMITH BADLY HURT IN FALL

Second Floor Porch Gives Way And Man Falls Through.

While making a delivery of tea and coffee Tuesday in the Mahoning avenue district, Charles Smith of South Mill street, one of the well known residents of the city and a brother of the late Calvin Smith, met with an accident, in which his left shoulder and arm were broken and other possible serious injuries sustained.

He was making a delivery to a second floor apartment, when the floor of the second floor porch gave away under his weight and he was precipiated to the first floor porch and then to the ground.

It happened that no one was at home at that place at the time and he laid there unable to rise for some time, before some person discovered his plight and he was removed to his home.

His condition is reported as being slightly improved today. It will be some time before he will be able to resume his work.

Arthur Mometer

If many more folks buy an automobile, and "no parking" sign stands increase, a fellow will have to take over a roof and sign the thing up on a lease. For the streets are congested with flivvers of sorts, and the alleys are barred by the law, and parking near plugs that the firemen use is considered a horrid faux pas. Where to park is a question that bothers us all, a question that gives us no rest, and soon we'll be forced to get portable cars, and park long side of our desk. Every day sees new cars and less places to park, and we hardly know just what to do, and soon we'll be hanging our flivvers on trees, the weather is wet, seventy-two.

Delay Flight Of Giant Plane On New York To Paris Trip This Morning

(International News Service)
ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Captain Rene Fonck's New York to Paris airplane flight, scheduled to start today, was postponed indefinitely at 7 o'clock this morning because of a leak in the giant Sikorsky plane's main gasoline tank. The flight may be attempted tomorrow morning if weather conditions improve and repairs to the plane are completed by that time.

Rivet Snaps

After workmen had frantically searched for the leak, it was discovered that one of the twenty thousand rivets in the gas tank had snapped and dropped out. From the small hole thus made, gasoline was gushing at the rate of more than ten gallons an hour.

The postponement disappointed several hundred spectators who had gathered to view the take-off of the huge Sikorsky biplane on the longest non-stop flight ever attempted by an airplane.

Sesqui Loses Court Decision

Dauphin County Court Says Sunday Sesqui Unlawful If Admittance Charged.

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—In a writ of quo warranto issued today against the Sesqui-Centennial association the Dauphin county court holds that it is illegal to keep the exhibition open on Sunday if admission is charged. Attorneys for the association immediately filed notice of their intention to appeal the decision. Request for the issuance of the quo warranto was made by Attorney General George W. Woodruff at the instance of organizations interested in Sunday observance.

After citing the facts in the case, the opinion reviewed other court decisions bearing on Sunday observance and the blue laws of 1794.

In conclusion the opinion said:

"It is hereby adjudged, ordered and decreed that the sesqui-centennial association be ousted from any right, privilege or authority to open, hold or conduct the exhibition operated by the said respondent association on the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, and that the respondent pay the cost of the proceeding."

Although the brief filed by the state against the sesqui was based primarily on the various attractions of the Gladway, the opinion of the court does not differentiate between it and the exhibition proper.

Witnesses Are Called To Tell Of Richeal Case

Sons Of Deceased, Farmers And County Officials Are Summoned To Appear.

Farmers Want To Know Where They Stand As To Private Home Entrances.

While the body of Joseph Richeal lies at his home on the East Brook Station road, preparations were being made today for an inquest to determine the cause of his death, and a hearing on murder charges against Clifford Johnson, Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Minnie Clements.

County Detective George S. Kennedy today subpoenaed witnesses to appear at the office of Alderman Walter Hamilton on Friday evening at 7:30, where the inquest and hearing will be held. Witnesses called include the two sons of Mr. Richeal, several farmers in the community, who were first to arrive at the scene of the tragedy; Sheriff H. M. Reynolds and Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds, who made the arrests, and others.

Hold Three in Jail

District Attorney J. Elder Bryan and probably other private counsel for the Richeal family will represent the commonwealth and Former Judge S. P. Emery and Attorney Clyde Gibson, the defendants. Meanwhile Johnson, Blackford and Mrs. Clements are being held in jail without bail.

Farmers in the neighborhood of the tragedy are very much interested in the outcome of the case, as it brings up the question of what rights, if any, strangers have to park their automobiles in private lanes and driveways, and what steps are necessary to maintain free ingress and egress to farm houses.

The particular section in which the tragedy occurred has been in the limelight several times within the past year or two, in cases growing out of differences between farmers and automobilists. The com-

Cloudbursts Bring Floods To Kansas Towns

TEN MID-WESTERN STATES ARE REPORTED IN FLOODED AREA

Deluges Result In Worst Flood Condition Since Civil War Day Says Report—Twenty Deaths Are Recorded—Hundreds Of Families Are Driven From Homes—Thousands Of Acres Are Under Water.

International News Service

Under overcast skies, which carried the menace of further deluges, the most serious flood since civil war days was sweeping over 10 Midwestern States today, carrying death, privation and suffering with the mad onrush of seething waters, fed by rain-swollen streams and rivers.

Thousands Of Acres Under Water

Thousands of acres of land were under from one to twenty feet of water today and estimates of the property damage already entailed run to $15,000,000.

Hundreds of families have been driven from their homes and many others, marooned on upper floors of their dwellings by the high waters, face starvation.

Dams and levees throughout the district have crumbled before the torrent flooding the lowlands which they protected.

Auto Traffic Halted

Automobile traffic through the areas has been halted for days and trains have been rerouted.

Pumping stations and water works have been forced out of operation when power lines succumbed to the flood and the danger of pestilence through water contamination loomed as additional menace today.

In some sections, no mail deliveries have been made for more than a week, and in many districts, the only means of transportation is by boat.

An inventory of property damage, largely estimated because of the difficulty of an accurate check, follows:

Illinois, $5,000,000; Kansas, $5,000,000; Missouri, $1,500,000; Nebraska, 750,000; Iowa $500,000; Wisconsin, $500,000; Michigan $500,000.

Indicate Twenty Flood Deaths

Incomplete reports, from the flood areas, indicate a total of 20 deaths in the 10 states, directly attributable to the high water. These were divided as follows: Illinois, 5; Kansas, 5; Missouri, 3; Iowa and Nebraska, 2 each, and Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan 1 each. Additional deaths, and scores of lesser casualties will become known, it is believed, as communication is restored.

Meantime, emergency measures were being resorted to in an effort to alleviate conditions. Volunteers corps were stationed along dams and levees to prevent further collapses and relief workers were patrolling the districts in boats, seeking out flood victims.

Blackbirds Meet In Convention In Park Ave. Trees

Thousands Of Birds Discuss Southern Trip And High Cost Of Living.

Annual convention of the National Blackbird Association is being held in the maple trees along East Park avenue. Something less than one million blackbirds are in attendance. Delegates are there from all sections of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the gulf.

Sessions are held morning and evening, the daytime being used in solving the high cost of living. Along about five o'clock in the evening the thousands of blackbirds all with well laden stomachs, begin to assemble in the trees. The limbs fairly bend under their weight,, and the air is resonant with their voices.

Even Attorneys Perplexed

There is some difference of opinion among attorneys who live on the street as to the real objects of the convention. Attorney H. A. Wilkison, who took a correspondence course in blackbird several years ago, maintains that more domesticated home life is one of the prime objects of the meeting.

According to Wilkison, the birds are deploring the spirit of the times, which causes the young and rising generation of blackbirds to forsake their nests at too early an age. Thus they fall a prey to roving cats. One of the blackbirds was heard to proclaim that there is no such thing as home life anymore. Parents are deserted when their offspring are mere fledglings, with scarce any tail feathers.

Takes Issue

Attorney Harvey E. Martin takes issue with Wilkison as to the object of the convention. From what he has overheard, there seem to be two factions, one advocating "bobbed tails" and the other adhering to the time honored custom of long tails. It is claimed that long tails give better facilities for flying. The "bobbed tail" adherents say they don't care a rap for flying, so long as they change the style.

According to Attorney A. Martin Graham, the convention is howling for more and better parking facilities. The roosts are too congested,

CAR UPSETS; FIVE INJURED

Accident Occurs At Curve On Harbor Road Hill Wednesday Night.

Five members of the Burton family, 504 West Pearl street, Butler, Pa., two brothers and three sisters, were more or less severely injured last night about eight o'clock, when their car, a large sedan, skidded on the slippery pavement at Stevenson's Corners on the Youngstown-New Castle road and upset.

Another car immediately behind the Burton machine, crashed into it owing to the fact that it could not be stopped before reaching the Burton car.

It was damaged but not sufficiently to prevent it going on its way after it was determined that no person had been killed in the Burton machine.

Two members of the Burton family, Miss Jean and Miss Olla, are in the Shenango Valley hospital, while Elmer Burton, driver of the car, another brother and another sister, were taken home after their injuries were dressed at the office of Dr. William L. Steen on North Jefferson street.

Passing motorists brought the injured persons to this city, one taking the Misses Jean and Olla to the Shenango Valley hospital where they were reported today as recovering, although suffering considerably from the shock and numerous lacerations and bruises of the face, head and body. They will be able to return home in a short time.

Elmer Burton, the driver, his brother and third sister, were brought in another car to the doctor's office. Elmer had one ear nearly torn from his head, while the brother was apparently suffering from internal injuries in the chest. The third sister had a badly sprained ankle.

These three persons were removed to their home in Butler in the Offutt Company ambulance after their injuries had been attended to. It is probable that the brother may be compelled to enter a hospital in that city.

Hall-Mills Murder Trials May Come During October

Prosecutor Plans To Push Charges Against Four Accused Of Murders.

Mrs. Hall Says She Welcomes Trial As Chance To Prove Innocence.

(International News Service)
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 14.—Confident of winning convictions, Special Prosecutor Simpson today planned to rush the trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, and their cousin, Henry De La B. Carpender. The trial may start the first week in October.

Henry Stevens, the fourth of the wealthy Stevens-Carpender clan to be arrested and indicted for the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, was locked up today in the Somerset county jail. Stevens, it is said, will demand an early hearing and release on bail.

Prosecutor Francis Bergen said he planned to seek an indictment for perjury tomorrow or Monday

By GEORGE H. MANNING
Washington Correspondent of The News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—The New York City dwellers "pay the price" in city taxes for the joy of living in the glare of the bright lights of Broadway.

Tax Double Most Cities

New York folks have to pay high for their harbor, subways, parks, politics and other "big city" advantages, with the result that it costs twice as much to be a citizen of New York City as it does to be a citizen of New Castle and other cities of its class.

Broadway bright light habitues may declare it is worth it; but the figures gathered by Uncle Sam show a rapidly increasing cost of government, a rising tax rate and a per capita debt double that of most cities.

General costs of living are not compared by the Commerce Department in this statistical summary, but only the costs of city government, put on a comparable basis

Two Are Killed In Severe Storm

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16.—Two persons are dead here today and three recovering from injuries resulting from torrential rains which fell in this vicinity late yesterday.

Mrs. Lucy Kept, 31, was killed instantly by a bolt of lightning which struck her as she was hanging clothes in her yard.

Ernest Huffn, 20, of Ravenna, O., died as the result of injuries caused when his automobile skidded.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM NEW BRIDGE

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,, Sept. 16.—An unidentified man committed suicide today by jumping from the Delaware river bridge connecting Philadelphia to Camden, N. J. Police are searching for the body in the river. He is the first person to kill himself by jumping from the bridge since it was completed.

Louis Mazer Hears Indictment Charge

(International News Service)
CANTON, O., Sept. 16.—Louis Mazer was arraigned in the court of Judge A. W. Agler, and served with a copy of the indictment charging him with first degree murder in connection with the shooting to death of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher on July 16, of this year. After an elapse of 24 hours both Mazer and Ben Rudner will be taken into open court and arraigned and given a chance to enter their pleas to the charge of first degree murder.

Mazer this morning told Judge Agler that he was "broke" and asked the court to appoint counsel for him.

SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY

New Castle And Mars To Open Football Season Here.

Saturday afternoon, September 18, at 2:30 o'clock, Daylight Savings Time sees the event toward which most of the people of New Castle have been looking since last fall, the opening of football season.

New Castle High School plays Mars high school in the first game of the 1926 season and the Benjamin Franklin Stadium should be crowded to capacity.

The team this year is an unknown quantity as yet. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has said little but has done much, and just what he has accomplished will be seen in part Saturday afternoon.

The section of the stadium opposite the 50 yard line is being reserved for the season ticket holders as usual, and the balance of the stadium is open for each game. In addition, the bleachers will be up on the west side of the field.

At two thirty the kick-off will take place, and with the kickoff, the beginning of New Castle's big sport, football. Let's crowd the stadium and bleachers for the first game.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grey and daughter Blodwin will return Sunday from a visit in England and Wales.

DRIVERS MUST MAKE STOP

Police Arrest 15 For Failure To Observe Stop Signs.

Traffic violators to the number of fifteen or more were tagged by the motorcycle officers on Wednesday at the Moravia street end of the Gardner avenue viaduct, for non-observance of the main thoroughfare stop regulations.

It is announced that all such violations will be dealt with regularly from now on, owing to the fact that motorists have not made the most of the opportunity afforded them in recent weeks to observe the regulations without constant police supervision.

So many motorists, according to Chief of Police Henry Dysart appear to think that if they merely hesitate or slow up that they have fulfilled the full requirement of the regulation, which requires a motorist to stop at main thoroughfares when crossing or entering them from an intersecting street, that there have been numerous accidents reported at the Moravia street end of the viaduct.

The chief states that the stop signs means exactly what they say, the motorists must come to a full stop before entering into or crossing a main thoroughfare.

Young Girl Is Shot To Death

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 16.—Dolly Hicks, seven year-old daughter of Luther Hicks of Campbell Creek, near here, was instantly killed at her home today by her small brother, Sonny, when the boy fired a gun point blank at her.

The two had been pretending they were Indians, when the tragedy occurred. It was not learned where Sonny found the gun.

Town Talk

Motorists who had the misfortune of finding themselves driving when the rain hit New Castle and vicinity Wednesday night soon wished they were safe indoors. The streets in the downtown section and even well up in the residential parts of the city were flooded from curb to curb and travel over them required no little aquatic skill. Added the hazards was that of the blinding sheets of rain and the un-nerving flashes of lightning.

The sudden storm had its effect on the lighting system and for a number of odd-minute periods the lights of the city were out of commission.

Many persons were somewhat affected by the terrific storm last night, when lightning was flashing every few seconds for a period, it would appear from reports today. In the vicinity of Park avenue, where a home was struck neighbors for a distance in several directions report feeling the effects. W. G. Ayers reports that several persons standing in the doorway of the Scottish Rite cathedral two blocks distant, recoiled severel feet when the bolt struck.

Traffic signal lights on North street got into a tangle during the storm last night. They continued to burn but the signals didn't change. Red remained red on one street and green stayed green the other way. It made a lot of inconvenience to autoists and traffic was congested for some time as motorists waited for the lights to change.

Henry Eise, well known North Hill man, has entered the lists as a contender for local tomato growing championship honors. Eise lives at 425 Norwood avenue and has a garden patch in the rear of his home which he and his wife cultivate. With what degree of success was attested today when he brought to the News office two large specimens which together weigh an even three pounds.

Eise attributes his success in raising tomatoes to his practice of planting very late in the season after the frosts have all gone. His method has its scoffers but its soundness is demonstrated in the handsome tomatoes which he exhibited at the News office today.

There is one job we are certain we were never intended for, that of being a structural steel worker. From our window we can see the structural steel workers standing on the top of iron beams, high in midair at the old Masonic temple, and it looks like very much of a hazardous job to us. The workmen however don't seem to mind it any more than if they were standing on the ground.

Boys and other persons of the city appear to be taking special delight in damaging and tearing up the new no parking signs that have been placed about the city recently, according to Chief of Police Henry Dysart and action is to be taken by the police to put a stop to this practice by capturing some of the persons responsible and making them pay to the full extent of the law.

It's rumored that there is to be a change of name with regard to Neshannock avenue, at least a change has been suggested as appropriate for the reason that that one street now has more police officers residing on it than any other one street in the city. It has been suggested that the street be known as the Avenue De Police.

Five members of the city force are now residing there and it is rumored that this number is to be still further increased. The officers now residing on that street are Pete Hillers, William James, Robert Dukes, Clarence Samuels and U. G. Harper.

When a fellow has never hit the bottom it is natural to doubt his ability to bounce.

down completely by eight o'clock. There was no fire protection available and nothing could be done to save the building.

Park Avenue Home Struck

At 7:40 p. m., lightning struck the chimney of the home of B. R. Smith and Mrs. M. M. Reed, 124 Park avenue, knocking down the entire chimney above the roof and causing considerable loss. There was no resulting fire.

Lightning apparently affected many of the telephone and electric wires during the storm and in many instances, phones and lights were put out of commission at least temporarily.

Street car services, especially on the North Hill district was put out of commission by the storm and it was some time before anything like the regular service had been resumed.

A number of the cars were put out of commission by getting water in the motors and appartus of the cars.

there is not enough room in the Park avenue maples. Some seem to think that if they would move the convention over to Boyles avenue, or better still, Wallace avenue, that conditions would be greatly improved.

Even Bill Has Ideas

Attorney William J. Caldwell, who studied blackbirdology at Oberlin College, is of the opinion that the birds are discussing the millinery situation. Some of the blackbirds are wearing red bonnets, others white, while the old line blackbirds are still adorned in the proverbial black. The red tops and white tops say they don't see any use in going around in mourning.

B. F. Moorhead, who studied blackbirds in their original swamps out in Scott township, maintains that the birds are not concerned in home life and styles so much as they are the proper kind of food. So far as he can understand, there is a distinct movement on foot at the convention for sake bugs, worms and seeds, and subsist solely on package goods.

Rev. Dr. C. B. Wingerd insists he hasn't been in town long enough to diagnose the situation.

In the opinion of E. B. Hawkins the blackbirds convene in Park avenue because they are less liable to be molested there than anywhere else. People who are afraid of the limbs breaking and the blackbirds falling down on them, simply walk in the middle of the street. This, however, is not altogether without danger, as in some places the tree tops interlock.

Charles Is Puzzled

Charles Metzler says he never saw so many blackbirds in all his life, and he has traveled from New Castle to Wampum, Harlansburg, Volant and other distant points. He don't attempt to interpret what they are talking about, but simply calls it chatter.

While Scott Paisley is inclined to think that the birds are yelling for Castoria, he says he isn't at home much in the evenings and can't say for certain.

Before the blackbirds began using the maples as an assembly ground, scores of robins roosted in the boughs. Every evening there is a squabble between the blackbirds and the robins. The robins get out on the telephone wires and call the blackbirds all kind of names.

Residents along the street are hoping that the convention soon ends, as the incessant chatter, to say nothing of other disadvantages is very annoying.

According to numerous North Hill residents the convention last year was held in the Blaine street section. Blaine street residents are perfectly willing to allow Park avenue to be the "convention city."

against Ralph Gorsline, New Brunswick church vestryman, who admitted before the grand jury that he heard the shots that killed Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Gorsline denied for four years being near the Phillips farm the night of the murders. He gave as his reason his desire to protect the reputation of Miss Catherine Rastall, who was with him.

The April grand jury is being held over by Supreme Court Justice Parker until Tuesday for the purpose of considering indictments of two persons for perjury. Who the other person is was not learned.

Henry Stevens Arrested.

Henry Stevens was driven to Somerville by Sheriff John A. G. Grant, who arrested him in his home at Lavallette. Arriving in Somerville, the party went to the state police headquarters.

After being fingerprinted and photographed, Stevens walked with the officials to the county jail four blocks away. He was placed in a cell far from those occupied by Willie Stevens and Carpender.

It appeared doubtful today that Mrs. Hall will be rearrested and placed in jail with her kinsmen. Senator Simpson, it was intimated, will apply for a sweeping increase of Mrs. Hall's present bail of $15,000.

The next move will be the arraignment of Mrs. Hall and her kinsmen before Supreme Court Justice Parker on the indictments.

A conference between the Stevens brothers, Carpender and their counsel, headed by Timothy N. Pfeiffer and State Senator Clarence E. Case, was held this morning in the county jail. Plans for the legal battle were discussed. What action was taken was not revealed.

Mrs. Hall received word of her indictment with the amazing, icy calm that has been characteristic of her during the four years that have elapsed since the errant pastor and his "affinity", Mrs. Mills, were shot to death at the Phillips farm, New Brunswick, while keeping tryst in the gloom of night.

"The only statement we have to make at this time is that we welcome the opportunity to prove our innocence in court," said Pfeiffer, her counsel.

plaint of farmers has been that so-called "petting parties" are held along the public highway and in private lanes and drives.

Numerous Clashes

It is claimed that private drives are often found blocked so that residents cannot reach their homes. Violent word battles and sometimes physical encounters are the result.

Constable Graham of Hickory township, who lives on the Harlansburg road, says that he has been called to this section more than to any other one in the township. The Moffatt school grounds, he says, is a favorite stopping place for the "petters", and on several occasions evidences have been found that the schoolhouse had been entered.

The tragedy which ended in the death of Joseph Richeal, it is pointed out, is the climax to a long series of annoyances to which farmers have been subjected. They look upon his death as something that is likely to befall any of them when they offer objections to having their drives blocked by parked machines.

They recognize the rights of any travelers to pass along the public highway, or even to park along the public highway, so long as there are no infractions of the law, but they believe that private property rights should be respected, and are planning drastic action to enforce their contentions.

"It is not only the "petting parties that annoy us," said one farmer today, "but we are the victims of thieves who come out to steal our corn and fruit. Even potatoes have been dug from the ground. Our crops are trampled, fences are thrown down and cattle are let out. It is hard to catch these marauders, because they jump in their machines and get away before we can reach them."

by averaging the cost for each resident.

The general running expenses of New York City in 1925 averaged $50.27 for every man, woman and child. This is $2.55 more than the 1924 for each resident, and this figure does not include outlays for operating the many public service enterprises, interest on debt, or permanent improvements.

Compared to New Castle

Contrasted with this high governmental cost is the corresponding cost in New Castle, where the city government cost averaged but $23.07 per capita in 1925. New York City's debt averages $212.76 per capita, while the debt of the city of New Castle is only $49.77 per capita. Property taxes in New York last year averaged $53.23 for each resident, while in New Castle property taxes averaged $21.17 per capita.

The per capita cost of city government does not increase in direct proportion to the increase in population of a city, the government statistics show, as many of the larger cities of the country have lower costs for each resident than some of the smaller cities. Buffalo, N. Y., is another city with a high operating cost, for the per capita average there was $51.05 last year, while in Philadelphia, Pa., the running expenses averaged but $39.09 per capita.

LEGION WILL NOMINATE NEW OFFICERS FRIDAY

Because of a new rule established by the State Convention of the American Legion, Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, will nominate officers at the meeting called for Friday night, September 17, according to Commander W. Walter Braham.

The rule is that the post officers must be elected in September and installed in October. Up to this time the local post has nominated in November and elected in December.

All members are urged to be present Friday evening in the Legion Home for the nominations.

French ace, attired in a spick and span French army uniform, arrived at the field shortly after 6 o'clock.

Is Disappointed

As Fonck approached the plane, beaming happily at the thought of speedily being on his way to Paris, five or six workmen were slashing away at the silver gray fabric which stream-lined the plane on the near side of the right hand motor.

Fonck sensed immediately what had occurred, and for an instant he was dumbfounded. Then he shrugged his shoulders expressively, and went inside the cabin.

For a moment it was feared that under the terrific weight of 2,290 gallons of gasoline, weighing more than 13,000 pounds, a seam might have been burst in the tanks. Igor Sikorsky, designer and builder of the plane, was gratified to learn that no structural weakness had occasioned the leak, and that it was attributable entirely to the cracking of a rivet.

The difficulty of repairing the tank was manifest and Capt. Fonck, as he noticed the heavy mist which gathered around the field, reluctantly called the flight off for the day.

CRAIG CASE IS AGAIN DELAYED

Another postponement of the case against Samuel Craig charged with the death of David Jameson, Jr., was made today, the new date for the trial being set for Monday, September 20. At this time, District Attorney J. Elder Bryan expects to be able to press the charges brought.

Butler Testifies In Daugherty Trial

Butler Tells Of Transfer Of Homes By Daugherty And Smith

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Morton D. Miller, a butler, was the first witness called today at the conspiracy trial in Federal court of Harry M. Daugherty and Colonel Thomas W. Miller.

Daugherty, formerly attorney general of the United States, and Miller, formerly alien property custodian, are alleged by the government to have failed to give their best moral and mental efforts in approving a $7,000,000 claim of the German-controlled American Metlas Company—assets seized during the war as alien property.

Miller testified that he had been at one time employed by Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, and that later when Daugherty and his close friend, Jesse Smith, went to live in McLean's house in Washington, he was employed by them.

Find Woman's Body Hanging In Park

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The body of a well dressed middle-aged woman was found hanging from a tree in Lincoln park early today. She had apparently committed suicide. All marks and labels that might aid in establishing the woman's identity had been removed from the clothing.

Make Arrests In Slaying Case On Road Near Chester

Negro Lodged In Jail, Posses Believed To Have Surrounded Companion

(International News Service)

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 16.—With one negro in jail here today and another surrounded by a posse of farmers and authorities in a cornfield in Cecil county, about 16 miles from here, police believe they have the two masked men who killed Walter "Bud" Harden, of Chester, Pa., and attacked two girl companions, Florence Scott, 14, and Anna Klemsky, 17, last Friday near Chester.

Wilson Biddle, 27, held in jail, was captured when detectives followed an automobile containing Biddle and Walter Webb, the other suspect, and the latter's wife. As the detectives in another car stopped the fugitive machine, Webb jumped out and fled into the cornfield nearby, where he is now surrounded and is expected to be captured shortly.

Webb's wife was also taken into custody and brought here.

"SELF-MADE" is "self-reliant" grown up. Confidence is the father of achievement, while independence and initiative are achievements's hand-maidens. Never was a self-made man made by reliance on others, by outside influence or good luck.

It was making the most of his own resources that took Lincoln from rail splitting to the White House; "pull" did not raise Carnegie from stoke-boy in an iron furnace to builder of the greatest steel industry in the world; Thomas Edison did not become the greatest inventor of all time by patiently waiting for the inventions of others; Henry Ford is not the nation's wealthiest manufacturer because he waited for others to experiment with the low-priced automobile, and Columbus did not tarry in the courts of Europe until others set sail for the lands beyond that western horizon.

Every man is the creator of his own destiny. He is provided with certain physical talents at birth, environment may add or detract from those talents during the period of adolescence, but once out in the world it is "every man for himself". Self-reliance is the ever-available and omnipotent weapon of life while reliance on others is life's shackles.

HOOVER VISITS THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE

THERE is a vast amount of human interest in the story of Herbert Hoover's recent visit to the scenes of his boyhood in the vicinity of Portland, Ore. It was frankly a sentimental notion that took the Secretary of Commerce back to the town where he had lived as a youth.

He wanted to meet his friends of the long ago, fish in the familiar streams and above all to take a peep at the old swimming hole. So for the time being he cancelled official engagements and excused himself from the newspaper correspondents in order that he might roam at will and recall those pleasant memories of the days when he went around with the other barefoot lads of the Far Western country.

He met the woman teacher who first introduced him to the mysteries of the alphabet, he located the Quaker meeting house which he had attended with a stern uncle, and he even remembered the spot where he had suffered heroically with his first toothache.

This historic pilgrimage and these homely incidents will strike a sympathetic chord in the minds of thousands because they appeal to the emotions which are common to all. The people wanted to welcome him as a distinguished son, but he avoided such demonstrations. He wished to wander along and try to relive the olden days. We wonder how he succeeded. Nothing is said about his impressions. But if he is anything like the majority of men and women he must have had more than one pang of disappointment, suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer. No doubt he was pleased with the evidences of progress on every side, but it is doubtful if that was what he was after.

Most of us who return to the old scenes receive something like a shock. No days are quite like the days of our boyhood; they live in memory and they are usually idealized. The stern reality plays havoc with our dreams. The reason is not hard to find. What we see through the eyes of childhood and what we view through the eyes of maturity are entirely different pictures. And so comes a certain disillusionment.

Yet countless numbers will go on doing what Secretary Hoover has been doing, in the hope of getting a glimpse of the magic with which they have surrounded their early environment.

A CURIOUS COINCIDENCE

THE EXPERIENCE of American cities in the last few years has been ample to prove that nothing in the world has more explanations for its being than what is commonly known as a crime wave. Whenever a particularly complete assortment of crime breaks loose, in a week someone begins the "wave" talk and a lot of new reasons for lawbreaking are unveiled; jazz, high wages, automobiles, weakening of parental hold on children, moonshine, reaction to the war and so on.

One major cause has never been discussed. Why it should presage crime waves no one knows, yet it is a fact backed by statistics that wherever it occurs an interesting selection of high-class felony is bound to follow within 24 hours. It is a public anouncement by some official in New York, Chicago or some other large city that its police department is the finest in the world. Which may or may not be true. At any rate, within a few hours after the bouquet is tossed the well-known underworld starts rampaging and the "best department in the world" begins to create a new record for excitement.

The coincidence of the two has recurred too frequently to be dismissed as merely accidental. Some expert gentleman should look into the thing and explain the relation betwen an official's pride in his department and a bandit's sudden resolve to go back to his dirty work.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:07. Sun rises tomorrow 5:44.

If the average New Castle bride and groom had to furnish their bungalow with the wedding presents, it would be a devil of a looking place.

It costs a dollar to take an automobile into the Sesqui-Centennial grounds in Philadelphia and you would be surprised the number of cars that dollar keeps out.

Saw a girl on the street yesterday wearing silk stockings of a different shade—flesh color on one leg and light green on the other. And we suppose our readers will want to know how the dickens we came to be looking that direction.

A widow with three small children was sent to jail for thirty days in West Virginia for possessing liquor. The judge said that "No mother even if she had a family could violate the liquor laws and be immune from punishment." On the other hand, no doubt most people would think the judge was doing about right if he left the widow go back to her babies after the first offense. There are some mighty queer things going on in liquor law prosecutions.

The young sport still says: "Fill 'er up again" in the same old tone of voice, but he means the tank.

It was in a New Castle home where a little company was being entertained. "What do you think of the prohibition?" asked one man of another. Just then the wife of No. 2 broke in, franctically, "John!" she yelled. "Remember there are ladies present!"

New Castle must be sort of a marrying center. You have perhaps noticed that not half the marriage licenses granted in this county are taken out by Lawrence county couples. Some days in the list not one local resident is named.

Not one-fourth of the voters of New Castle have registered yet and two of the registration days have gone by and there is only one more chance to register before the coming fall election which is very important. Are we led to believe that most people are satisfied with their voting at the primaries and do not want to make any change? Of course that is the right thing to do, but it is very unusual here since the primary system has been in vogue.

It is said that cider is being sold for twenty dollars a barrel this fall. When we look away back and think of the time when we sold a barrel of cider for two or three dollars we are almost sorry that we had any part in such a transaction. Cider is not worth twenty dollars a barrel until, a long time after it is made to many people.

We are told that there is no beef shortage in this country. However there is still too much beefing.

In speaking of a pretty girl, we used to say she had a "tinge of color" in her cheeks. What would you say now? Answer me that.

A lot of people would like to see Jack Dempsey get a good clouting at Philadelphia next week. Of course this is the calls who think people should get out after they have had a good thing long enough. It might be a long time before another champion as good as Jack comes along. We are not worrying about him or his opponent one bit and the decision will suit us no matter how it goes. Could anything be fairer than that?

People who persistently go out on the highways and byways looking for trouble will meet it sure if they keep at it long enough. Trouble as a rule comes a running without much going after it.

Gov. Pinchot says he is a Republican. He ought to be made prove it by letting some one go into the booth with him on election day and see how he votes.

The style of making shirts tighter and shorter will not be welcomed by fat ladies. Fat ladies have a lot to bear and it's clothes as a rule.

The worst kind of nut in the world is the one who has been an evil cur for many years and then suddenly thinks he has turned good. That kind of babies are hard to get along with.

An Ohio lady wants a divorce from her husband because he is always peeping in the window to see if she is talking about him. He evidently thinks she is not speaking kindly of him. We would suggest dropping something from an upper window as a cure.

I guess all of us ought to sit down and ponder a while over the words of the ancient Euripides who said: "If thou wilt not restrain thy tongue, it will bring evil unto thee."

The reformer in politics is always one who has been disappointed in either being elected to an office or being appointed to one. You do not know one who is not all of that and as a rule they are not good for the community in which they live or for the country.

One trouble with the average New Castle home is that Friend Husband's fool notion that the meals ought to be ready the moment he gets home.

THE LITTLE DOG

A little dog barked at the big, round moon
That smiled in the evening sky,
And the neighbors smote him with rocks and shoon—
But still he continued his ragful tune
And he barked till his throat was dry.

But soon 'neath a hill that obstructed the west,
The moon sank out of sight;
And it smiled as it slowly dropped under the crest,
But the little dog said, as he lay down to rest,
"Well! I scared it away all right!"

A Detroit milkman lost money he had collected from his company's customers on the races. But the company didn't go and sue the horses which failed to win for him; oh no! They went and had the poor milkman arrested.

"I am glad to say," remarked the employer, "that my office force gets more work done when I am away than when I am around to watch them."

Heard on a street car, being a conversation between two women:
"My dear, I wouldn't know him from Adam."
"Oh, yes you would. He wears more."

"That's a good idea," said Page; "I must do that, too. I've got to introduce Caine in a few minutes, and I want to be able to say that I have read something he has written."

STILL USEFUL

We have wasted a lot of sympathy on the manufacturer of hairpins since the bob came in. Here we supposed all demand for them had ceased and the poor manufacturers were wearily climbing over the hills to the poorhouse, but an eastern paper has discovered 16 ways they still use this valuable little article. Here they are:

Cleaning a comb.
Buttoning her shoes.
Opening letters.
Buttoning gloves.
Punching holes.
Cleaning finger nails.
As a book mark.
Substitute for a hatpin.
Lifting lid of powder box.
Picking a locked door.
As a safety pin.
As a toothpick.
As a key ring.
As a lamp trimmer.
For repelling assault.
Husbands use it as a pipe cleaner.

Senator Jim Reed of Missouri promises to retire from the senate in two years when his term is ended. A good deal may happen in two years time, perhaps a withdrawal of his retirement promise—worse luck.

Speaking of petting parties there are some people who wouldn't be missed except for their meanness, when they are petted in the face with a spade.

France and Germany through their envoys to Geneva have pledged "eternal peace" between the two countries. It sounds well, but eternity is a long time and peace is very elusive.

There are millions of Americans who can't dance, but only a small portion of them realize it.

It is said that Switzerland is already beginning to feel the importance of Mussolini's warning to the Italians to do their traveling in Italy and spend their money at home. The number in Switzerland so far has been a decrease over the past season and the number in Rome has correspondingly increased. Now if the Americans would stay at home they would have a great deal more knowledge of their own country and they wouldn't hear so much yapping by the French.

Henry Ford is the only billionaire in the United States according to the Treasury department, but there are 11,000 millionaires. The Treasury department didn't give out how many paupers there are so those who read the statement will think that everyone here is rich.

The revival of Irish linen can be made in this country as a very high grade of flax is being grown in Oregon. This country is the home of the Irish potato; it was recently discovered in Ireland that the fine Irish cured bacon they serve came from the United States and what is more logical than having Irish linen made here too.

It certainly must be hard to stop cussing in Italy when there is so much to cuss at.

A sympathetic editorial writer bewails the fact that Jack Dempsey, whether he beats Tunney or not, will get 14,000 times what Milton got for writing "Paradise Lost."

On the other hand, Milton probably would rather write "Paradise Lost" for $70 than beat Tunney for $1,000,00. Abraham Lincoln would rather have written his Gettysburg speech for nothing than beat Tunney and Dempsey both. Some things to some men are more important even than cash.

Democrats of New York are building up their platform for this fall as a preparation for next year's convention and presidential nomination.

To the statement of President Coolidge's friends, "prosperity is the only issue for 1928," the Democrats will reply, "you are wrong, making whisky the only national beverage, with crime on the side, is an issue."

It will be an interesting fight in 1928.

GREATEST IN THE KINGDOM: —Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 18:4.

In Day's News

The Rt. Rev. Arthur Jerome Drossaerts, who has been appointed first archbishop of the newly created archdiocese of San Antonio, is well known to Roman Catholics throughout the southwest by reason of his eight years of service as bishop of San Antonio. Bishop Drossaerts has just entered upon his 65th year. He is a native of Holland and received his ecclesiastical training at the Haaren Theological seminary in that country. In 1890 several years after his ordination to the priesthood, he came to America and was assigned to a pastorate in Texas. In 1918 he was consecrated bishop of San Antonio. The new archdiocese of San Antonio of which he is to be the head will embrace the whole of Oklahoma and all of Texas, with the exception of the diocese of El Paso.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

DANGER FROM TOO GOOD FOODS

A doctor has recently declared that the health of modern civilized people is threatened by the perfection of their food.

Since man's advent upon the planet for thousands of years he has been compelled to hustle in order to get something to eat. In fact, that has been his chief occupation, as it is still with the case of the horse and the ox.

Most of his foods were of an imperfect nature. Fruits and grains contained a good deal of waste matter and meats were eaten sparingly.

Consequently his digestive apparatus was adapted to a great deal of fodder, or waste matter.

And now comes the modern era with all sorts of refined foods. The bran is sifted from the flour and other foods are canned with the waste eliminated. The consequence is that man is afflicted with food in a too concentrated form.

One of the types of food of a most condensed kind is that of sugar, or candy. Those who eat too many sweets are subject to all kinds of complaints.

The tendency to use condensed foods becomes stronger and stronger, and one becomes more and more disinclined to leafy vegetables and other forms of food containing much fodder. The result is the impairment of health.

It has even fancifully been proposed to prepare all foods in the form of a pill, and one might take a pill and a drink of water in lieu of eating a meal.

Theoretically this would be ideal. Practically it will not work. The system needs not only the requisite amount of carbohydrates, proteins and fats, together with water, but it also needs those foods which produce vitamines. It needs also what we call "roughness" in feeding cattle; that is, the intestines must be supplied with a certain amount of bulk. The concentrated foods do not supply this. Hence man is afflicted with constipation and many other ills.

Altogether it looks as if the increase in the perfection of foods is not a blessing.

One reason why a horse usually has good health is that he has to walk around generally in order to get anything to eat. A man sits still and his food is brought to him, with disastrous consequences.

SELF-PUNISHMENT

There is no law which says you shall be kind.
'Tis not a legal crime to keep your own.
Man has the right to all things to be blind
Except what serve and profit him alone.

To worship money is no state offense,
One may or may not choose to be polite.
Be coarse, be scornful, in the legal sense
You have not stepped beyond your civic right.

Not very fine the line which stautes draw.
We all are free our lives to shape and plan;
The courtesies are not required by law.
One is not forced to be a gentleman.

But he who lives for self and petty gain,
Whose bargains stamp him merciless and cold,
Outside the walls of prison may remain
To find his spirit shackled, treblefold.

GENERAL MOTORS SAYS IT PAYS

It has been hammered into the minds of the Americans that advertising pays. There are yet however, many merchants manufacturing wholesaling and retailing goods, wares and merchandise, who do not realize the great results that may be obtained by reason of the intelligent use of printer's ink.

There are none so stupid or courageous as to suggest even that the General Motors Corporation has been anything other than a tremendous success. The general public know pretty well the brands of automobiles manufactured and sold by this corporation. The highly paid advertising experts, who prepare the advertisements of the various motor cars, made by the General Motors Corporation, have acquainted the citizens of the nation with these brands. Their advertisements have been published in every newspaper and magazine worth mentioning.

General Motors undertook to put a self-icing refrigerator on the market—not in any way connected with the motor car business. The idea of a self-icing refrigerator had to be sold to the American people and the General Motors Corporation has sold it. Just how well advertising of the "Frigidaire" has sold the self-icing refrigerator can best be told in the present plans of the Delco Light Company of Dayton, Ohio, a subsidiary corporation making the "Frigidaire." The corporation makes no bones about it. It gives out to the public, through the newspapers, the following statement:

"Newspaper advertising, according to officials, has made necessary a $100,000,000 expansion program, started this week by the Delco Light Company, Dayton, Ohio. Immediate plans call for the construction of a $20,000,000 factory addition—one mile long at Moraine City near Dayton. The new factory will be used entirely for the construction of electric refrigerators."

The Delco Company makes other things, but the electric ice-box is the principle article of manufacture now. General Motors took over the Delco Company because its products were useful, but the sales of the electric ice-box have exceeded by far the sales of the other products.

A year ago the Dayton plant employed 3500 people. Today it employs 7,000 people—more than are employed in the National Cash Register Plant—and by the end of the year, it is expected there will be 12,000 employees.

General Motors and the Delco Company give the glory of this achievement to those who deserve it. They say "The newspapers of America have sold the electric ice-box."

Yes, advertising pays.

Six Truckloads Of Lincoln Papers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Six truckloads of private papers, documents and letters written by Abraham Lincoln now held for safekeeping in the library of congress may be revealed to the public at a date much earlier than 1939—the date set in Robert T. Lincoln's, his son's agreement with library officials.

In 1919 Robert Lincoln formulated an agreement that the historic papers be kept in the library locked up for 20 years. The papers were the same that Nicolay and Hay perused in preparing their biography of Lincoln. Robert believed that if the papers were made public now irresponsible writers would turn their information to commercial purposes. Twenty years from now he believed the documents will have lost much of their commercial value.

Upon Robert Lincoln's death however the papers along with other Lincolniana were willed to his wife It is now within her to decide whether they will be revealed sooner.

The famous Healy portrait of Lincoln which now hangs in the Lincoln home here undoubtedly will be offered to the White House in accordance with his son's oft-expressed desire. It was considered by Robert to be the best likeness of the emancipator.

The gold watch of Lincoln a prized possession of his son during his life time may also be given to the government.

Co-Operation Here Will Prove Benefit To City's Future

Mayor William Dunlap proposes to issue an invitation to the various civic organizations to appoint committees, to later marge as an executive committee to confer with city traffic heads as to the best plans for expedition of traffic movements here, and other improvements, he said today.

He made known these plans today while engaged in conversation with Councilman Louis Genkinger.

Mayor Dunlap also paid a compliment to the Chamber of Commerce and especially its new commissioner, Mr. Chilton, when he said:

"During the past few weeks there has been a spirit of co-operation between the chamber and city officials.

"Mr. Chilton has conferred with officials of the city on various subjects and we are certainly glad to have conferred with him."

Councilman Genkinger remarked that "The time has come when the people of New Castle are seeing the light by pulling together."

Both he, the mayor and other councilmen who arrived during the conversation expressed the hope that by concerted effort the Chamber of Commerce could succeed in bringing new industries here.

In plain words, the officials of the city went on record as being in favor of everything the chamber does toward bettering New Castle industrially.

One of the new plants recently launched here, though not yet ready to operate has orders for almost 5,000 bumpers and with a city council supporting the Chamber of Commerce persons who wish to locate in New Castle can rest assured of a hearty welcome, good sites and favorable treatment.

Dance Halls To Open Soon

Permits Being Taken Out For Operation This Fall.

Soon the dance halls of the city will be in full blast for the fall and winter season and the youth of the city will be tripping the step light and fantastic. Already quite a number of the halls have taken out their permits, indicating that the indoor dancing season is about to begin.

Mrs. Minnie McKibben, city police woman, who since her appointment to the police force of the city a number of years ago, has had direct supervision of the dance halls, will again act in a supervisory manner and see that the state and local regulations are enforced as in past years.

Mrs. McKibben states that the law which prevents persons under sixteen years of age from attending public dances will be strictly enforced, also that obnoxious type of dances and undesirable persons will be eliminated as in the past.

Dance halls of the city have had a reputation of being conducted in a creditable manner in recent years and it is proposed that this reputation shall be continued during the coming season.

Rev. Neale Is Speaker—Other News Notes Of Volant District

(Special To The News)

VOLANT, Pa., Sept. 16.—The Young Peoples' Council of Lawrence county held their meeting at the Volant Methodist church on Monday evening. Rev. Neale of New Wilmington was the principal speaker. A light lunch was served and games were played. The next meeting will be held at the Rich Hill church, the first of next month.

VOLANT NOTES

There will be no church services at the Methodist church on Sunday morning on account of the pastor, Rev. Edwards who is attending Erie Conference at Oil City, Pa.

A number of local residents attended the Mercer fair on Wednesday.

Three local young men have resumed their classes at Westminster College this week, they are John Rohrbaugh, William Allen and Glenn McCracken.

The community was shocked to hear of the death of Dr. J. P. Kirk, of Erie. He resided here all his life until eight years ago when he moved to Erie. The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the residence with Rev. McKnight of Kingsley church officiating. Those who attended the services were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Allen, and Will Ediburn of Volant.

Mrs. J. E. Hillard who recently moved to Pittsburgh is spending a few days at her old home here.

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 16.—Philip Alexander, aged 19, a resident of the Mercer vicinity, is in the Mercer hospital today, with a broken leg and other injuries the result of an early morning accident at the Bessemer crossing on the Franklin road, two miles from Mercer.

His car crashed into a Bessemer freight train that was crossing the road, apparently he being unable to see the train due to the storm.

He was found by other motorists and taken to the Mercer hospital, where it is stated today that he will recover.

French Bloc For League

Election Of Czecho-Slovakia Brings Gloom To Germany.

By S. DUNBAR WEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Following two ballots the League of Nations assembly today elected nine nations to none-permanent seats in the league council.

Eight nations were elected on the first ballot, but it took a second ballot to determine the ninth seat which was eventually won by Czecho-Slovakia with 27 votes. The election of Czecho-Slovakia brought gloom to the German delegation for they fear that it creates a French bloc in the council, consisting of France, Poland, Roumania and Czecho-Slovakia.

Lightning Causes Small Oil Fire

(International News Service)

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Flames, which destroyed a seventy-five barrel oil tank here after the tank was fired by lightning, today had burned themselves out, without damage to nearby tanks.

The tank, located on Point hill, was one of a group belonging to J. B. and E. J. Rial, operators. Other tanks near the blazing container were towed from the danger zone with tractors. Loss was not estimated by owners of the trank.

The storm, which lasted only twenty minutes, was so severe that fear was entertained for nearby tanks, and emergency crews were ordered to place themselves in readiness to prevent a greater loss.

A heavy rainstorm followed the electrical storm.

Bobby Jones Leads Evans

(International News Service)

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 16,—Bobby Jones, champion of champions, was two up on his great rival, Chick Evans, at the end of nine holes this morning in the national amateur golf championship. A title that Jones has held for two successive years. Bobby jumped into the lead by winning the second and third holes and held it without trouble to the turn.

For a whiter wash without scrubbing

—just try this granulated soap

GROCERS all over town—women, too—are telling about this new way of washing.

They like to recommend this amazing new kind of soap that soaks out dirt and stains—that gets the week's wash spotless without a bit of hard rubbing!

Try it and see! Just soak the whole week's wash in creamy Rinso suds—rinse—and dirt floats off by itself. You don't need to touch a washboard. Even in the hardest water the most soiled spots need only a gentle rub or two between the fingers.

Millions of women do the wash this "no work" way every week, because Rinso gives them a whiter, brighter wash than ever—in half the time!

Softens hardest water

Rinso, the granulated laundry soap, gives thick lasting suds in the hardest water. It's all you need on washday. No bar soaps, chips or water softeners—Rinso itself acts as a softener.

Absolutely safe for hands and clothes; contains no acids, bleaches or harmful chemicals. Clothes actually last longer—they're not scrubbed threadbare on a washboard.

No boiling needed!

Say goodbye to hot, steamy kitchens, for now you don't need to boil the wash unless you like to. Rinso soaking whitens without boiling. Sterilizes, too!

Try Rinso just once—that's all we ask. You'll never go back to washboard scrubbing again! Get it today. For economy and best results, follow easy directions on packet.

Fine in washing machines

Rinso is so fine in washers that makers of 28 leading washing machines recommend it. Quick and safe—and gets white clothes whiter, colored clothes brighter.

SAYS BREAD NOT FULL 24 OUNCES

Because of the fact that loaves of bread advertised by a certain chain store as weighing 24 ounces, have been found to weigh but 20 ounces and occasionally even slightly less than that, W. A. Brown, sealer of weights and measures, has ordered the district manager of this group of stores to report to the office of consultation concerning the matter.

While there is no state law requiring that a loaf of bread weigh that amount or any other specified number of ounces, yet the fact that the concern is misrepresenting the real facts concerning the weight of the bread sold, is the reason for the action of the sealer of weights and measures and probable further action, if the matter is not adjusted.

The same concern, according to Mr. Brown, is selling a loaf for the same price in Youngstown, O., that does come up to the advertised weight. Ohio has a state law, however, requiring that the bread weigh 24 ounces.

Says Man's Voice Best Over Radio

By SONIA LEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The voice with the smile always wins.

That's why a woman stands little chance of intriguing a Romeo's fancy over the air.

"The first radio lesson for women," today declared Lowel Crosley, Jr., president of the Crosley Radio corporation of Cincinnati, in attendance at the third annual radio show, "is to keep off the air. No one will deny that most every girl beats a symphonic orchestra ten ways west, in the lilting quality of her tones, when you talk to her. On the radio it's most likely that sensitive man will whirl the dial in a hurry, hunting for a gruff masculine voice to beguile the hours.

"Seriously, the trouble is due to the higher frequency of a woman's voice. It fails to carry, and to it, as it passes through the ether, is imparted a harsh, unpleasant quality. My advice to women—pending improvements in receiving and sending apparatus—is to limit their radio activities to fussing at their husbands for making radio widows out of them.

"Incidentally, that's a problem that's not at all humorous. Radio has become a passion with many men. It wasn't at all unusual for a man to clamp on the ear-phones the moment dinner was over—and he might have been in Hindustan for all the company he was. But women now are equally interested in getting distance, equally interested in the mechanical problems presented by radio.

"Radio men over the country say that just as many applause cards and requests for certain numbers, kicks on definite policies, are now being received half and half from both men and women."

Police Hear Of Two Acidents

Two slight accidents were reported to the police Wednesday. G. D. Tate, 846 Franklin avenue, reported that while driving south on N. Jefferson street at North street, a man crossing Jefferson street on foot failed to notice the warning sounded by Mr. Tate and was struck and knocked down by the Tate machine. He was apparently not hurt.

Joseph Jedzinak of 132 West Long avenue, reported that he was driving south on Moravia street between Center alley and Long avenue when the machine of David D. Davis ran into his machine, damaging it, then ran into the car of H. C. Stillings of 310 South Walnut street.

THE 100-POINT MAN

The National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, gives each salesman a credit of one point for selling a certain amount of their product. The salesman who succeeds in securing a credit of one hundred points every month for a year is eligible in the "Hundred Point Club." He is a 100 point man. It's an honor for which every salesman strives. The men who attain this honor are, of course, men of ability—men full of life, ambition, vim, vigor, vitality and energy. They are men who succeed. The man who succeeds in any line of business must be a "Hundred Point Man." Do you belong to this class? Perhaps you once did. You may HAVE BEEN a "Hundred Point Man." But possibly you have violated the laws of health. Are you conscious of a drain that is constantly sapping your energy and vitality? Are you weak, despondent, lack ambition, unable to concentrate your thoughts on your work? Do you have to DRIVE yourself constantly? If so don't delude yourself that you will wear out this feeling. Your failure to be a "Hundred Point Man" may be due to early folly, or some deep seated chronic ailment.

PLANS TO TRY 23-MILE SWIM

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—George K. Arthur, the young English actor who has become familiar to American audiences through his portrayal of effeminate young men on the screen, will attempt to win the $25,000 prize offered by William Wrigley, Jr., to the first person swimming the 23-mile channel between the mainland and Catalina island.

Arthur went into training immediately under Coach Swendson of the Hollywood Athletic Club and will be ready for the swim by January 15, when the contest will start.

Arthur, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, some years ago swam from Quickingham to Richmond, on the Thames river. He was junior champion of the southern counties of England before coming to America and holds several British records.

The numerous and devastating forest fires in western United states and Canada during the past few weeks have made wonderful movie "shots."

Jack Conway, directing "The Understanding Heart," based on the story by Peter P. Kyne, has just completed the filming of a fire that devastated a great acreage in the mountain sections of Northern California. The fire wasn't called for in the scenario, but the director couldn't resist the opportunity to incorporate the blaze into his story.

Immediately upon the return of the Pacific Coast battle fleet from its summer cruise up the coast, more than 2,000 bluejackets and marines turned out for fall football practice. The coming season's west coast navy football league will be composed of some twenty-five sailor teams.

The battleship league at San Pedro will be represented by twelve battleship elevens, consisting of the California, Colorado, West Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, New Mexico, Idaho, Mississippi, Nevada, Oklahoma, Arizona and Pennsylvania.

The San Diego naval district's football conference will be composed of teams from the fleet air force, the submarine base, the destroyer division and the Marine barracks.

The sailor elevens will be coached by naval officers who played on the Annapolis varsity last year.

The movie beauty contest is as popular a jest in Hollywood as the mother-in-law gag with the comic artist. The Universal company, however, has ever been the friend of beauty contest winners and the wisdom of this course has been proved by experience.

Mary Philbin and Gertrude Olmstead, now movie stars, got their start by winning a beauty contest in Chicago and being rewarded with a six month's contract with Universal. Both are now working on the Universal lot.

Dorothy Gulliver, won a beauty contest in Salt Lake City a year ago, and is now leading lady in a college series written by Laemmle. Dorothy Kitchen, another contest winner, is playing in Universal comedies.

Autoist Hitting Dog And Fleeing Liable To Penitentiary Term

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—An automobile driver who hits a dog and runs away, in the state of Pennsylvania is liable to a maximum penalty of one year in prison according to L. W. Ahn, superintendent of Western Pennsylvania Humane society.

Ahn quoted a decision of Judge William D. Porter of superior court in which the judge held that any autoist who harms a person or the property of a person on a public highway should stop and render aid. Failing to do so constitutes an offense he held.

"A dog is property in Pennsylvania by law and, therefore" Ahn said "a motorist must stop and render aid even though he was not at fault. He must care for the dog himself or he must secure aid of a policeman to kill the dog or care for it. Breaking the law is punishable by fine of not less than $10 or not more than $200 or more than one year in prison for each offense" Ahn added.

The new Atlantic Gasoline has made this a great summer for thousands of motorists

"MY CAR never ran better." . . . "The best gasoline I've ever used." . . . "The smoothest motor performance I've ever experienced." . . . "The finest all-round gasoline on the market." . . . "The biggest money-worth in the motor fuel field today."

That's the sort of talk you hear from returning summer motorists. In chatting about their trips, about the roads, about their cars, about motor fuels—almost invariably a good word is passed about the remarkable new Atlantic Gasoline.

If you haven't learned about it, your own motor is ready to speak. Get a filling of the new Atlantic and listen to the story. Put your car through the paces of a packed city street—where you creep, spurt and brake. Feel it skim over the open roads like a flat rock over the surface of a lake. Take it out to that pesky hill against which you've been nursing a grudge—and watch your grudge disappear!

Then you'll understand! Then you'll see what a difference there can be in gasoline. You'll find this Atlantic—a new combination of gasoline elements refined from different crudes—has everything to be desired in a fuel for present-day motors: Power. Easy starting. Uniform combustion (smoothness). Freedom from carbon. The range to adapt itself to every condition of motor speed, load and temperature. And reasonable price besides! Try it today.

MAN, CHASING HAT, KILLED ON "L" AND TRAFFIC IS HALTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A straw hat caused the death of its owner this morning and resulted in a 40-minute tie-up of northbound traffic on the Second avenue elevated line during the peak of the rush hour.

A sudden gust of wind blew the hat from the head of an unidentified man standing on the platform of the Eighth street station. Attempting to recover it he fell, and rolled between the platform and the first car of the train and was crushed.

The rescue squad worked 20 minutes before the body was extricated by shopping away part of the platform, while train after train lined up behind the first one.

Plan For Economical Operation And Safety Of Air Merchant Marine

More Than Fifty Experts Start Investigation Of Every Phase Of Aircraft.

Follow Two Important Courses In Study Of Safety For Flying Ships.

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The federal government has taken steps to insure safety and economical operation of the nation's air "merchant marine".

More than 50 experts at the bureau of standards were at work today on a thorough investigation of virtually every phase of aircraft operation and construction.

Results of the study will be made available to aircraft manufacturers and recommendations made probably will be incorporated into the aeronautical regulations to be prepared by the department of commerce to govern commercial flying.

Plan to Revise Code.

Steps to revise the national air safety code will be taken at once. In view of the probability of the operation of a large fleet of commercial planes within a few years and rapid development in aeronautics frequent corrections in the code will be necessary, officials said.

Experts announced that the study is taking two courses:

(1) Improvement upon construction to promote safety to passengers.

(2) More economical operation that overhead costs may be cut, depreciation reduced and profits made possible for operating companies.

Because of the virtual certainty that the national air transportation system will carry thousands of passengers annually, first attention is being given the effort to increase the dependability of all types of air craft.

A vast store of aeronautical information prepared during the war will now be converted to peacetime purposes. At the time the bureau is carrying on its studies of military aircraft for the war and navy departments.

Stop-Proof Motors.

Airplane motors will be made as near "stop-proof" as possible. Reliability and economy of operation and long life were regarded as the three essentials in the perfection of motors.

Experts are going into radio science to devise the best methods of communication with aircraft. Radio beacons and other aerial aids to air transportation are being perfected.

In a study of dirigible balloons the bureau has discovered an important method of conserving expensive helium gas. A condenser has been perfected for motor exhausts which retains the water in the gas discharge, more than making up in weight the loss of consumed gasoline. In this way necessity of discharging helium from the balloon is eliminated.

Ticket Scalpers For Big Fight Are Having Hard Time

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—That the ticket scalpers here are having difficulty in procuring seats for the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship fight scheduled for Sept. 23, was indicated here today when a scalper approached Dr. Leonard Fryckburg, head usher of the sesqui-centennial stadium, and offered him $100 for every seat he could purchase within ten rows of the ringside.

The head usher said he referred the man to Tex Rickard's ticket office.

West Virginia's New Capitol Lacking In Acoustic Properties

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 16.—Remedies for poor acoustic properties of some of the rooms of the first unit of the new capitol, built a year ago, were discussed in a conference today of the board of control with Charles S. Hequembourg, representing the architect, and Raymond V. Parsons of Cleveland, an acoustical engineer. The four large corner rooms and the assembly room of the board of education are giving the principal difficulty with acoustics and a trial of the plan suggested by Parsons on the room occupied by J. F. Lakin, president of the board, was under consideration.

Hequembourg declared the trouble was not due to any oversight of the architect, but that the capitol commission, in bringing the cost of building down to funds available, had eliminated specifications for acoustical treatment and made other changes in the plans that contributed to the result.

Agents Selling Booklets Are Ordered To Cease Operations Here

Attention was called to the police department and the New Castle Chamber of Commerce yesterday that a crew of solicitors were attempting to sell a booklet on tuberculosis to the business men of the city.

Chief Henry Dysart and Mayor W. H. Dunlap immediately got on the job and apprehended these people.

They then communicated with the Chamber of Commerce, and the secretary, with Mayor Dunlap and Chief of Police Dysart, had a conference with these people and advised their discontinuing operations here.

It was brought out in this conference that these solicitors bought this little booklet and re-sold it to the business people, making considerable profit which did not go to any tuberculosis society or any other association of this nature, but was direct profit to the solicitors. After this conference these people, of which there were six, immediately ceased operations and left town.

The cooperation of all of the people of New Castle is urgently requested, that such practices may be prevented here, as it means a great loss to the business interests from which absolutely no beneficial returns are received. The New Castle police department, the banks and the Chamber of Commerce are only too glad to cooperate at all times to prevent this loss of money in New Castle.

Verdicts Against Defendants Found

J. C. Scofield, charged with assault and battery, was found guilty by a jury at court Wednesday afternoon. Frank Metlin, charged with Sodomy, was also found guilty.

The case of Ollie Rollins, colored, of Ellwood City, in which he is charged with the larceny of a watch and $20 from Anderson Miller, is on trial before Judge Hildebrand this morning.

The Odds

are against young men who are living this month on next month's pay.

Some of these days you will run into a real opportunity which requires a little cash to handle, and, as the saying goes, you will be "out of luck."

If you go to the trouble of investigating the early careers of men who are in prosperous circumstances today, you will find nearly always that they had a Savings Account instantly ready to take advantage of opportunities when they came.

Don't think this is mere preaching. It is an absolute truth, and young men who fail to heed this advice will live to admit the error of their careless spending.

Doña CASTILE

a delicious toilet soap for American women

Doña Castile! And what is Castile? The soap the beauty and fashion of Spain—and Europe—have used for six hundred years. An imported luxury, acknowledged everywhere as the toilet soap most nearly perfect for the delicate feminine skin.

But—let us say it boldly because it is true—we have improved this soap for you! In these respects. We have made it into a delightful shape for your hand. No more of these queer, shapeless slices cut off from a long loaf—each cake of Doña Castile is beautifully moulded and daintily wrapped. And here's a new virtue in Castile—Doña will give you a rich lather even in lukewarm water. It will rinse instantly, completely. Doña being "hard-milled" will last you a long time, and will not readily deliquesce. Finally this exquisite pure soap can be had anywhere. Armour, U. S. A.

Reveal Youth Had Premonition That He Would Be Shot

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—A theory that Russell Koontz, 21, motion picture operator here, who was beaten and shot by an unidentified masked assailant here late Monday night, anticipated the shooting was advanced by members of his family here today.

The day before the shooting the youth told his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Koontz, she said, that he "expected to be shot," and jokingly willed his automobile to her.

Police were inclined to believe that Koontz, who lies at the point of death in a local hospital, might have received warnings from his mysterious assailant prior to the attack.

Koontz was attacked on a main thoroughfare here, beaten, and dragged into an alley, where two shots were fired into his body, one taking effect over his heart.

Maryland Man Has John Brown's Pistol

CUMBERLAND, Sept. 16.—George C. Jolley, of Berkeley Springs is the owner of a Colt's revolver which belonged to John Brown when he led the famous raid at Harper's Ferry. It came into his hands through his father, who obtained it from the late Justice Washington Unger, of Berkeley Springs, who acquired it at Charleston while Brown was in jail prior to the latter's trial and execution. Several people have tried to purchase the relic, but Mr. Jolley will not part with it.

Perhaps the most striking example of sport in stained glass is the special window now being made for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. Filled with pictures of golf, tennis, polo and base ball it is the only window of its kind in the world. Horses and jockeys are portrayed and other pictures show a motor boat race, swimmers in the act of diving and football, rowing, fencing and wrestling matches.

NEW USES FOR BRONCHOSCOPE

(International News Service)

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 16.—New uses have been found for the bronchoscope, Dr. Charles B. Hollis of Philadelphia told members of the Homeopathic Medical Society of Pennsylvania, in session here today.

The bronchoscope, developed and used in Pennsylvania, has been successful in removing foreign bodies from the throat and lungs. It has a tremendous field as a therapeutic and diagnostic instrument, recent experiments have shown, Dr. Hollis said. He cited many cases where the bronchoscope was used successfully and demonstrated the new methods.

Protest Against Dempsey-Tunney Bout Appears

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—There is little likelihood that Secretaries Kellogg or Hoover will take any action on the protest of the ministerial association in Philadelphia against the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

The protest was sent to President Coolidge, who, referred it to the cabinet officers as members of the sesqui-centennial commission.

It was pointed out today that Kellogg and Hoover are merely administrators of federal funds in the sesqui-centennial and had no authority over the amusements staged at the exhibition.

Stolen Car Figures In Auto Accident

Carl A. Vanazia of R. D. No. 4, reported to the police yesterday morning that his Oakland touring car, 1917 model, Pennsylvania license 689-861 had been stolen from the Shenango tin plant between twelve o'clock midnight and 7 a. m.

Later in the day, it was reported to the police that a machine bearing the same license number had run into a Harmony line car at the Cascade street crossing. It was being driven from the direction of Croton avenue at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred. Three wheels were broken off and the car wrecked. The owner was notified.

BREAK WINDOWS IN SCHOOLHOUSE

Complaint was made again Wednesday concerning the fact that boys playing in the vicinity of the Lincoln and Garfield school have been responsible for the breaking of some more windows in those buildings. As many as seventy-five windows have been broken in the past three or four years and the school board is desirous of putting a stop to this expensive nuisance. Those found responsible for the breaking of windows in the school building in the future will be required to make restitution.

STUDEBAKER'S New Custom Sedans

Mechanically up-to-the-minute
—artistically ahead-of-the-times
—economically the cars of the hour

IT is great to be a pioneer and still retain your youth—to sponsor new style at no sacrifice of traditional standards—to set the pace in appearance and maintain it by performance.

This is what Studebaker has done in these new Custom Sedans which are sweeping the country. Somebody put their description in a phrase, "Studebaker plus"—the final achievement of performance plus the newest mode in motordom.

Engineering authorities have long acknowledged Studebaker's mechanical supremacy in its field. And now with added refinements the mighty Studebaker L-head motor is widening its margin of leadership.

Studebaker's Victory Over Vibration

Studebaker's early adoption of the L-head engine forecast the present-day trend. Now 70% of American manufacturers use this efficient, quiet type of engine. And, more significantly, the largest builders of other types have come to this principle for all the new cars introduced in recent years.

Studebaker spends $600,000 annually to fully machine every surface of its big crankshafts—a feature found only in the costliest cars.

To insure a smooth, vibrationless flow of power, Studebaker spends over $600,000 annually building balance into its big crankshafts—fully machining and dynamically balancing each and every one.

Only seven other American cars have a power rating greater than the Big Six and these all cost from $2500 to $8000 more. The Standard Six is the most powerful car of its size and weight, according to the ratings of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Studebaker's Transcontinental Triumph

Recently the Studebaker Big Six Sheriff—a certified stock car—dashed from New York to San Francisco in 86 hours and 20 minutes, through the worst storm in 60 years.

It cut 16 hours and 25 minutes off the best previous automobile record and beat the best time of the crack Limiteds by over 6 hours!

It added another victory to the long list already held by Studebaker—Barcelona to Madrid, the Trans-Australian Run and many others.

Studebaker's Inherent Durability

Owners of 817 Studebakers report having driven their cars from 100,000 to 300,000 miles and still going strong. Thousands of Studebakers in the fleet-service of big industrial concerns are proving their remarkable low-cost and tremendous endurance.

Factory sales of Studebaker repair parts average yearly only $10 per car in operation—evidence of the fine materials used.

Studebaker's Advanced Engineering Practice

For the past two years, Studebaker has been balancing wheels and casings to insure smoothest riding. Moreover, the semi-elliptic springs fostered by Studebaker are now used by 92% of American car manufacturers. Studebaker cars have a long springbase, and spring leaves of the finest chrome vanadium steel. Replacements of springs on Studebaker cars are less than 1% per year of cars in service.

There are many other betterments in Studebaker design—an oil filter and air purifier effectually seal the engine against foreign matter. A waterproof ignition system insures faithful operation in rain-storms. Even the spark plugs wear rubber caps. And a force feed lubrication system gives perfect lubrication under all conditions.

Over $100 Worth of Extra Equipment At No Extra Cost

To its in-built qualities of performance, Studebaker has added the charm of custom treatment and the luxury of custom equipment. Low-swung, full-vision steel bodies in lustrous and durable duotone lacquers; interiors richly finished and appointed, with broadcloth or Chase mohair upholstery, broadlace trim and Butler finish hardware; and extra equipment worth more than $100.

Four-wheel brakes, disc wheels, nickle-plated bumpers, front and rear—and a patented ventilating windshield which insures perfect ventilation at all times but prevents direct drafts or a drop of rain from entering the car.

Studebaker's Greatest One-Profit Achievement

These Custom Sedans are the crowning triumph of Studebaker's One-Profit facilities—possible only because Studebaker builds them complete in its own mammoth plants.

No wonder demand today is far outstripping supply for these attractive cars. See them for yourself—make your own comparison—then decide whether you should any longer deny yourself custom luxury, when you can enjoy it without custom cost.

Better Business Body Holds Meeting

Business Organization Discusses Work With Local Credit Bureau Men

A very worthwhile meeting of the board of directors of the New Castle Better Business Bureau and the New Castle Credit Bureau was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday morning, September 15 which was presided over by President C. W. Grafton. The members of the two bodies present were C. W. Grafton, John Abel, DeLace Cole W. E. Waddington, W. E. Gordon, John Higgins, Ira Ramsey and C. P. Reynolds.

It was reported by President Grafton that metal signs for the members of the Better Business Bureau had been ordered and delivery was expected in a short time.

The physical set up and operation of the credit bureau was thoroughly discussed and the president appointed as a committee to study this matter, W. E. Waddington, chairman; Ira Ramsey, John Higgins, John Abel and B. F. Butler. This committee will hold a meeting for the purpose of considering some of these matters at the Elks club at noon Thursday September 16.

A committee to compile credit lists was appointed. This will consit of the credit managers of practically all of the larger stores of New Castle.

A report was received that very gratifying responses were being received from the invitations sent out to the business people of New Castle to attend the credit meeting to be held at he Fountain Inn at 6:30 p. m., Monday, September 20 at which time James D. Hays, manager of the Harrisburg Credit Exchange will deliver an address on this important subject. A very large attendance is expected and all of those interested in the matter of credit are cordially invited and urged to attend.

Don't worry about tomorrow. You'll do better. Or you'll do worse. It all depends upon what you do today.

Moon Moving Away; Earth Turns Slower

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 16.—The moon is getting away from us and the days are growing longer, according to "Starlight", a new book by Prof. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory. However, nobody is going to notice the difference right away.

"The tides raised by the moon on the earth," writes Prof. Shapley, "are very slowly decreasing the earth's rotational speed, and thus lengthening the day—but less than a thousandth of a second a century. At the same time the moon is receding from the earth, its mean distance increasing, however, only about seven feet in a century."

Eats Fruit and Meat, Nothing Bothers Him

"I could not eat anything without getting bloated up with gas and feeling feverish in my stomach. Since taking Adlerika, I eat what I want—fruit or meat or anything". —R. J. Carruthers.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Doctors Praise Adlerika

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York: 'Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria".

Dr. A. C. Curl: 'I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results".

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika".

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system".

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose".

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In New Castle at Love & Megown's.

Wonderful for Piles

Suffered for Years; Says There's Only One Remedy

John O'Leary, 297 North Division Street, Buffalo, for 14 years Supervisor of the Second ward, wants to pass the good word along.

"Take it from me", says Mr. O'Leary, "When you suffer torment with piles for many years as I did, and tried all kinds of remedies without any success, you'll be glad to say a good word for the only remedy that is any good".

Peterson's Ointment rid me of piles so quickly that I was astonished. I felt somewhat peeved, however, to think that I had suffered so many years before knowing what a wonderful remedy Peterson's Ointment is. Let me thank you from the bottom of my heart".—John O'Leary.

Any live druggist will tell you about Peterson's Ointment—a big box for 35 cents. Use it for old sores, ulcers, itching eczema, rashes, burns, bruises, chafing and all skin diseases—there is nothing better.

Consistory Choir Gives Concert As Celebration Windup

Banquet By Church Ladies Follows Up Dedication Celebration At Lutheran Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—As a fitting wind-up to the dedication celebrations enjoyed by the Trinity Lutherans with their guests, the church was well filled in spite of the heavy rains last evening, and everyone enjoyed the splendid music furnished by the Consistory choir of New Castle.

Many special numbers were included in the program arranged by P. W. Blocher, and people who had weathered the storm felt that they had been amply repaid.

Following the concert, those who had helped in some way to make the celebration a success, were guests of the church women at a banquet served in the basement dining room. Speeches were called for and every person had a good time.

Ellwood Man Dies At St. Francis

ELLWOOD CITY Pa., Sept. 16—George L. Greer aged 52 died at the St. Francis hospital at Pittsburgh early this morning. Mr. Greer whose residence was at the North Side was taken to the hospital in a serious condition six weeks ago. He is survived by a widow and several children.

Carr-Eislen Wedding Event Of Wednesday

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—The wedding of Miss Edith Carr and Harry Eislen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Eislen of Ellwood City, took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Carr of New Brighton, Wednesday morning at 11:30, with Rev. Smith, pastor of the First M. E. church of New Brighton, performing the ceremony.

The wedding gown worn by the bride was a lovely creation of pompadour blue georgette. The couple was attended by Miss Lora Musick of New Brighton and Walter Harris of Ellwood City was best man.

Guests at the wedding breakfast at 12 o'clock included Rev. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Eislen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White of Ellwood City, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stone and two daughters of New Brighton, and two brothers of the bride, Spencer and William Carr.

The young couple are well known in Ellwood City as well as in the Beaver valley. Following her completion of high school, Mrs. Eislen was engaged by the Rodgers Producing company and helped in the production of many home talent plays. She has been with the Studebaker garage for two years, following the work with the producing company.

Mr. Eislen is a graduate of the Ellwood high school and owned the drugstore on the corner of Fifth street and Lawrence avenue for a number of years. Today he owns a drugstore on the Northside.

Following the breakfast party at the Carr home, the young couple disentangled their car from the number of machines crowded around them and in spite of the blaring words "Just Married" and others, as well as tin cans and other noise makers attached to the car, they started on their two weeks' wedding journey, which includes a trip to Quebec and return by way of New York. They will make their home with Mrs. Carr for the time being, and plan to move to Ellwood City later.

Jars For Preserves Arrive At Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—A barrel of jars have arrived at the First Presbytarian church and J. L. Connard will be there to give them out to the church women who will fill them for the Presbyterian hospital at Pittsburgh.

Preserves, canned fruit, Jellies and any other form of fruit or vegetables which can be kept throughout the winter months will be put into these jars, which will be returned to the church and later sent to the hospital.

Dreary Weather Dampens Spirits Of Pedestrians

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Streets were flooded in many parts of Ellwood City last evening after the storm. People forced to cross Spring avenue that they could attend the concert given at the Trinity Lutheran church by the Consistory choir, did so by going thru automobiles which happened to be parked in the swirling pools of water.

Lakes, not found in the map of the city, were discovered with surprise by pedestrians, who were hurrying to and from town. Fifth street subway, as usual, was flooded for a time, but owing to new sewer regulations, the condition was relieved somewhat.

Motorists rushed to their machines only to find their motor flooded. The sky was a dark blear overhead and the air about the motorist was a dark blue, so hard did he work to get his machine from out of that water.

The lights played tricks on people about 7 o'clock, when the air was so full of electricity and distant rumblings of thunder. First it would go on, then off again, only to come on in full after about ten minutes of fooling, and they stayed bright for the remainder of the evening.

Motor Club Does Not Approve Of Juvenile "Cops"

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—The Ellwood City Motor Club at its meeting recently went on record as being opposed to the present practice of school children directing traffic at busy intersections in the school vicinities. It is believed by the members that this practice is attended with dangers not only to the motorists, but to the youthful "cops" as well.

Traffic officers should be invested with responsibility as well as authority, whereas the boys important duty cannot be held responsible for errors in judgment, thus imposing upon the motorist the full blame in case of accident.

Corn Boil Enjoyed By Methodist Women

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Not a corn roast as scheduled, but a corn boil, was the feature of the affair which was to have been given by the Friendship Circle class of the First M. E. church at Ewing Park last evening.

The class had just assembled and the fire had been lighted when Jupiter Pluvius played the same joke on them that he played on the Sunday school picnic of that church. There was a downpour.

The young women did not calmly select their tree for protection, no indeed, they hurriedly gathered up the corn, butter, rolls and other good things that go to make a corn roast, climbed into their machines and motored to the church on Fifth street, just as quickly as they could, where an enjoyable time was spent by all.

Men Grade Grounds About Church Building

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Armed with picks, shovels, hoes, rakes and pushing wheelbarrows, members of the First M. E. church might be mistaken for real laboring men as they make great headway with the grading of the church lawn which surrounds the new building, located at Crescent avenue and Fifth street.

The men, all of them volunteers, are most cheerful as they give their services gratis in order that their building, which is rapidly nearing completion, may have the proper outside appearance in the way of a lovely well kept lawn.

Reservations Open For Season Tickets For New Castle's Greatest Concert Season

One glance over the list of attractions will convince any fair-minded person that here are six of the biggest concert attractions ever offered anywhere on a single season series. Pittsburgh, with an auditorium seating five thousand, has never had a series comparable in its popular appeal, at a comparable price. The list of attractions could not be better. The price could not possibly be lower. Get your season ticket tonight or Friday night at Senior high school, 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock, Telephone 630.

MAIL ORDERS TO EDUCATIONAL ART SOCIETY, CARE SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL. ENCLOSE SELF-ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE.

PERCY GRAINGER PIANIST

1. JOHN PHILIP SOUSA and His Famous Band—Wednesday, October 6th.
2. KATHRYN MEISLE of the Chicago Opera Company, who last season filled more engagements than any other operatic contralto. Victor Records. Friday, November 12th.
3. ALBERT SPALDING, undisputed as the greatest of American concert violinists. Edison and Brunswick artist. Friday, January 21st.
4. PERCY GRAINGER, Celebrated Australian Pianist who has popularized the piano concert. Columbia artist. Thursday, February 3rd.
5. THE RUSSIAN SYMPHONIC CHOIR under the incomparable choral director, Basile Kibalchich. In bigger demand from Coast to Coast than any other choir that has ever appeared in America. Friday, March 18th.
6. THE EIGHT POPULAR VICTOR ARTISTS—Composed of the popular Henry Burr and the famous Peerless Quartette. Of the equally popular Billy Murray. Of Frank Banta, pianist. Of Monroe Silver of "Cohen Record" fame. Of Sam Herman, Xylophonist. In April. Date to be announced later.

KATHRYN MEISEL, CONTRALTO

Only $5.00, $6.50 and $8.00 for the entire season of six attractions.

Two Series In One

Numbers 1, 5 and 6 is one series which would sell in any city for $5.00, $6.50 and $8.00.

Numbers 2, 3 and 4 is another series which likewise would sell for the same price.

The Educational Art Society offers all six attractions, a double series for the price of one.

Why is it possible? Because it is a Community Enterprise, paying no profits, salaries, or taxes but actually selling artists to its patrons AT COST. The Educational Art Society is now guaranteed by sixty progressive New Castle citizens who, financially speaking, have everything to lose and nothing to gain.

EIGHT POPULAR VICTOR ARTISTS

Bear In Mind

Though you may have to miss one, two or even three numbers, a Season Ticket costs practically the same as three single admission tickets and gives you a choice seat, not to mention the trouble and confusion it saves both the patron and the society.

Mrs. H. D. Patterson Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Mrs. H. D. Patterson of Second street entertained the members of the Bridge club at her home Tuesday at a 6 o'clock dinner. Autumn flowers were used in decoration.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening. The favor was awarded Mrs. J. J. Dunn, Sr., and Mrs. A. E. Whittaker of Zelienople, a special guest, was presented with a dainty gift from the hostess.

Those playing were Mesdames, Thomas Wilson, J. J. Dunn, W. G. Thorpe, William Bayers, H. D. Patterson, A. E. Whittaker, W. R. Johnston and C. C. Davidson.

Legion Auxiliary Have First Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Members of the Legion Auxiliary enjoyed a tureen dinner meeting in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. This was the first meeting of the auxiliary for the new year, and plans were made for fall work at the business session. The women also decided that they would sell Poppies on Armistice Day as usual.

Letters were read from the Otean Hospital, where the soldiers receive cards and letters from the local auxiliary. A large delegation plans to attend the County Council meeting at Beaver Falls soon.

Colored Trainer Assists Squad

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Ernest Snell, colored trainer formerly connected with the Geneva football squad has moved to Ellwood and has indicated that he will be with the squad several days each week to give the athletes the benefit of his skillful rubbing and his ability to loosen sore muscles etc.

The squad is being put through real grilling these days with "Peck" unmerciful, leading them on, getting them in condition for the initial game of the season with Evans City, to be played on the home field, September 25.

Bye-Bye Blackbirds

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Blackbirds from this vicinity are gathering in their clans and already many of them have left for the southlands. This to Pennsylvanians usually means that the woolen blankets must be brought out and coal ordered immediately.

When the blackbirds fly south, Mr. weatherman begins to shiver and starts marking up the chart with low temperatures. Bluebirds the last to come in the spring of the year, have already left for their southern homes.

They go much farther south than many of the robins, some of them go as far as North Carolina, although many of them stay in Florida the year around, as do the red, blue and blackbirds.

In February the wild ducks fly south, where they flock to the lakes and are so tame that they will eat out of your hand.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin", Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

Dr. H. L. Northrop Of Philadelphia Named President For Ensuing Year.

DISCUSS MAINTAINING CLINIC FOR CHILDREN

(International News Service)

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 16.—Dr. H. L. Northop of Philadelphia was elected president, and Dr. Charles B. Hollis, also of Philadelphia, was chosen first vice president of the Homeopathic Medical society at the closing session of the organization's annual meeting here today.

Dr. John D. Kistler of Pittsburgh was named second vice president, and Dr. E. Ronald Snader, Jr., of Philadelphia and Dr. Anna Johnson of Pittsburgh were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

New trustees named to the board of nine members included Dr. R. S. Marshall and Dr. George B. Moreland, both of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Henry I. Knopp of Allentown.

The members of the society discussed clinical medicines and diseases of children preceding the election which closed the session.

Dr. Clarence Bartlett of Philadelphia, Dr. John S. Wurth and Dr. M. S. Nicholson, both of Pittsburgh, Dr. G. Harlan Wells of Philadelphia and Dr. William A. Haman of Reading read papers at the discussions today.

Claim Adam And Eve Spoke French-Foreign News

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Adam and Eve spoke French, the Patois variety used by the peasants of Brittainy, according to the Paris Journal. "When Eve accepted the apple from the snake," says the Journal, "she held it out to her husband saying, 'a-tam', meaning 'a bite'. After Adam had taken his share a morsel stuck in his throat, causing him to cry out: 'Eve', meaning something to drink." This, says the Paris Journal, proves that Adam and Eve did not speak German, as claimed, and it defies the Germans to disprove the story.

Boy Is Trapped In Burning Home

HAD BEEN SENT TO BED AS PENALTY

(International News Service)

WILKINSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Trapped in his bedroom, to which he had been sent as punishment, seven hear old Norman Miller was dead here today from burns suffered in fire which followed a kitchen explosion in his home.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Earl Miller, and Roy Sheriff, employed nearby, made desperate efforts to reach Norman, but flames cut the room off from other parts of the house, and the boy was fatally burned before firemen arrived and rescued him. He died shortly after being admitted at Columbia hospital.

The boy had been sent to bed for a boyish prank, it was learned today, and was trapped when flames, started by an explosion of gas in the kitchen, spread rapidly to his bedroom, cutting off all avenues of escape.

The mother, who escaped injury in the flames, was near nervous breakdown at the home of friends.

Several Escape In Bomb Scare At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 16.—Twelve persons narrowly escaped with their lives today when a bomb wrecked one house and damaged another.

The bomb was planted under the rear porch of the Andrew Koupez residence. It exploded shortly after Mrs. Koupez was awakened by muffled voices at the rear of her home.

Koupez was not at home. His wife and their three small children fled to safety through the falling plaster, glass and debris. The family of John Romansky in the adjoining house also escaped unhurt.

Police are investigating a report that the bomb was planted in retaliation for a raid by dry agents in the neighborhood.

Stadium Tickets Must Be Paid For

Call Made For The Return Of The Tickets Or The Money By Saturday

Prof F. L. Orth, principal of the Senior High School, announced today that all stadium tickets, which he sent out a few weeks ago, must either be returned or paid for by Saturday, as those not paid for or returned by that time will not be honored in any way at the stadium on the opening of the season. It is necessary that the money or tickets be accounted for by Saturday, the opening day of the coming football season and it will be appreciated if all those who have not paid for the tickets or may not want them, should find it possible to straighten out the matter at once.

Army Experiments To Get Antidote For Mustard Gas

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md., Sept. 16.—Work on an antidote for mustard gas is being carried forward here, it was learned today. Colonel Charles Exton, commanding officer, declined details but said experiments are being made.

"I can not give any information concerning this new discovery," Col. Exton said. "First, it is decidedly against service regualtions to furnish such information, and then the work is not completed. I can not even estimate when it will be ready as army equipment."

Indian Town Lays Claim To First Oil Well On Continent

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Members of the committee of oil producers, which has in charge the erection of a memorial to mark the oil spring on the Indian reservation at North Cuba, where it is believed oil first was discovered in the new world, made a trip to the spot recently. In the party were R. H. Bartlett of Tulsa and Cuba, chairman; N. V. V. Franchot of Olean, L. H. Thornton of Wellsville, V. D. Freeborn, H. J. Demcey and H. E. Keller of Cuba.

They found the casing still in the well, drilled many years ago, also the large wooden tank 16 feet deep, which surrounded the spring. This is supposed to have been built at the time the well was drilled.

The committee is investigating the history of the spring. It desires to learn when and by whom the oil well was drilled at the spring. It is said the boring of this hole drained away a portion of the oil, but considerable still gathers on the surface of the pool, and the visitors found they could light the gas given off.

How To Choose Rugs

First, consider your room's exposure. If it faces north, your rug must be chosen to give warmth, reds, mulberry, browns and warm grays bring color warmth into a room.

If your room has sun-flooded windows, a rug in a cooler shade should be chosen, taupes, grays and blues, are the best. Which room is to have the rug, who are to be its users—man, young girl, children—what kind of furniture is your rug to harmonize with—how are your walls decorated? All these questions must be taken into consideration.

Here at Haney's we are equipped to help you buy the right kind of a rug. We might add to this advice, don't buy it until you have seen it under both natural and artificial lights. If you don't see it under both lights you are apt to be disappointed with the colors when you get it home. Here at Haney's we gladly show you your rug under both lights.

Also, while we have rugs at most any price, you may wish to pay, we always advise buying GOOD rugs, our extended payment plan enables you to buy GOOD rugs.

Army In Suspense Over Appointment Of Chief

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The type of officer President Coolidge will pick to "boss"the Army for four years in engrossing the entire officers' corps and official Washington as well.

In the ranking candidates for the position of chief of staff to succeed Major-General John L. Hines the President is offered distinct and widely varying personalities.

Believing that Major-General Hines would not accept reappointment if it were tendered, politicians in the Army now are busily engaged in forwarding the claims of several candidates. The choice will be made in December.

Major-General Charles P. Summerall, commander of the Second Corps Area with headquarters at New York, is in the line for the position from the standpoint of seniority. He is known as a hard and fast military man with utmost contempt for advocates of scant military defense, and in some quarters it is predicted that President Coolidge will seek another type of general for the most important job in the Army.

Major-General Hanson E. Ely, head of the War College, and Major-General William Lassiter, late in command of the Panama Department and president of the Tacna-Arica commission are reported more in accord with the President's views on natural defense.

Three other generals are given an outside chance in military circles. They are Major-General Douglass Arthur, one of the youngest generals with a brilliant record overseas; Fox Conner deputy chief of staff and Dennis A. Nolan, military representative at the Geneva preparatory commission on arms limitation.

Major - General Summerall's friends, fearing that precedent may be overturned, are making a strenuous bid for his appointment. President Coolidge recently was given an excellent opportunity of studying the candidate at close range, when he visited the Plattsburgh training camp. Major-General Summerall, as commander of the Second division, and three different Army Corps in France during the World War, has a military reputation unexcelled in the Army.

Selection of Major-General Summerall result in a vigorous four-year reign of the General Staff, with the Army heads seeking every opportunity to put their claim for adequate funds for the building up of a badly depleted regular army.

Major-General Summerall is regarded as a typical blunt, fighting military man. Major-General Ely is known as a scholar and less energetic in enforcing his own views, while Major-General Lassiter is called the Army's best diplomat.

Technically, the Army has nothing to do with the selection of the head of the all-powerful general staff, but from lowest to the highest officer an interest is shown not exceeding the hottest national campaign.

MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF PASSING SAWS TO PRISONERS IN JAIL

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 16. Bonnell Mark, Martins Ferry, was arrested in the court house today by Deputy Sheriff Amos Pierce and charged with spiriting five saws into the county jail 10 days ago just before the jailer discovered a plot to liberate some 40 prisoners on the first floor, where Mike Dragovich, on trial for the murder of Sheriff Sam Dunfee, and one other awaiting trial for murder were confined.

Mark is charged with secreting five saws in the bottom of a carton of cigarets which he had delivered with a basket of fruit to Alex Perse, convicted of a liquor law violation. The saws had been so cleverly secreted it was mere accident they were discovered.

SHORT LIST OF LAW VIOLATORS LOSING LICENSE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—One of the shortest revocation and blacklisting lists for a week's period ever issued by the State Department of Highways since it began a campaign against infractions of the motor code was made public today.

Twelve drivers' licenses were revoked and two names put on the blacklist. Five of the revocations were for intoxication, four for being habitual violators of the law and two for failure to stop and render assistance after an accident. There was only one revocation for reckless driving. The two blacklistings were made because of intoxication.

David H. Sollenberger, of near Chambersburg, lost his license on the charge of being an habitual violator of the motor laws.

FRANKLIN BROKERS ARRESTED ON CHARGE BY LOSER WITH FIRM

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 16. — Warrants charging embezzlement were served upon J. Howard Smiley and Edgar V. Tunstall here in connection with the failure of their brokerage firm last April. Both pleaded not guilty and were held in $4,500 bail for hearing September 27.

Action was brought by W. O. Milton, one of the heaviest losers of the firm. The Smiley Company had liabilities of $71,488 and estimated assets of $30,000.

Don't worry too much if your boy likes to study. He'll outgrow that before long.

TWO STEUBENVILLE WOMEN CLAIM SHARE IN ARGYLL ESTATE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 16. —Mrs. James Matthews and Mrs. Nelson Fellows, sisters, both of Steubenville, will lay claim to a share of the $35,000,000 estate of the late Duke of Argyll of Scotland. Other relatives and claimants to the estate are said to be Mrs. Richard Walbach, Mrs. Charles Simclair, Mrs. Russell Booher, John William Matthews, James Arrison Matthews and Thomas Reed Matthews, all of Pitcairn, Pa.

The sisters here claim to be direct descendants of the duke and say they have documents to prove their claim. Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Fellows say they are great-granddaughters of the Duke of Argyll, their grandmother having been disinherited because she married a prize fighter and came to America. Despite the disinheritance feature, they believe they can collect a portion of the fortune.

Police Dog Has Faith In "Pete"

Feeds From Hand That Has Dispatched Many Dogs' Lives.

"YOU MUST KNOW THEM," HE SAYS

By ED FRITZ.

Dogs are peculiar creatures—especially a police dog—brought to the police station labelled "Lost and Found" today.

The dog in question is no different than any other police dog but it has great faith in human mankind.

Everybody knows that Pete Hilliers, as a city policeman, is called upon to dispatch "mongrels running at large."

During his career he has probably slain hundreds of dogs—but here's the story:

The dog trotted into the steel mill. A young man, wishing to save the dog's life, took it in tow.

He took the dog home but it refused to eat, though it apparently was satisfied to "hang around."

Refuses to Eat.

Today the young man brought the dog to police station to inquire as to its ownership.

"He won't eat" said the man.

Pete Hilliers got busy. He had some stew in a bowl, which a prisoner did not care for.

He offered the bowl with the contents to the dog. It refused to eat.

"I'll try another way" said Pete, dumping the stew into the palm of his hand.

The dog ate the food.

"That's funny. He won't eat from a bowl, but will from your hand" said a bystander.

"It is all in knowing dogs" said Pete.

"That dog doesn't know he is eating from the hand that has caused many dogs to die via bullet" said another bystander.

"I never kill a good dog or rob a child of a pet" remarked Hilliers.

Canine His Belles.

Talking about dogs, we heard of a man who is not as parental as a dog. He has deserted his wife and eight children.

A year ago he deserted his family and was caught. He stayed at home three months and has fled again.

Councilman Davies says:

"In a case like this I believe the man should be deported. He is not a citizen.

"The city will take care of his family as it has for about a year."

Aided City "Cops."

Not so long ago the police department boasted a pet—a bull terrier.

Whenever the patrol went on a call the dog raced to the wagon and leaped to the seat.

For a long time the dog was content to look on and not interfere but like all things patience ends.

One night an obstreperous customer landed in the net and gave the police a battle.

This proved too much for the dog that had "copper blood." He snarled, growled and leaped from the wagon.

He tried to grasp the prisoner's leg with is open mouth. Police had more difficulty keeping him off than arresting the man.

The next day the dog was banished from police headquarters because he thought he was aiding his friends.

New Fraternity At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 16.—With the opening of the new semester at Westminster College, there is a new men's fraternity on the campus. The new organization is known as the Epsilon Theta Pi fraternity and at the present time has a membership of about 25.

The new fraternity has beautifully furnished a large house which is located on Neshannock avenue. They will be known on the campus as the "Eps".

The officers of the fraternity are: Louis Lytle of Pittsburgh, president; Carl Triola of Meadville, vice president; Roy Vance of New Wilmington, treasurer; Paul Robinson of New Wilmington, secretary and Albert Dodds of New Castle, house manager.

There are now five fraternities on the campus. The others are: Crescent Club, T. U. O.s, Kappa Phi Lamdas and Delta Phi Sigmas.

DRAGOVICH FREED IN DUNFEE MURDER

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 16.—Mike Dragovich, alleged liquor runner, accused of the murder of Sheriff Samuel M. Dunfee, of Belmont county, O., in an encounter near Provident, O., August 5, was acquitted by a jury in common pleas court here last night. The verdict came after 25 minutes of deliberation.

Send Queries To Insurance Agents

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—The questionaires being sent out today to all applicants for registration as an insurance agent of any kind within the state will furnish the State Insurance Department with a complete record of all persons who follow that occupation. All answers on the questionnaires must be made out under oath before a notary public.

The questionnaires are so worded that the answers, if correctly given, will not only indicate the mental fitness of the applicants for such work but will give his past business record as well.

One of the questions asks: "Do you understand that it is illegal to rebate, to twist policies, to misrepresent policy conditions or misrepresent the standing of companies?

Companies or agents suspected of being guilty of infraction of any of those provisions will be the first to be investigated by the new regime.

The questions also go fully into just what the prospective agent intends to do in any line of insurance business and where his office will be located.

Other questions are worded to reveal the status of the agent as well as the companies for which he has worked. He must make sworn statements whether he has ever been associated with any company which has been liquidated or whether a license has ever been refused or revoked.

Additional queries ask if the applicant has ever been arrested or convicted of any crime, and whether any judgments are outstanding against him.

After the sworn statements have been made an official or representative of the company for which he works, or intends to work, must file an endorsement, vouching for the truth of the answers.

Each application must be accompanied by five letters of recommendation by reputable and responsible citizens bearing on the applicant's good repute.

Officials of the insurance department believe that the new questionaire system will aid greatly in driving out of business disreputable companies and agents.

If you want quick and lasting relief get a bottle to-day. It is dispensed by McKee's Kut Rate Store, New Castle Drug Corp. and druggists everywhere.

Raspberry Jam Brings Bear Cub From Tree Tops

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Sept. 16.—"Babe" the Cinnamon bear cub that has been a mascot around the president's executive offices recently, escaped today and eventually was located in the top of one of the tall pines near the offices. Raspberry jam was used to lure the cub to the lower branches where he was captured.

It was the most exciting incident in some time near the president's headquarters. Mr. Coolidge passed by a few minutes before the search was successful and a throng of tourists and members of his party gathered to witness attempts to dislodge the young beast. Clarence Jackson, photographer put on lineman's spurs and offered the jam to "Babe" as an inducement to return to civilization. The cub was brought here in an automobile from Cody, Wyo., by Jacob Schreber Detroit motion picture theatre owner.

MARSHALL REUNION

The descendants of John and Elizabeth Clark Marshall met at the home of David M. Marshall of Wampum, Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 6, 1926 for their tenth annual reunion.

On account of the wet day and sickness among some of the folks, the crowd was not as large as usual. Eighty were present. A sumptuous dinner was served at noon, followed by a business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Anna Marshall McHattie. The meeting was opened by singing the one hundredth Pslam followed with prayer by Rev. Savage, D. D. After reading the minutes of the last reunion by Mrs. Mabel Marshall McKinney as secretary, protem for Mrs. Marie McKim McMillin, officers were elected for next year. Pres. Dr. R. J. Marshall of East Liverpool, O., vice president, David M. Marshall of Wampum, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Clark Marshall of Beaver, Pa. Following the election of officers speeches were made by Dr. Savage of New Galilee, Rev. Greer Bingham, Wampum, Dr. Milton Marshall of East Palestine, Mr. John Bingham of Slippery Rock, Thos Wilson, D. M. Marshall, Everett Marshall of Wampum, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Molesberry of Youngstown, O., and Daniel Cronin and Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Marshall of East Liverpool, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Marshall and John G. Marshall of Beaver.

John G. Marshall, Mrs. Anna Marshall McHattie and Mrs. Clark Marshall were appointed as a committee to continue the writing of the Marshall history. After the business meeting was closed cake and ice cream was served and the remainder of the day was again spent socially.

Four new babies were born in the connection during the past year. Mary Elizabeth Marshall, Eleanor Hardy, Genevieve McIlvenny and Dorothy Jean Fenchel.

Deaths—Mary Elizabeth Marshall, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Marshall of New Galilee, December 12, 1925, Mr. Arron M. Shannon of Beaver Falls, May 2, 1926. Mrs. Mary Marshall Pheil of College Hill, May 12, 1926. Harvey Marshall McKim of Wampum, May 23, 1926.

There were no marriages in the connection during the past reunion.

The next reunion will be held at the same place Labor Day, 1927.

McBRIDE McKINNEY NUPTIALS.

Leslie McBride and Miss Wilda McKinney, popular young folk of Big Beaver township were united in marriage by Rev. A. J. Calvin at the U. P. manse Wednesday September 8. Following their marriage they left for Niagara Falls and Buffalo for a wedding trip. They returned to the home of the bride Saturday evening where they were serenaded by a large crowd of neighbors and friends. At the same time their friends tendered them a shower of beautiful and useful gifts. Following congratulations the crowd was treated to candy ice cream, cake and cigars by the bride and groom. They will be at home to their many friends after this week on the Piedmont farm on the New Castle road where the groom is employed.

IS IMPROVING.

Mrs. Harry Patterson of Big Beaver township who underwent an operation for appendicitis in Providence hospital, Beaver Falls is reported as doing fine.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Mrs. J. G. Russell and daughter Florence of Little Beaver township entertained the Woman's Missionary society of the White R. P. church at their home Wednesday, September 1 at 2 o'clock. Devotionals were led by Mrs. C. A. Kerr. The president Mrs. Eva Nagel conducted the business meeting. Interesting papers were read by Mrs. W. G. McHattie and Miss Stella Duncan. The meeting was folowed by a social hour. At this time the hostess assisted by Mrs. Howard Marshall and Miss Florence Russell served delicious refreshments. Those present included Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. W. G. McHattie, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, Miss Stella Duncan, Mrs. Elda McMillen, Mrs. C. A. Kerr, Mrs. Howard Marshall, Mrs. Eva Nagel. Mrs. Schmolly, Mrs. Wm. Patterson, Mrs. Wayne McHattie and daughter Beulah, Misses Anna Bronson and Grace McHattie, Mrs. James McHattie, Mrs. Oscar Davenport, Mrs. J. G. Russell, Miss Florence Russell, Rev. Savage and Chester Nagel. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Elda McMillen.

Bed Of Ocean Rises Two Miles In 25 Years

LIVERPOOL, Eng. Sept. 16. — Discovery that the bed of the Atlantic near the Island of St. Helena had risen two miles during the last twenty five years, has led to a belief among scientists that the entire southern Atlantic bottom has undergone a vast submarine convulsion.

First news of this phenomenon was announced by a cable ship which had been repairing a break in the St. Helena-Cape Town line, laid twenty seven years ago. The cable ship found that instead of the sea being 2700 fathoms, or just over three miles deep, as set forth on the chart, it was only a little more than three quarters of a mile deep, or about sixty-six fathoms.

HOW THE PILGRIM MOTHER

Kept Her Family in Good Health

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her family. When they were ill, she brewed remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Massachusetts woman writes: "I was all run-down, with no ambition. I was tired all the time. Sometimes I would be in bed two or three days at a time, and the doctor would have to give me something to quiet me. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have had wonderful results from it. I felt better after taking the second bottle, and I am never without it in the house now. I have told lots of people about it, and they say it helps them, too." —Mrs. J. W. Critchett, 2 Hammond Street, Cambridge, Mass.

North Beaver Grange To Exemplify Degrees

Lodge Work To Be Feature Of Meeting Friday. Other Grange News

The annual picnic of the North Beaver Grange was held recently at the James Wilson home. About 100 guests enjoyed a program of sports and the usual elaborate picnic dinner.

Autumn Due Here 7:27 P. M. Sept. 23

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. —Fall is due in the Northern Hemisphere on September 23 at 7:27 P. M. Eastern Standard Time. In the Southern Hemisphere Spring begins says a bulletin from the American Nature Association.

A return visit by Mars marks the advent of Fall, it being closest to the Earth on October 27. Mars will be at a distance of 42,625,000 miles in October. It will then be about 30 per cent brighter than Sirius, the brightest of all the stars, and almost exactly equal in brightness to the planet Jupiter which will be above the horizon also during the evening hours so the two planets may be compared in brightness.

Mars made nearly, if not quite, its closest possible approach to the earth when it was less than thirty-eight million miles distant two years ago, the American Nature Association points out. Although now over seven million miles more distant from the earth than at the opposition of 1924, Mars will be favorably placed for observation.

Mars will not again come into opposition to the sun and on the side of its orbit nearest the earth until December, 1928.

Fifteen years more will pass by before Mars will again be as near to the earth and as favorably placed for observation. Mars will be in the constellation of Aries and rise in the northeast early in the evening. It will be easily recognized by its fiery red color and its superior brilliancy, far exceeding that of any other object in its near neighborhood.

Workers' Conference At First Baptist

Sunday school workers' conference will be held this evening in the First Baptist church at eight o'clock. All teachers and class officers are expected to attend.

This is the first meeting of the fall. Plans will be made for promotion and rally day and an outline of the winter's work.

For nearly 100 years all the gum used for stamps and stationery in the British postoffice department has been manufactured by members of one family in a little home factory near Aldershot. Now the little establishment has been closed, so that the gum may be manufactured on more up-to-date lines nearer London.

Keep Fit!

Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

ONE cannot be well without good elimination. If the kidneys fail to function properly, there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and often toxic backache, headache and dizziness are symptoms. Further evidence of improper kidney function is sometimes found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning the value of drinking plenty of pure water and occasional use of a diuretic. Doan's Pills have been winning friends for more than 40 years. SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Cloth of Gold

By Monte Darrell

CLOTH of gold! And now its shining folds are dim and streaked with rust.

Marie gazed in dismay at her once beautiful turban. As long as it had rested on the top shelf of her hat closet through the Summer months she had been looking forward to the day when she should loose it from its swathes of tissue paper. But, alas, the paper had been white instead of blue! While the crown, in some mysterious manner, had remained bright and shiny like a gilded dome, there were many streaks where the knotted folds held in place the cascading feathery plumage of some rare, pale yellow bird.

There were those who might think Marie too blond of hair to grace a hat like this, but her large, dark eyes gleamed like unfathomable pools underneath its shining folds. She was a profitable customer of Madame Guyere's since usually she cast aside her millinery after a few weeks' wear. The hat, however, made from cloth of gold, she would have worn gladly until it fell into scraps of tinsel.

There was one Tommy Peters who never noticed women's clothes. He had, nevertheless, a rare taste in feminine companionship. He did know in some subtle way whether an entire costume blended into a harmonious whole, although the details were too trivial to claim his attention. Thus it was surprising that the hat made from cloth of gold won his seldom-given praise.

And, of course, that was what Marie wanted to do—not only one like it, but that particular hat. She returned from the kitchen cabinet with a bottle of silver polish which she applied to one of the rusty streaks.

Vigorously rubbing, she saw the spot turn from reddish brown to vivid green. When, with a sigh, she tossed the hat upon her bed, she heard a stifled sobbing in the hall outside her door.

Now, Mrs. Burns, who had come to do the semi-weekly cleaning, had a daughter recuperating from a long and serious illness. Marie, feeling sure that Barbara must have had a relapse, became kindly sympathetic.

"No, heaven be praised, she gets that better every day! But she's been out of work so long, Miss. The doctor, he said she must now be in the fresh air, and he so kind is going to take her in his new car for half an hour. I'm ashamed to have the poor child look like such a fright, but I can't buy her a new hat just now. That's where it's hard to be poor. Not to be able to get things for those you love."

When Mrs. Burns went home that afternoon, she carried a blue-and-white-striped box stamped with Guyere's name. Within reposed the golden hat, its tarnished folds covered with yellow chiffon, its brave crown shining brightly.

As Tommy Peters became cramped and weary of reading the building notes in his technical journal and thought longingly of the golf clubs in his office closet, he strolled casually to the window for a change of scene. Down in the street below, amid the motely caravan of long-used cars, gracefully glided a thing of beauty—long and blue its body, with nickel sparkling on it here and there. Since the top was fastened back one was given a glimpse of a golden hat and a glorious cloud of waving plumage.

"By all that's wonderful!" he ruminated, "Dr. DePuyster! He never takes people to ride unless they're so sick they can't sit up. And Marie is the healthiest person alive."

Tommy sank weakly into a chair and thought and thought. When only this morning his mother had suggested that she invite Marie to dinner the following week, Tommy's lack of enthusiasm gave her a disheartening moment.

While she may have entertained the selfish thought that it would be hard ever to be second in Tommy's affections, yet when it must happen she so much preferred a dependable girl like Marie to the breezier type of Tommy's choice.

Tommy had not only shown a lack of enthusiasm but he had even thrown cold water on the plan.

"But why invite Marie? Let's have one of the popular girls like Patty Weed. I almost never get a chance to see her without half a dozen others clamoring for her attention."

Business may have had its boring moments to Tommy Peters. But let it be whispered that some other firm was on the trail of a coveted contract, then keep your eyes on Tommy. No battle charger ever reared a prouder head or plunged more fiercely into the fray.

When Tommy was himself again after the blinding flash from the shining hat and the brilliant beauty of the noble car, it was time to close the office door on business cares and triumphs.

Neither did Marie fathom the mystery of Tommy's breezy entrance that evening into their little family group and his persistence in remaining until one after another had slunk inconspicuously away.

She forgot her wretched morning filled with the disappointment over the ruined hat and her first real sacrifice in giving it away. She even forgot her constructive afternoon filled with plans for other millinery. No two hats had ever been alike, but now the rule must be made elastic. Perhaps Madame Guyere might have other golden clouds of plumage and she must have cloth of gold.

Something For Nothing

By Claire Wesson

EVER since he won $10 for correctly guessing the number of beans in a jar during a contest when he was in high school, Edwin Gray had been obsessed with the thought of winning prizes, or, in other words, of getting something for nothing. There was nothing in the shape of a contest that he didn't try, and he had a large range of subjects to experiment with, but Lady Luck wasn't with him.

Finally when one of the big dailies announced they would give $50 for $2 bills of certain serial numbers Edwin immediately saw fortune before him. He began saving every $2 bill he became the possessor of, often at a great inconvenience, for he absolutely refused to part with one. He even went so far as to borrow a dollar now and then, and the final folly came when he drew on his bank account. He began to hope at last the contest would close before his entire amount of money became converted into $2 bills; his roll of bills became so large he had difficulty in carrying it around, but he wanted them handy so he could scan their numbers as the editions of the paper came out.

Now, Edwin had an aunt in the country who studied bargains in the papers as assiduously as her nephew trained for prizes, but, unfortunately for him, she seldom could get to the city to do her own shopping and delegated Edwin to do it for her. The last commission was a large order for kitchen utensils. Edwin said uncomplimentary things about relatives in general and his aunt in particular as he made ready to execute her errand.

The kitchenware department was crowded with women eagerly pulling over the various bargains when Edwin descended into the melee. He wandered aimlessly about, his list in his hand, until at last he attracted the attention of a tired-looking salesgirl who evidently felt it would be a relief to wait on a man, after her fussy female customers. As most of the articles his aunt wanted could be obtained from the one counter, Edwin felt that, after all, his aunt wasn't so very unreasonable, at that.

Of course the shy blue eyes looking into his, as they discussed the merits of the various kinds of double boilers, had nothing to do with it, but Edwin was sure he had never before found a salesgirl to be so pleasant and helpful. She even went with him to the other counter he had to to visit and offered him advice about selecting the remainder of things on his list, then they came back to her own counter and she made out the slip.

Edwin gave a bill in payment that necessitated quite a good bit of change in return. He fervently hoped it would contain a lucky two; if it did he certainly felt justified in keeping it for himself. He surreptitiously drew the list of numbers for that day from his pocket as he waited. He did not notice the little salesgirl as she also drew a similar slip from the pocket of her apron.

Finally his change came. The girl slowly drew the crumpled bunch from the carrier and smoothed it out, and somehow Edwin found himself watching her face instead of his change. As she smoothed out the last bill, a two dollar one, she gave a little cry and paled slightly. They both bent their heads over it and looked, then frankly consulted their lists. There it was, a winning number.

Edwin felt a delicious thrill, $50 for which he had not done a single stroke of work.

Then he looked at the girl, who was regarding him with a wistful smile, "I'm so glad you got it," she said softly.

At 5:30 that night Edwin's feet carried to the employe's door of the store where the little clerk worked. She looked more tired and pale than before, in her shabby little suit and hat. To Edwin it seemed the most natural thing in the world to fall into step with her and place his hand carefully under her elbow at the crossings. And it seemed the most natural thing also to have her tell him how much she had been tempted to slip out the lucky bill and replace it with one of her own when his change came. Also, it seemed to Edwin that everything had happened just as it was ordained to happen when he had the right to slip the crisp bills in his wife's handbag as she shopped for furnishings for their shining new kitchen.

The Main Incidents

By Margaret Taylor

SHAWNEEN is one of those tiny new England towns that make you say to yourself as you motor through, "Now, what could happen in a sleepy town like that?"

Well, life goes on here about the same as in other places. There are the main incidents—birth and death and all the other things that come between.

Be that as it may, Enid Chevery thought that Shawneen was decidedly out of things. Her resentment grew daily until she had definitely come to a decision in her own mind to cast her cares to the wind and spend her future days as she really desired to do.

"Mother, we've got to go!" Her two children clamored to be off, for the school bus was almost at the door.

"Kiss me good-by," she exclaimed, as she drew them to her. Hastily they pressed their lips against her cheek, but still she held them to her.

"Mother, the bus won't wait!" they cried, so reluctantly she released them.

"Neither does life wait," she murmured to herself. "Why should I give up happiness when it is offered to me?"

Again in her mind she sketched for herself some charming pictures of the Summer evenings just past. Stolen sweetness, those moments she had spent with Guy King, the New York artist, who had boarded with them all the Summer.

She saw herself again alone with him in the long twilight, that enchanting time when the boys were in bed and Sidney, her husband, was busy in the barns doing the last chores of the long day. Once or twice Guy's fingers had found hers, and a warm, delicious thrill had shot through her body, making her forget her children and Sidney and everything that irked her.

"Why waste yourself, Enid?" Guy had tempted her. "Enid, dear—"

How could life be the same after that? Oh, the monotony of doing the same things in the same way, day after day, in the same place!

No one to talk to but Sidney, who, while he loved her, seemed too tired to say the love words she hungered for, no one but the children, who asked all and gave nothing, or so Enid thought.

The telephone broke in on her thoughts—she had been waiting for this call.

"Says: 'Shall be waiting for you today,' and it's signed just letter "G." Get it?"

"Yes, thank you Joe," Enid replied. "And, oh, Joe, don't save a copy of it." She hung up the receiver and, going into her bare little bedroom, packed her bag rapidly. This was market day for Sidney, and the children of course, were at school. She tried not to think of them, for they represented care and responsibility, and she wanted to be done with all that. Henceforth, joy should be hers as she stepped into the whirl of the middle of life. She wished, as she passed through the door, that she had had time to put the house to rights and had looked up the children's warmer underwear. But she ran a little as she went down the road and never looked back.

Joe Beck was tagging a crate which held several collie puppies when she arrived at the station.

"Cute, ain't they, Mrs. Chevery?" he asked as she came near. "But look, ain't it a shame the mother collie has broke her rope and followed her pups to the station?" The dog was leaping about, barking anxiously as she tried to caress her babies between the slats in the crate, and Enid felt a stab of remorse as she watched the scene.

A train (not Enid's) came in, and Joe lifted the crate of puppies into the baggage compartment. The mother dog danced after him, barking pitifully as the train started up. Joe put his hand on the dog's collar as he tried to quiet her. Tears and anguish were in the dog's bark as the train gathered speed; then, with a mighty effort, the collie slipped her collar and dashed after the baggage car.

Instantly the dog was swept beneath the train and the heavy wheels rolled on. Enid screamed, then screamed again, as the collie gave one yelp of pain, pitifully agonizing.

Enid closed her eyes and sat down, weak and shaken, upon the station steps. Yet to the dog was death not kinder, sweeter than separation? Mother love! Didn't Enid's babies mean as much to her as the puppies had meant to the collie?

She had been mad to think she could forget the children! She couldn't! This mother instinct had been handed down to her since the beginning of time and who was she to fight it? No matter what she desired for herself, this bigger thing would always come first.

She suddenly realized that if she had left them she, herself would have lost the most of all. She knew now that this mother love was a force beyond her control and it would always thwart love that was selfish.

Guy King's sort of love would have left her dry and stagnant, but this other kind would keep her forever in the gladsome middle of life, even in Shawneen.

"Joe," she called, "will you send this telegram?"

It was to Guy King and it stated simply, "I'm never coming."

You might say nothing happens in a town like this, but it does. There are the main incidents—birth and death and all the other things that come between.

Never Say Die

By Hazel Courtney

I THINK the patient in No. 36 is going to die," gasped the young little nurse, who had just married a poor, but ambitious cub reporter.

"Never say die," the superintendent of nurses rebuked her, looking up for a moment from the charts of Ward L. "We never say die in this hospital. Please remember that, Mrs. Gladden."

The superintendent turned to the head nurse.

"Better call the doctor," she advised. "I'll look in on 36 for a minute. Just keep up the patient's courage, Mrs. Gladden. That's all any of us can do now."

She went with the young little nurse into the patient's room. She laid a cool, efficient hand on the girl's fevered brow. Her voice was the croon of a mother soothing her tired child.

"Just hold on, little one," she murmured to her. "You're coming through all right."

Lenora Gladden took the superintendent's place again at the bedside, and kept up the patient's courage. She had a great stock of courage herself from which to draw. That was the stock on which she had married young Winthrop Gladden—courage, combined with love and a meagre salary. She "specialed" at the hospital, where she had trained, in order to stretch the salary and buy furniture for the love nest.

No. 36 rallied, and lived. Just before her discharge, young Winthrop Gladden was carried into the hospital, white, mangled and unconscious. He had been after a big scoop—and had gotten it, the most sensational fire in the history of the newspaper. After getting it, however, and reporting it over the wire, he had been scooped out from under his car. After the fire chief's bell had been disentangled from his leg, and the shattered windshield from his own car had been dislodged from around his neck, he had been rushed to the hospital.

Lenore went immediately on the case. Her own patient was out of danger, and did not need her. She refused to call in a night special. She insisted on taking the case entirely by herself, although the superintendent installed a night special within call in the corridor.

After two operations, his condition became weaker and weaker.

"Never say die," murmured Lenore, bravely, through set lips. She changed the ice packs with firm fingers. The superintendent came noiselessly into the room to smile encouragement.

"We must hope for the best," said she. "It's all any of us can do."

"Never say die," insisted Lenore.

The superintendent of nurses looked at the still, set face, like a bit of parchment cut against the pillow. Even her dauntless heart contracted with the hopelessness of the case. Only that morning the doctor had said, "We can do no more. He will probably just sleep himself out without gaining consciousness."

"Win," Lenore murmured into his ear, gently smoothing the damp hair on his temples, and her voice was firm, "Don't you hear me, dear? You are not going to die."

There was no sign, no movement from the form on the bed. Lenore sat down patiently. She was tireless. For 48 hours she had not slept. Nobody could drive her from the room. She had changed ice packs, and filled hot water bottles until her hands moved mechanically. She did not even notice the superintendent of nurses, who sat down in a rocking chair to watch with her. There was no sound save the gasping breaths of the sick man, and the patter of rubber-soled feet in the corridor outside.

Lenore changed the ice packs again, then leaned her fair head against the patient's bandaged arm. In the dim light of the room, her face looked like a small, white blot, just as white as the sick man's.

"Oh, God," she whispered against the bandage, "just help me to make him bear. I shall never say die. I shall not even think it, unless it be thy will that I must. Win, win, try to live, dear."

There was a stir from the sick man, so slight as to be barely felt by Lenore. His eyes rolled open. The superintendent of nurses leaned forward, breathless.

"The danger is not over yet," he said, as he went down the stairs a few minutes later with the superintendent after a look at the patient, "but this improvement is miraculous. With constant care he will pull through. But, for goodness' sake, put that young thing to bed, and put that night special in her place. Drug her if you have to, or we'll have another patient on our hands. She has done all she can, for the time being."

The supperintendent found her asleep with both hands clasped about one of Winthrop's bandaged arms, a contented smile on her pretty face. She called in the night special, and between them they lifted her to the couch, and covered her with a blanket. Her eyes opened for just a moment.

"Never say die," she sighed, drowsily.

Broken Bits of Beauty

By Joella Johnson

IT is always my custom, at half-past six of a clear evening, to punctiliously wrap on the master's (even I, his secretary, call him that) always barred door, call, "Half-past six, master, our walk, you konw," and wait in respectful patience till the master, in great-coat and bowler, opens his study door.

We are all rather in awe of the master. He writes quite un-understandable books, receives immense sums for them, and is known as the critics' delight. That is, they scarcely need go to the trouble of wading through his fearsome stuff. They have definitely decided that he is a genius, so they merely skim a page or two, catalog the names of the principal characters, and write glowing, wholly diverse columns about the greatness of the volume.

Martha could tell you a few things. Martha cooks for the master. "Fussy old woman," she grumbles. "Can't eat this, won't eat that. Sure, he threw them biscuits clean across the table."

Jennie, too, Jennie sees to the master's room. Jennie could tell you he has a passion for old rose pajamas. And that once he cuffed her soundly on the ear when she spilled a bottle of his favorite perfume.

So, too, James. James drives the master. He—in his own words—could "spill a few beans" as to how he drives the master hither and yon in avid search for a bargain. And how his arms are often quite loaded down with articles "cash and carry."

Oh, we know the master well enough. And when I venture to the servants' sitting room, I have often heard him alluded to as "crazy old crank. Nut, that's what!"

Tonight we walked across the Common. The stars blinked down, kindly, patiently. We scarcey spoke. Inevitably we sit for a while on a bench with a particularly inviting down-and-outer. The master is, naturally, a psychologist.

Presently he spoke. "That bench yonder. Interesting derelict. Looks as if he had a fund of memories. Try him out, Belloc."

That is always my business. The master is far too awesome to inspire the confidence of the usual bench warmer. Much to his chagrin he has yielded the task to me. And he says, with his heavy humor, that perhaps in me they sense a kinship. Which he doesn't realize, is rather a compliment.

Eventually we gained the bench and sank down beside the derelict, I in the middle, murmuring. "Evening," in my pleasantest manner.

I looked at the man. He was ragged, unkempt, ill-smelling, but there was something about his eyes—great dark eyes, visioning.

Immediately he asked me for a match, made an elaborate show of searching through his pockets, murmured an apology and asked for a cigarette.

Presently the three of us were contentedly smoking, the master puffing at an inlaid pipe, gift of a Mahajarah or someone.

"Beautiful night!" I observed.

The beauty of this illiterate man's metphor amazed me. The master has never written an exquisite bit like that.

"Look here," I said to him, "you're rather a poet, aren't you?"

"Poet?" he asked shyly, puzzled. "I ain't never wrote no pome."

I couldn't smile at the words. "But you'd like to, eh?" I persisted.

He eyed me gravely, and I looked at him sympathetically.

"Nights," he began encouraged, "when it ain't so cold and me chist don't bother me, I sits here on this bench, alone, and looks at God. I come here time enough to see Him paint the sunset; them purple clouds, some kinda orange pinkish, too, and gold. And then I hears Him whispering to the trees. I don't know what, but all them leaves take wing and floats up attar Him."

The master stirred impatiently. He always finds belief in God annoying. His voice rumbled out, "I suppose, you there, you, believe in God?"

The man peered past me and gazed steadfastly at the master.

"You don't," he commented softly.

"How do you know that?" I involuntarily asked.

"He don't look like a man wot's happy."

I looked at the master. He was scowling fiercely, there were ugly lines about his mouth, with his great walking stick he was scribbling—no doubt "fool"—on the ground, his eyes habitually moody, downcast.

I looked at the derelict. His visioning eyes were intent on the sky, his lips were parted, almost, they smiled. He might have been listening to the Voice.

"You do believe," I said gently.

His eyes flashed in mine.

"I shall write a treatise," he declared vehemently, "anent the awfulness of contentment. The fearful rut one in such a state wallows in. I shall, eh?"

"Yes, master," I said respectfully.

The Angel of Death

By Claire Wesson

THE living room in the suburban home of the Livingston family was alive with cheerful light and friendly chatter. "Daddy Jim" was giving his "annual farewell party"—the little festivity that always preceded his shooting trip to the Maine woods. It followed the family's return from their vacation, and while Mrs. Livingston put the house in order for the impending Fall season, her husband shouldered his gun, journeyed back of Polar Springs and, accompanied by a guide who had cooked his meals and cleaned his rifle once a year for a decade, lost himself in the great pine woods.

He was as eager to go this year as ever, and still he experienced a feeling of nervousness. This was due to the fact that last year, while he was away and out of touch with civilization, Mrs. Livingston had been suddenly taken ill. She recovered quickly. However, for a few hours her case had seemed dangerous. A wire had been sent to the husband which he did not receive until three weeks had passed. When he did get it, he also found another telling him to disregard the alarming message. But he came home nevertheless, thanking God for his wife's speedy recovery and promising himself that he would never again permit himself to get so completely out of touch with his dear ones.

Among the guests on the evening of the farewell was Dr. Nelson C—, an old friend of the family and its physician for years. He and Livingston were chatting and the latter had just outlined a plan of communications to the doctor.

"I think I can fix it all without much trouble," said the host, "Instead of taking only my usual guide I'll take an Indian boy along and send him every night to some place where there is a telephone. I am sure I can make out a route that will make this possible. I'll leave word in the telegraph office and if a mes comes for me I'll have it a few hours after it was sent.

"You look as though you had seen a ghost," said Livingston. "What's up?"

The other shook his head and passed his hand across his forehead. Then, after a pause: "I am very glad you will make this arrangement," he said at length. "One can never tell. Both your wife and little Jim are in splendid health, but it isn't the wisest thing to get out of touch with the world all the same.

The next morning Livingston took affectionate leave from his wife and just before going stopped at little Jim's crib. There lay the chubby youngster, rosy-cheeked and sturdy-limbed, the picture of health, one hand holding tightly to a toy dog that was his inseperable companion.

The next morning found Livingston in the hut of his guide. Before joining the woodsmen he had made detailed arrangements with the telegraph office and had acquainted the man in charge with the relay system he had devised and his bitter experience of the year before that had inspired it. Then he set out with the guide and a young half-breed for the deer country.

When night came the Indian lad was dispatched to a village three miles distant to communicate by telephone with the telegraph office. He returned about midnight, announcing that no telegram had been received at Poland Springs for Livingston.

But exactly 24 hours later, on the halfbreed's second return, he brought a message painfully copied from the words he had heard over the telephone.

It read: "Little Jim is very ill. Mother."

Another 24 hours and, Livingston, pale as a ghost from fear and the fatigue of travel, once more stood in his own home. He had come too late—the child had developed "black" diphtheria and was near death. He died that night, despite frantic efforts to save him, Dr. C— desperately working over the little patient.

Later when the first despair had subsided the two men were discussing the child's case. Presently Dr. C— said:

"Do you remember the time I stared so out in the hall and you inquired whether I had seen a ghost? What I saw was an angelic winged figure, robed in white, coming down the stairs with little Jim in his arms. I could not speak of it at the time, but when you told me of your arrangements to keep in touch with the family, I felt greatly relieved—for I feared then that the boy, though in the bloom of health, was in desperate danger."

NOT ANOTHER NIBBLE!

Now that his eyes had grown accustomed to the dim light, Pat the Dog could see clearly, even to the farthest corner of the baggage car. It hadn't been the truth when he had told Mr. Rat he longed for sharp teeth like Mr. Rat's own so he could gnaw the peephole bigger to see out of.

Pat the Dog had told a fib, the first in all his young life. So, quite naturally, Pat was ashamed of himself, so ashamed he hung his head and drew back into the box as far as he could. He must have looked as guilty as he felt, for almost immediately the wise Rat guessed all was not as it should be.

Mr. Rat stopped nibbling, poked his sharp head through the hole and stared at Pat.

"What's wrong Dog?" squeaked he after a moment's pause, during which Pat wondered if Ratty were going to jump through the opening, and shivered, for a Rat outside the box was one thing while a Rat inside was another.

"Why don't you look me in the eye? Are you afraid? What of?"

Pat, not knowing just what to say, said nothing at all. No answer to his questions! Mr. Rat was puzzled. He tapped on the floor with his tail—a habit Rats have when they are thinking very hard. Somehow this must have helped him, for suddenly Ratty gave a squeal so sharp that Pat jumped and bumped his head against the box's side.

"Cheese and crackers. Where have my sharp wits been, I wonder? Wool gathering, certainly, or long ago I should have guessed what you were up to! You don't care a snap about seeing the better. You want to get out of the box, you do, and you thought to fool me into making these holes large enough for you to jump through. What a foolish Rat I've been! If you hadn't hung your head I might have gone on gnawing and gnawing, and by and by you'd have leaped and I'd have been shaken to pieces for my pains. I'm on to your tricks now, though! No more aid will you get from me, No, sir, not a single nibble!'"

Next: "Rat Frees Pat."

Auto Afire, Woman Jumps To Death

Mrs. Jane Wyers Of Norristown Frightened By Crossed Wires Blaze

NORRISTOWN, Sept. 16.—Jumping from her husband's automobile when it suddenly caught fire near Cedars, Mrs. Jane Wyers age 54, wife of Walter Wyers of 210 Summit street, Norristown, sustained fatal injuries when her head struck the macadam road with such force her skull being fractured. Mrs. Wyers was riding in the rear seat of the auto. Her husband was driving.

Electrical wires near the rear light became tangled causing a short circuit and the car was ignited.

Frightened Mrs. Wyers shouted to her husband to stop the car. He soon brought the auto to a halt but Mrs. Wyers jumped from it before it stopped. A quick examination by her husband revealed she was seriously hurt and the Montgomery hospital ambulance was summoned. Mrs. Wyers was pronounmed dead when the local medicinal institution was reached.

It was stated that Mrs. Wyers became excited due to the smoke and feared the blaze might communicate to the gasoline tank.

Mother Is On Trial; Infanticide Charge

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—A jury in which sat one lone woman today was to hear a second day's testimony in the trial of Mrs. Mildred Spiegelhalter, 29, of Conemaugh, charged with infanticide in connection with the finding of the body of a newly-born male child near Mineral Point, Conemaugh township.

The defense today was to begin building its case following testimony of Edward Poorman, who told of finding the infant's body, and of Oscar Davis, Conemaugh undertaker, who was placed in charge of the body by county officials.

Mrs. Spiegelhalter pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge John E. Evans at the opening of the trial.

FAMOUS CASTLE FIRE DESTROYED

EDINBURG, Scotland, Sept. 16.—Cluny Castle, one of Scotland's most palatial mansions, owned by Lady Emily Cathcart, was partially destroyed by fire during the night, it became known early today. The damage was estimated at $350,000.

Lady Cathcart was entertaining a large number of guests when the flames were discovered. Hostess and guests were forced to take refuge in neighboring farmhouses. None was injured.

Merely to let the other fellow talk doesn't prove you tolerant. Stay and listen.

A scare may not indicate glory. It may indicate some surgeon's curiosity.

Baker Pitches Three-Hit Game

HUGHES-HOOVER BATTING STARS

The Methodists and Central Presbyterians got the jump on Jupiter Pluvius in the first game of the Church league championship at Centennial field on Wednesday night and then the Methodists got the jump on the Central Presbyterians by toppling them 3 to 1 in a fast encounter in which Ralph Baker pitched brilliant ball. The game was halted in the fifth inning on account of rain and darkness.

The Presbyterians could do nothing with the delivery of Baker after the first inning and he allowed but three hits during the time that playing was possible. The Presbyians scored their lone tally in the first inning Wilson and J. Carson the first two men to face Baker smeared the stitched ball for safe hits, then Baker developed a streak of wildness and walked two men, forcing in the lone run that was destined to suffice for the Presbyterians but Baker settled down and the side was retired with two batters whiffing the breezes and the third going out on a grounder that Lockley gathered in.

The Methodists had a hard time solving Bush in the first inning one man reached base but was forced at second and the next two men grounded out.

Baker Invincible.

In the second inning and for the remainder of the game Baker had the Presbyterians eating out of his hand and allowed but one hit after that terrible first chapter.

The Methodists got to Bush in the third inning for their three tallies. Hoover started things to humming by singling to center, Brooks also singled, E. Lockley filled the bases with a perfect bunt and two runners raced home when Leonard hit through second base. Hughes beat out a bunt and Baker made first on a passed ball with Lockley scoring.

Both teams played brilliant ball with the Methodists turning in a perfect game in this regard and the Presbyterians had a couple of miscues.

Hughes and Hoover with two hits apiece led the Methodists with the sticks while J. Carson with a pair of hits including a double was the only Presbyterian batter able to solve the deceptive delivery of Baker with any degree of effectiveness.

Series Game To Be Played Friday At Croton Field

First M. E. And Central Presbyterians Battle In Series Game Friday

Due to the fact that the New Castle and Ellwood City teams will utilize Centennial Field for their "Little World's Series" game on Friday night, the Church League series has been moved to the Croton Field. The game will start at 6 o'clock.

The Methodists in a postponed game played last night at Centennial Field took the Presbyterians into camp by a score of 3 to 1, but Manager Weiss is not discouraged and freely predicts that his boys will come through and deadlock the series.

The Presbyterians will likely use Melder in the Friday night game, with the Methodists sending Leonard to the mound.

Hamilton and Black will officiate.

NO REASON TO DOUTHIT

Cardinal Fans Call Youngster Great Outfielder

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

No one would mistake young Taylor Douthit, Cardinal centerfielder for Tris Speaker or Ty Cobb after a close scrutiny of the lad. Especially at the plate. He hits from the third base side and everybody knows Cobb and Speaker constantly violate the rules of etiquet and turn their backs on the first baseman while batting.

Douthit may lack a bit of the finesse of these matters in centerfield too. But try to buy him from the St. Louis Cardinals.

He is quietly and unobtrusively struggling along doing a bit more than his share to carry the St. Louis Cardinals along at the top of the National league heap and keep the hope of a flag flopping up and down in the breasts of Missourians.

This is Douthit's first season as a regular with the club which makes his work all the more remarkable. The St. Louis club has owned him for two or three years but after acquiring him from the Ft. Smith club of the Western association they farmed him out first to St. Joseph in the same outfit and then to Milwaukee. It wasn't until he had won his spurs with the American association outfit last season that the Cards decided he was ripe.

Witth the Milwaukee team Douthit hit .372 in 92 games and stole 26 bases. With the Cardinals he has maintained a fair batting average —above .300 and is playing good ball in center. He has a world of speed. The knowledge of batters that comes with experience will make him a more valuable outfielder in the coming campaigns. His main fault at bat is an apparent awkwardness. This doesn't prevent him however from connecting with the ball. And after all that is the main purpose in making faces at the pitcher.

There may be sweeter centerfielders among the younger generation of major leaguers but every durned baseball bug in St. Louis and suburbs will douthit if you try

Kendrick Leaves Bout Up To Tex

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—It is up to "Tex" Rickard to defend the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship bout against threatened legal complications, Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick asserted today.

The mayor added that it is Rickard's concern to check the efforts of the Chicago Coliseum club to halt the bout.

"I'm not at all worried," Rickard told visitors today, "about the outcome. I know it is aimed at Jack Dempsey. It does not involve Tunney, or the sesqui, or me, who would be the losers if the injunction were enforced. But if the injunction is sent into this state, the fight will in all probability go on anyway, and the worst that could happen would be that Dempsey would be fined $200 for contempt of court."

Mrs. Elliott-Lynn, England's most famous woman aviator is also a noted athlete and was chosen to represent Britain in the javelin contests at the Women's international games at Gothenburg.

TENNIS KINGS BATTLE TODAY

Tilden Defeats Arnold W. Jones In Five Sets

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16.—America's tennis "Big Four" once again faces the challenge of France's impetuous young invaders, this time with the national singles championship at stake.

Surviving the third round of the title tournament at the West Side club's stadium yesterday, the four American aces will go into the quarter finals today against the same opponents they turned back in the Davis cup challenge round last week.

This is the way the Franco-American battle lines will be drawn in today's matches, starting at 2:30 p. m.:

William T. Tilden II vs. Henri Cochet, Vincent Richards vs. Jacques Brugnon, Richard N. Williams II vs. Rene Lacoste and William M. Johnston vs. Jean Borotra.

Tilden's battle in defense of the crown he has worn for the last six years found him extended for the third straight day, carried to the full limit of five sets by Arnold W. Jones of Providence, R. I., former Yale captain. Nevertheless, the national champion's closing flourish not only carried him to victory by scores of 7-9, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, but revealed him as closer to his real form than at any time this week.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—The Reds still lead the Cardinals by half a game this morning, as both teams won yesterday. The Pirates, however, lost to the Giants and now trail the Cardinals by three full games. The Cubs lost two games and passed out of the picture entirely.

Cleveland's pennant hopes received a damaging setback when the Yankees won the first game of the crucial series, increasing their lead to six and one-half games. The two teams will play a double-header today.

The Yanks can now clinch the pennant by winning seven of their remaining thirteen contests, even if the Indians win all their remaining games.

Light Workout For High Team

Scrimmage Session More Than Likely Will Fill Bill For This Afternoon.

NEW MEN DISPLAY NECESSARY PUNCH

By "Bugs" Walther.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh was extremely gracious to the High School gridders on Wednesday afternoon, and crossed everyone up including himself by giving the squad an easy session, that required but little over an hour.

For the greater part of Wednesday afternoon the squad was sent through a light signal drill, with a few fundamentals thrown in. The boys are advancing rapidly and the coach realizes that it is best not to over-train the youngsters.

Today is another matter however and it is more than a possibility that the boys will be put through a hard scrimmage session, their final hard workout before the season swings into action on Saturday.

Friday the team will indulge in a light signal drill with no hard work being cut-out for them, the mentor would rather utilize Friday as a rest period.

The Red and Black combination that will start the opening game is coming along fine. There are but four new members added to the veteran crew that was left over from the season of 1925, they are: —W. Mott, tackle, Burns and Ostrosky, ends, and Harper at Fullback. The new comers have added the necessary strength to the team and together with Millison, Ulrich, Christman, Captain Robinson, Klaber, Turk, Richards and Dickson they form one of the finest looking outfits that ever represented the local high school.

Mars High with a strong team composed of ten lettermen from last year will be the opponents in the curtain raiser and according to reports from the Butler County town they have a first class team this year and are figuring on a victory here Saturday.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

It is interesting, the prominent part the name of Jack Kearns is playing in the news, discussions, predictions and whatnot anent the coming melee between Jack Practical Dempsey and Gene Philosopher Tunney.

No matter what the real cause may be Dempsey's defeat, if he is defeated, will be attributed by scores to the absence of Jack Kearns from his corner.

This belief will be adhered to despite whatever injustice it might heap upon Tunney, were he to be victor.

Despite, too, whatever the real cause of Dempsey's defeat, if it comes, up to and including the powerful sock needed to knock him flat.

Kearn's ability as a manager was not questioned up to the time he parted company with Dempsey. In fact most folk leaned over backwards in giving Kearns the credit for carrying Dempsey from the ham and egg class to the championship —and a million-dollar championship at that.

However, some of the saner mortals gave Dempsey a bit of the credit, pointing out that the mule kick he carried in both mitts had something to do with the outcome of most of the battles, regardless of the cleverness displayed in his corner.

Kearn's part in Dempsey's success never will be definitely established. But we beg to offer this query.

"What has Kearns done as a manager since leaving Dempsey?"

And the answer is this:

Does this in Kearns seem brilliant?

Kearns took over Walker's contract when all the former's efforts to coax or force Dempsey into retaining his services failed. Walker had not been making as much money out of his title as the other champions—Dempsey, Leonard et al. But not through his failure to fight. The welter king had defended his title and fought no-decision contests and through them his title had been preserved.

Kearns took him in hand. Mickey had one or two fights and then Kearns allowed him to be matched with Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa., welter hope. Latzo promptly gave Walker a drubbing and won the title. Walker now accepts the smaller purse of an ex-champion.

Wherein then, did Kearns shine?

Jones-Evans To Feature Playing In Golf Tourney

Ancient Rivals Matched For Play Today In Amateur Golf Tourney.

JONES FAVORED TO DEFEAT CHICK

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

BALTUSROL COUNTRY CLUB, SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 16.—Robert T. Bobby Jones, Jr., and Charles Chick Evans, Jr., natural rivals by right of conquest, choice and environment will cross paths today for the first time in six years and great will be the merry throng gamboling over the greensward. I might add that judging from their comparative performances of recent vintage, great will be the defeat of Charles Chick.

The occasion will be the feature of the national amateur golf championship's third round, the remaining attractions coupling the names of George Von Elm and Watts Gunn respective finalists of 1924 and 1925, George Dawson and Eddie Held former public links champion and Francis Ouimet and Fred Wright, citizens of Boston and golfers both.

The round will produce the second meeting in history between Robert T. Bobby and Charles Chick, although they have been high toning the field of competitive golf these many years. Charles Chick holds the first and only decision, gained at Memphis in 1920.

Judging from what has happened during recent years Charles Chick might be disposed to feel that it was all for the best that he had had no personal contact with Robert T. Bobby in the meantime. It wouldn't have done, for instance, for Charles Chick to have darkened the others competitive doorway while Bobby was rushing through the last two amateur fields at Merion and Oakmont. For, had he done so the hungry typewriters might have been without so much fodder this morning and Charles Chick might have been without to much optimism.

Before he left Chicago for the tournament Charles announced that it would be his pleasure to take issue with Mr. Jones when and if possible, with the commendable idea that he, Charles Chick could and would emerge the victor.

The round will be decided on a basis of 36 holes and both men are certain to make the required weight of 200 pounds of applied energy behind each shot.

Harvard Star Turns Pro For Coming Season

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 16—Edwin Gehrke, one of the greatest backs that ever sported a Harvard uniform, has followed the lead set by "Red" Grange and joined the ranks of the professionals.

Gehrke relinquished a business career in New York to make his living on the gridiron and has affixed his signature on the dotted line proffered by Robert K. McKirdy, director of the local pro team.

For years, promoters have been trying in vain to persuade Harvard stars to become professional. Gehrke is the first crimson to surrender to the call of the dollar.

Gehrke starred in the Harvard backfield from 1922 to 1924 and graduated in 1925. He is known to be phenomenally consistent and reliable player, as Princeton and Yale elevens can testify.

Kirkwood Will Play In Foursome Friday

He Will Be Paired With Dr. J. R. Cooper, Former Club Champion

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance at the Field club of Joe Kirkwood, Australian champion and one of the leading golfers of this country, on Friday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock daylight saving time.

Kirkwood will appear in a foursome with three of the outstanding golfers of the New Castle Field club. He has been paired with Dr. J. R. Cooper, champion of the field club last year and runnerup in the championship tournament this year. Cooper is a steady consistent player and will keep even Kirkwood going at his best to turn in a better score than he.

The other members of the foursome are to be Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional, who holds the low net score for the course, and W. M. Nunn, the club champion for the present year.

The foursome will play eighteen holes and during the afternoon, Kirkwood, who is noted for his ability at making hard and tricky shots, will demonstrate his well known ability along those lines.

At the close of the play by the foursome, Kirkwood will give a lecture for half an hour, on the finer points of golf. Reports received by the club officials and Captain Smith, club professional, indicate that golfers from the Beaver Valley, Ellwood City, Grove City, Sharon, Greenville, Youngstown and many other points will be on hand.

A small fee of $1.50 is being charged to cover the expense of having Kirkwood appear here.

New Castle-Ellwood Game Is Postponed

Jupiter Pluvius decided that the players in the "Little World's Series" of Lawrence county needed a rest, and therefore the gentleman in mention went on record Wednesday night and again this morning with a deluge of rain-water that didn't tend to make the playing field at Centennial park any better, and for that very reason the game scheduled for tonight was called off.

The New Castle team now has the jump on Ellwood City with two victories in the bag to none for Ellwood City, but Connie Wardman who looks after the destinies of the County leaguers in the "Tube City" opines that Jamison will take the third game of the series from Manager Steen's O. & P. league team.

Manager Steen will use either Coen, Hospidore or himself on the mound Friday night, was the indication today. The New Castle lineup for tomorrow night weather permitting such indulgence will be the same as used in the first two games. Ellwood City will use the same lineup, Wardman said.

Interest in the series is at fever heat here and also in Ellwood City, where the boys freely predict that Ellwood City is not out of the running yet and that they intend to open up with a few tricks out of the sack in the third game, all of which makes mighty interesting copy anyway.

Now providing the weatherman smiles upon Centennial Field Friday night the third game of the series will start at 6 o'clock, daylight savings time.

United Brethren Officers Take Up New Assignments

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Second day's session of the Allegheny conference of the United Brethren of Christ opened here today with Bishop William M. Bell of Harrisburg presiding and newly elected officers including Rev. Jas. J. Funk of McKeesport, recording secretary at their posts.

A judiciary committee was to be appointed for the conference today by Bishop Bell. Included in the list of officer chosen at the first day's sessions were Rev. Dr. W. G. Fulton, Homestead statistical secretary Rev. Charles G. White, Juniata, official reporter; Rev. B. F. Bungard, Altoona, preceptor and Miss Verna Biery, Port Treverton, accompanist.

Among those in attendance at the conference was Rev. Dr. L. W. Stahl of Greensburg, said to be its oldest active member.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

The Reds maintained their lead in the National League race when Rixey breezed home to a 7 to 2 win over the Dodgers. It was Cincinnati's fifth straight victory from Brooklyn.

The Cardinals stayed within half a game of the Reds by smothering the Phillies, 9 to 2. St. Louis scored four runs in the fourth inning and four more in the eighth.

Pittsburgh lost to the Giants, 6 to 5, when Kelly singled with the bases full. The Pirates now trail the Reds by three and one-half games.

With Genewich and Edwards officiating on the mound, the Braves shoved the Cubs down the ladder by winning both ends of a twin bill, 1 to 0 and 3 to 1.

After beating the Senators 2 to 1 on Washington's errors, Detroit lost the second game 9 to 5.

Aided by the slugging of Purdy, a rookie, the White Sox downed Boston, 5 to 1. Thomas held the Red Sox to four hits.

Mother Acquitted Of Killing Babe

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Mrs. Mildred Spiegelhalter charged with killing her newborn child was acquitted of a charge of infanticide by a jury here today.

The jury which retired after the young mother took the stand in her own behalf, deliberated less than an hour.

Mrs. Spiegelhalter's defense was that the child was born dead and that she had no knowledge of the law relating to burial permits and death certificates.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Alexander Andy, 12, the youngest prisoner ever tried for murder in Westmoreland county, Wednesday afternoon was found "not guilty" by a jury.

The boy was charged with slaying of John King near the Andy residence on March 13, last. The defense contended that Alexander fired at a man prowling outside his home.

London Burglars Get Valuables In Two Audacious Jobs

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 16.—English burglars, who generally know their place, are becoming rather audacious.

The Daily Mail announces that a suitcase belonging to Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, has been stolen. The suitcase is said to have contained important documents.

To add further to the troubles of Scotland Yard, burglars last night broke into the residence of the Marquis of Carisbrooek, cousin of the king, and stole valuable jewels.

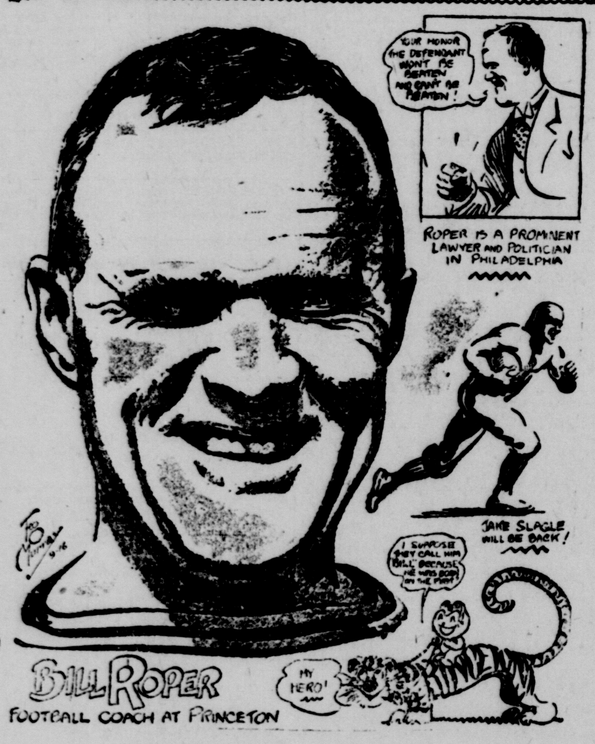
The total annual catch of cod on the grand banks of Newfoundland amounts to over 200,000,000 fish, and this steady drain has continued for hundreds of years, yet the supply shows no signs of diminishing.

Things are simply remarkable until you understand them and then perhaps they are remarkably simple.

A Lawyer-Coach — By Feg Murray



Law and sports seem to go hand in hand of late, and I don't refer to the various attachments, injunctions, writs of mandamus, habeas corpus and hokus pokus which have popped up in connection with the recent activities of Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns. Monte Munn, the big Nebraska legislator, has put the combination of the law and the ring before the public quite satisfactorily of late. But down at Old Nassau for these many years, a prominent lawyer and lawmaker has been mixing his Blackstone with his football, and with great success, too. For Coach Bill Roper of the Princeton football team has been a prominent Philadelphia lawyer and a member of the city council, at the same time whipping the ambitious undergraduates into well-drilled, hard-fighting gridiron machines.

Bill is so good a politician that he has been mentioned for mayor of the City of Brotherly Love, and even for governor of the state that took the Dempsey-Tunney fight away from New York. In fact, Roper has one of the keenest legal minds in the profession, and annually he decides that he must retire from the field of sports to devote all his time and energy to his business.

What will Bill Roper do at Princeton this year? Will the threat of being dropped from the Harvard schedule in 1927 cause the ferocious Tigers to rise to greater heights than ever in their annual battle with the Crimson? Last year, it will be remembered, Princeton was tied by the lowly Navy and then whitewashed by Colgate on successive Saturdays, but came on finely to score 61 points against Harvard and Yale, thus winning the undisputed championship of the "Big Three."

Bill Roper played at Princeton from 1899 to 1901 and has been coaching his Alma Mater for over ten years. He is noted for his ability to develop winning elevens from mediocre material. His 1922 eleven which beat Chicago in one of the most thrilling battles in all football history, was a fine example of the fighting spirit that Roper instills into his pupils.

Feg Murray Says—

"The first thing about Tilden that strikes you," writes a contemporary, "is his catlike grace and agility."

"And the next thing," remarks one of his opponents, "unless you are catlike and agile yourself, is his cannon-ball service."

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 16.—Burgess Walter P. Berner of Sharpsburg, Rocco Belsito and Angelo Yununzzi also of Sharpsburg, today were being held in $2,000 bond each on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibitory laws on orders of Federal Commissioner Roger Knox.

The trio was held after Peter Blazer, former chief of police of Sharpsburg was released in the case because of insufficient evidence.

Dempsey is considerably under the average age at which his predecessors relinquished the heavyweight championship. Sullivan was 34 when Corbett beat him. Corbett lost to Fitzsimmons at the age of 31. Fitzsimmons was 37 when Jeffries took the title from him. Jeffries quit the game at 30. Jack Johnson lost the honors to Jess Willard at 37 and Willard was 36 when Dempsey toppled the crown from his head.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office. HISTORY — The Admission of Minnesota — 1858. — by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD — © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

IN 1858, MINNESOTA WAS ADMITTED TO THE UNION AS A STATE. PART OF MINNESOTA HAD BEEN ACQUIRED BY THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR. THE REMAINDER WAS INCLUDED IN THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE (1803).

FOR A LONG TIME MINNESOTA WAS CALLED UPPER LOUISIANA. THE FIRST SETTLEMENT IN THE REGION WAS MADE AT FORT SNELLING IN 1819. IN 1849, MINNESOTA WAS ORGANIZED AS A TERRITORY, ITS AREA CONTAINING THE PRESENT STATE OF MINNESOTA AND PARTS OF NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA.

SLAVERY WAS BARRED FROM MINNESOTA BY THE NORTHWEST ORDINANCE (1787) AND THE MISSOURI COMPROMISE (1820). AFTER 1844 MANY HARDY IMMIGRANTS FROM THE NORTHERN LANDS OF EUROPE CAME TO SETTLE IN MINNESOTA, ATTRACTED BY ITS VALUABLE TIMBERLANDS AND FERTILE SOIL.

MINNESOTA EARLY BECAME NOTED FOR ITS PRODUCTION OF WHEAT. THE FALLS AND RAPIDS OF ITS RIVERS OFFERED UNLIMITED WATER POWER FOR FLOUR MILLS AND TODAY MINNEAPOLIS (WITH ITS TWIN CITY ST. PAUL) IS THE GREATEST FLOUR MANUFACTURING CENTER IN THE WORLD.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Industrial stocks displayed considerable irregularity and nervousness in the early trading today, the market being dominated principally by the money situation.

After a fairly strong opening, the industrial stocks declined all along the line. Professional selling produced the bulk of this pressure against the market, but there was not sufficient buying power to absorb the offerings except at moderate recessions in prices.

Outside of the money situation, all of the factors affecting stock values appeared to be favorable. Better buying of copper metal and steel products was reported in trade circles and foreign trade figures showed some improvement. The petroleum companies, announced a price cut on West Texas crude, the effect of which was expected to choke off excessive drilling in that section.

Commodity markets were firm, with cotton up about a dollar a bale.

After an early advance to 151, General Motors declined to 148½ and United States Steel lost a point. Industrial stocks were gradually pushed backward to slightly lower price levels, with losses rarely exceeding a point or two. Rails were inactive and generally firm. Stocks of the moving picture companies moved downward sharply, with Warner Brothers sustaining a loss of about 4 points.

Elect Eight Nations To Non-Permanent Seats In League

By S. DUNBAR WEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Eight nations were elected to non-permanent seats in the council of the League of Nations by the league assembly today. A ninth seat still remains to be filled.

The nations elected and the votes they received follow: Colombia, 46; Poland, 45; Chile, 43; Salvador, 42; Belgium, 41; Roumania, 41; Holland, 37; China, 29.

Kidnapped

(International Newsreel)

Oppose Pardon For Willie Fisher

Application for a pardon for Willie Fisher, convicted bank robber, has been opposed by city, county and local bank officials, it was learned here today.

Attorney Wylie McCaslin, representing the Union National Bank, filed the protest with the state pardon board, which was to have heard the case yesterday.

The attorney said that the signers, opposing his application, included city and county officials in addition to all of the bank officials of this city.

Fisher was one of several bandits who held up the Union National bank several years ago and fled with about $50,000, and which has not been recovered.

He was convicted and sentenced to a long term. He was removed from the penitentiary and taken to Fairview, a hospital for the criminal insane. He fled the asylum and was recaptured.

Sometime ago he was returned to the western penitentiary. His plea for a pardon is based on the statement that he wishes to be given his freedom so he can care for his aged mother.

A decision has not yet been handed down by the pardon board.

JOHN DOE IN NEW ROLE AT POLICE COURT

John Doe has been charged with many offenses against the law on the docket of the New Castle police department, but as far as memory serves, never with violation of the parking regulations of the city.

When John was discovered this morning to have violated the parking regulations of this city, the question was asked as to why his name appeared.

Day Sergeant Frank M. Jones explained that it had been returned to him by mail and that the sender had failed to put any name or address with the money. He would appreciate it in the future if persons sending in their payment of fines would always give their name and address so that a proper record might be made.

Passing Of Flapper Heralded At Paris

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The passing of the flapper is announced. Models for fall and winter now being shown while not entirely ignoring her, markedly thrust her into the background in favor of a more distinctly feminine type.

Few flappers of the original model will be seen the coming season, but it is not likely that the flapper will allow herself to be supplanted without a struggle by a more girlish type with long curling hair and frills and ruffles, jabots and high necks and profusely trimmed hats.

Holds 200-Year-Old Ring From Pirate's Chest

SOINT CATHARINES, Sept. 16.—J. W. King of this city, is the possessor of a valuable antique ring which was found in a pirate's chest and is 200 years old. The ring was sent to Mr. King by Fred Sullivan of the City of Bogolousia in South America. Mr. Sullivan was born and raised in Saint Catharines, but is now a timber merchan in South America. The ring has a big opal and is of gold and platinum.

Fewer Alien Visitors Received In England

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Less aliens entered Great Britain during 1925 than during the previous year, according to an official announcement made here. A total of 331,703 aliens entered England during the year and only 2414 were refused admission. Of these, 80 were refused admission on medical grounds.

Tourists from the United States totaled 89,624, but only about 10,000 business visitors, or one-half the number in 1924, came to England in 1925.

Thousands Of Blooms In Georgeous Display At Fall Flower Show

Perhaps it is because the women of the Garden club have worked so hard, or it might be that she is in a particularly benign mood this summer. Whatever the cause, Dame Nature never had more lovelier offspring than she has on display at the Fall Show of the New Castle Garden club which opened today in the Carnegie auditorium and which will continue through Friday.

Gorgeous dahlias, rivalling the sunflower in size and the spectrum in tint, stately gladiolas with their blooms that seem to be the work of a master artist, delphinium and zinnias, phlox and asters, verbenas and late roses, tritoma, scabiosa, iron weed and goldenrod, all the bloom of which Dame Nature boasts are there, creating an ensemble of beauty that leaves one entranced.

Thousands of Blooms.

There are thousands of blooms and seemingly as many colors and shades. Yellows that start at delicate cream and rush on into a golden hue, blues and lavenders, purples and heliotropes, red and orange and each one of them boasting of tints that cannot be named but can be appreciated.

As one steps into the auditorium the giant dahlias seem to reach out a friendly hand. All varieties are there, singles, doubles, cactus and those huge dahlias which seem to measure nearly a foot across. Some of them look as though they might have been intended for a royal conservatory, others as though Nature had been in a jocose mood when she mixed the pigments.

Long tables spread out with their load of beauty, seemingly all prize winners, and certainly all of them wonderful specimens. Baskets of dahlias or gladiolas have for their neighbors, bowls of the smaller flowers, woven in an intricate design and colored with a lavish hand. Then a cluster of delphinium looking much like sticks of delicious candy.

New Bedford Club Represented

One of the features of the show is the woodland glade which is the work of the New Bedford Garden club, a unit of the Lawrence county organization. Although the New Bedford club is a small one, it has a display which is a credit. A corner of the auditorium has been taken over and a woodland scene reproduced which is a beauty. The glade is enhanced by a pool and a rock garden.

Harry Lash, the Carnegie Steel gardener is represented of course. It wouldn't be a show without some of Harry's work. This time he has a country estate in miniature which might be named Oak Grove. In the center is a small house with a spacious lawn surrounding it, and oak sprigs here and there.

The judges, H. C. Richardson, Herman Rapp and John Carman got in this morning and are judging the exhibits this afternoon. They will judge the exhibits of flowers, the table displays being in charge of a local committee.

The time necessary to see the show in the auditorium is well spent. Without a visit there, one can hardly appreciate the luscious beauty of it, and the Garden Club is to be congratulated upon another star of success in a diadem of triumphs.

"The Slick Guy"

Nearly every one of us has seen the checkered-suit person with the velvet tongue. How smoothly he once told of the merits of this product or that—and raked in perfectly good coin for purchases that were often worthless.

The "slick guy" is seldom seen today. When the wise person goes to buy, he knows what is good in value and fair in price.

Simply by glancing over the advertisements in your paper, you can see where to go for the best buys. You can compare values and check up prices without even stirring from your easy chair. You know in advance just what you are going to get and how much it will cost. And you can have the satisfaction that comes from knowing your money is wisely and safely spent.

Nowadays, no one need be at the mercy of the "slick guy." There are still a few people who fail to read the advertisements—and "take a chance." Don't be one of them.

Advertised products are safe buys.

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. Sept 16—Something new every day. Candidates for the Westminster college grid squad in training here since September 1 have grown accustomed to the introduction of a new feature each day. However just when they were confident that Head Coach Dwight "Ryke" Beede must be at the end of his string the new mentor issued a call for blackboard drills during the evening hours.

The first of these was held Tuesday evening at which time a complete review of plays was flashed across the boards supplemented with a drill in defensive play. The next "indoor practice" is scheduled for Thursday evening at which time Beede and his assistant, John Lawther will make a complete review of the recent grid rules. They will be explained in full for the coaches are determined that no games will be dropped because of the lack of a working knowledge of rules.

The time has arrived when Beede must make decisions in regards the comparative abilities of his men. A week from the coming Friday the team will be given its first test. Duquesne University is to be met in this fray at Pittsburgh.

Although the squad is considerably handicapped at the present time due to injuries, Beede is permitting no letup. There is no time for a rest. Much will depend on Lady Luck during the next few days. A few more injuries and the team will be far from its capacity strength in the first game. At present Jim McQuiston one of the leading backfield candidates is suffering with a bad knee that may cause him trouble all year. He will not return to uniform until next Monday. "Red" Hostettler, a husky freshman fullback candidate from Erie has not been near the field this we[illegible]ue to a knee injured in the sc[illegible]mmage last Saturday. "Rusty" Coles, another veteran back has a trick knee which is causing him trouble and incidentally the coaches plenty of worry.

Plastering Work On Hospital Under Way

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—Stuccoing of the Bashline-Rossman hospital is now taking place. The entire building is being given this outside finish, which includes the new addition to the building, as well as the old hospital building. William Miller, local plaster contractor, has the contract for this work, which is about half completed, as well as the plastering of the building. The hospital, when completed, will be a 48-bed institution with a modern operating room and two sun parlors for convalescing patients. The building will be completed, it is expected, in October. The improvements will cost $25,000.

Tearing down of the frame structures in which material was stored during the term of construction of the First Presbyterian church of Grove City, the H. Platt Company of Erie, general contractors on the job, are making ready to depart, their work finished. The church will be completed ready for dedication by the week of October 17. The Jos. Horne Company of Pittsburgh are laying the carpets this week. The pipe organ will be completed by October 1 and the chimes hung.

Placing of the pews will follow the carpet-laying in the church.

The church was started in May of 1925. First plans were for its completion in the spring of the year. Next dedication plans were made for September, with the use of the building planned for Bible school in August. The inside beauty of the structure compensates for the delays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harshaw, daughter Miss Gertrude, left Wednesday for Madison, Wis. Miss Harshaw will matriculate at the University of Wisconsin there. The trip was made overland by auto.

Miss Isabelle Moon, secretary to Dr. W. C. Ketler, president of Grove City College, is taking the second week of her vacation at this time.

Wednesday, Sept. 15, was the last Wednesday on which Grove City business houses will be closed. The closing period extended from June 15 to September 15.

R. E. Ohles, head of the Reo Motor Company, is here making purchases of engines for his sea yacht, Reo Mar III. Mr. Ohles addressed the Grove City Rotary Club at their Tuesday luncheon. The name Reo is derived from his initials and first letter of his name. While here he was shown through the Bessemer Gas Engine Company factory, from which concern were purchased the Diesel type engines that will be used in his yacht.

The Grove City Rotary Club members go to Kitanning today for the round-up of clubs of the 33rd district, being held there. The event is the annual field day for the clubs. A group of 12 local golfers left this morning for Kitanning, where they will spend the day.

More of the members will make the trip later in the day.

The sun parlor of the Colonial Hall of Grove City College is being redecorated along with repairs on other college buildings during this vacation period. It is the intention of the management to provide by changes at this time more dining room for girls. The hall, filled to overflowing long ago with girl students, will also provide accommodations this coming school year for girls living in the cottages adjoining it. An effort is being made to provide accommodations for all the girls who are making application to enter, but the task is herculean, with the demand the most exceptional in the school history, it is announced. There has been a waiting list of girls for some time. The boys are disposed of by finding them rooms in the town. It is expected that the attendance of 650 in 1925 will not only be duplicated this year, but from indications may be increased.

Invitations are out for a luncheon at the home of Miss Louise Shellito on September 21. Invitations for 40 guests have been sent out.

Secretary Davis Pallbearer At Mother's Funeral

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 16.—Secretary of Labor James P. Davis and his three brothers were pallbearers today at the funeral of their mother Mrs. Esther Nicholas Davis who died Tuesday. In keeping with an old Welsh custom the coffin was carried from the family homestead to the Welsh Baptist church where services were held at 2 p. m. David J. Davis, blind father of the labor secretary insisted his sons act as casket bearers.

Hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have been received from all parts of the world among them one from President and Mrs. Coolidge. The entire lower floor of the Davis home was banked with floral offerings, many of them from government officials and various Moose lodges.

He isn't doomed to remain a bachelor until he gets the notion that all ladies covet him.

Through the centuries... to you!

Neither Rome nor diamonds were made in a day, for Nature—like the builders of cities—takes her time. Tight-pressed beneath unnumbered tons of rock, brought forth at last and skillfully cut by the hand of man—truly the diamond comes through the centuries to you! And we, whose task it is to secure genuine stones only, are naturally proud of our collection. Wear a diamond, Nature's triumph of everlasting beauty. It's the only happiness you may really enjoy forever.

No Americans were injured.

Boy Is Acquitted In Murder Case

GREENSBURG, Sept. 16.—Unconcerned, apparently not realizing what had taken place, Alexander Andy, 12 years old, went home with his mother yesterday afternoon after a jury had found him not guilty of murder. He was the youngest prisoner ever tried on a first degree charge in Westmoreland county.

The boy was accused in connection with the death of John King 45 years old in the rear of the Andy home, Sewickley township, the night of March 14. Defense counsel asked last night that a verdict of not guilty be returned because of insufficient evidence, but Judge Whitten ordered the case resumed. The prosecution today asked for a verdict of manslaughter or second degree murder.

MISS ALLISON TO LEAVE FOR EGYPT

Will Leave October 1 To Resume Her Work On The Foreign Mission Field

Miss Mildred Allison, daughter of Mrs. Ida May Alison of Marshall avenue plans to leave Friday, October 1 for New York City where she will sail a few days later on the City of Benares for Cairo, Egypt, to resume her work on the Foreign Mission Field.

Miss Allison has been home on a furlough for about a year. Previous to returning to this city, she was engaged in teaching in the American College at Cairo. On her return to Egypt she will take a course of two years in the School of Oriental Study in the American College where she will learn the language preparatory of doing special missionary work.

Miss Allison goes to the Foreign field under the supervision of the United Presbyterian church. She expects to be away for six years.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. New Castle Drug Corp., McKee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. sells lots of it.
